

Cut It Out!

Are you going to build a house,
A corner or a barn;
Or fix a fence or windmill tower?
If so, a word to warn.

We'll fix you out with best of stuff,
With lumber new and bright,
And you will find by inquiring,
Our prices, too, are RIGHT.

Now don't forget this little rhyme,
If lumber you would buy;
And go and deal with someone else,
Where prices are too high.

And then get sore and cuss your wife,
And kick the dog and cat,
Just take the shears and cut this out,
And paste it in your hat.

From Thursday's Daily.

E. at Denver with trips to Colorado Springs, Golden, Pike's Peak, Lookout Mountain and many other of the scenic spots that surround the Colorado capital.
Mr. Barclay, who was the official representative of the Nebraska Eagles grand aerie, states that the meeting at Denver was a great gathering of the members of the order and indicated the strong growth of the P. O. E., one aerie, that of Seattle, showing a membership of 18,455, and was the largest aerie in attendance at the Denver meeting.
On the way westward Mr. and Mrs. Barclay had a fine time, going all the way there and back in their Studebaker car, and the first night out were at Friend and the second night camped at Imperial. While at Imperial they had the pleasure of meeting a number of former Plattsmouth people, including Will Splitt, George Theroff and Frank Sitzmann and family, and found them all doing very nicely.
While in Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay stopped at Brighton for a few hours and had the pleasure of visiting with the Schiappacasse family, who are engaged in the confectionary business there and have a very nice location as well as a good paying business. TOO MANY SHEIKS AND SHEBAS OUT

Police Find Many on the Street at Late Hours that Should be at Home and Under Cover.

From Thursday's Daily.
The night police force have in the last few weeks had more or less annoyance in seeing that the youthful sheiks and shebas are herded toward home at the late hours of the night and early morning instead of loafing on the streets.
The presence of a number of young girls on the streets at 12 and 1 o'clock at night, apparently with no particular business, has led the police to remind them that it was time they were speeding homeward, but in most cases the advice of the police has fallen on barren ground and the girls remain on the job of sentry duty until the parties they were seeking arrived on the scene and they were able to enjoy a "petting" party before they returned to their homes.
A few evenings ago the police discovered three couples on South Fifth street doing the billing and cooing act and suggested to them that they all go on home as it was past the midnight hour, but the advice was ignored, as the police discovered a little later, when the same bunch was found over on Vine street, they evidently having not been able to get their fill of spooning.
The parties should at least select one of the more secluded spots for their night activities if they are bound to remain out and even better yet, the parents should have a bunk check each evening at "taps" to see that the girls at least are under the parental roof or they may have a great deal to regret.

NAMES BURLINGTON IN BIG DAMAGE SUIT

Youth Asks $25,000 for Loss of Foot Due, He Alleges to the Company's Carelessness.

From Thursday's Daily.
Mrs. Viola Auxier and Wilton Auxier, her seventeen year old son, filed suit for $25,000 damages against the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad in the district court Wednesday morning. The damages sought are in compensation for injuries received by the boy while in the employ of the railroad.
In their petition they allege that on September 15, 1922, Wilton Auxier, then but sixteen years of age, was employed by the railroad to drive a mule hitched to a small car for the purpose of hauling rock to be used in the construction of a road bed.
It is charged that in his work, he was obliged to drive his load over a switch which was of the old type without points where the rails themselves were shifted from side when the switch was thrown. While driving his loaded car over this switch it was derailed which, they allege, was due to the faulty construction of the switch.
The shock of the car leaving the track caused the load of stone to shift and in attempting to control the car the boy got his left foot under the wheels. The wheels passed over his left foot and ankle crushing the bones and tearing the ligaments. Infection then set in which together with the severe nature of the injury necessitated several surgical operations. The result is that the foot and ankle are stiff and immovable and the injury, they allege is permanent and he is incapacitated for life.—State Journal.

ENJOY BAND CONCERT

From Thursday's Daily.
The second band concert of the season was given last night at the court house grounds and a very large number of the residents of the city enjoyed the program presented by the members of the Eagles band. The situation of the concert was not the most ideal for the musicians as they were seated on chairs along the sidewalk at the corner of Fourth and Main streets and were disturbed more or less by the autos passing close by as well as the children who were congregated on the lawn and made more or less disturbance.
The program was very much enjoyed by the crowd and quite a pleasing number from out of the city were in attendance, driving in for both the concert and the Big Bargain Wednesday trading festival.

PLENTY OF TIME

The new hired man had been the most difficult to awaken in all Farmer Haytossor's long experience with that ilk, but he had been at last roused out of bed and was sitting in a state of semi-nobility at the breakfast table. Just to make conversation his host and employer remarked:
"I thought it was going to rain last night."
"Well," yawned the assistant, "I reckon it might before mornin'."—American Legion Weekly.

STIMPSON WITH HAMBURG

From Friday's Daily.
The Hamburg (Ia.) baseball team has secured the services of Stimpson, well known baseball pitcher, who for several seasons was with the Plattsmouth team and later with some of the Omaha amateur teams and from that city went east to the Three-I league and from there to the Boston Red Sox, who still retain their claim on him. Stimpson has developed in fine shape, those who have seen him working this season state, and has a wonderful fast curve that is hard for the batsmen to handle and which he tosses effectively. He will be with Hamburg in the Council Bluffs tournament that will be held in the next few weeks and will materially strengthen the team in meeting the other fast organizations that are entering there and which includes Cornish, Missouri Valley, Council Bluffs, Sheldon, Shenandoah, Sioux City Packers. The tournament will be one of the big baseball events of the year and large crowds are expected at the Broadway park where the games are to be played.
