VAIN THINGS

And turn ye not aside; for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver; for they are vain.—I Samuel xii, 21.

Blessed is the farmer with a full silo.

These air mail pilots make good time because they have fine roads.

Henry Ford says he doesn't want to be president, and Henry usually gets his way.

The average husband has more sense than his wife thinks and not as much as he thinks.

If you have the right kind of political bunk you may be able to swap it for an easy berth.

Dollars are supposed to be well made. But they won't last. You must keep making new ones.

Dancing master says the old fashioned waltz is coming back. The present ones lean a little too much every other way.

American printing presses are said to have best stood the strain in Russia of turning out rubles. This was the acid test.

The local stay at home this summer developed much browner arms than the gadders to vacation resorts—and are much exhilarated thereby.

Scientists, explaining earthquakes, say they are caused by the bottom of the sea dropping out. Nor has science, with all its knowledge, any plug.

Every time you dry the dishes for your tired wife puts another star in your domestic, crown but to drop a dish sometimes gets you a whole new crown.

Possibly the scientist who said the blond-type was rapidly disappearing wasn't stating a biological proposition at all; maybe he just meant that they are all marrying off.

Some day the boys are going to start a revolution in this woman ruled world, and their first demand will be that a boy be allowed to don long trousers as soon as he grows as tall as his dad, even if he is only 12 years old.

People in the earthquake zone in Japan reported seeing the island of Enohima sink into the sea. Now an official announcement is made that the island is still there, undamaged. And yet there persons who think it possible to write accurate history.

England will pay her debts, says Lord Birkenhead; and he significantly adds that he hopes the other nations will follow the British example. Inasmuch as the United States hasn't any debts to pay Uncle Sam will probably give unqualified indorsement to the Birkenhead sentiments.

We have been expecting carbonated drinks to kill off everybody for the past 25 years, but if they have done any harm thus far we haven't noticed it. Somebody is always trying to throw a scare into us boobs, and we for one—or more—have about come to a point where it takes something more than oral scarecrows to make us uneasy about anything.

The beauty of the sinking sun as it is given to Nebraskans to see during these late summer days is a boon that few of us appreciate rightly. The lordly departure of the fiery orb into the bosom of night is marked by a pageantry unequalled by palette or stage and past the imaginings of mortal man. And after garments of the monarch flutter across the skies behind him, the royal attendants of twilight bring gifts of peace and quietude for the tolling subjects of they who have stood silent and reverent before the glory of the kingly exit. The man who can witness that and then turn readily to thoughts that are vulgar and vain has little in him that is worth while. The true hearted man, after a spectacle of such magnificence and loveliness, can face the lowest drudgery with a feeling that nobility and splendor have been his that day.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What gift has Providence bestowed on man that is so dear to his as his children.—Cicero.

Peace of mind is often destroyed by a piece of mind.

Fall suggestions. Hard cider will make you hard boiled.

Bobbed hair is going out of style, but the Plattsmouth girls keep on bobbing.

Wheat acreage will be cut to boost prices. Expecting larger prices, they will plant more.

Senator LaFollette has reached Moscow—where he belongs at last, in the opinion of the Topeka Journal.

Our notion is that women are more heroic than men. Who ever so a man with nerve enough to pluck his whiskers?

The title of a new book is "What a Grass Widow Knows." It promises to become popular in spite of its great bulk.

We have yet to see brown wrapping paper used as an ingredient for salad, but have no doubt that it can, and will be done.

Noting that sleeves are to be fuller, Deacon Moorhead of the Hopkins Journal Moorhead wishes it was hip pockets. Deacon is O. K.

The great fault the boy today has to find with our modern educational system is that the authorities won't let him take his dog to school.

Also it is getting almost cold enough to enjoy a football game, which, as is well known, is never enjoyed unless the spectators are uncomfortable.

About the first thing a man does after buying a new pocket knife is to trim his finger nails. And then he can't open the blooming thing because the blades work so hard.

There is talk of making Senator Lodge presiding officer of the senate, so perhaps there will be times when Senator Magnus Johnson's voice will not be as loud as was first reported.

A New York broker has been cured of a broken neck. Also, it is likely that the customers of two other New York brokers who got it in the neck when they went broke, have been cured.

A Missouri farmer, attacked by an infuriated bull, was saved by his wife. It wasn't the idea of the bull, of course, that it would work over like that when drove the farmer her way.

Congressman Madden, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, is preparing a measure which looks to a general reduction in income taxes. This sounds more popular than the old idea of reducing the income by increasing the taxes.

An airplane crashed into electrical transmission wires at Chattanooga and put the power plants temporarily out of commission. The greatest dangers in civilization soon will be overhead in the air. Regulation of flying should be provided to the last detail before aviation becomes popularized. As usual, we'll probably wait until the horse is stolen before locking the barn.

IDEAL WIVES! HUH!

Like many a less famous person, Edward Gibbon, who wrote the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," kept a diary. He was known as a woman hater, but a perusal of his diary reveals the fact that he had a weak spot in his heart for the ladies and feign would have married if he could have found his ideal. He outlines the attributes he would expect to find in this rare avis and one learns from this just why there are so many elderly bachelors today. They are looking for just such a one as the historian sought in vain. He writes: "I have discovered about half a dozen wives who would
