MID-WEEK LENTEN SERVICES ARE HELD LAST EVENING

Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. K. Petring and Attended by Many Episcopalians.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The mid-week Lenten services of the St. Luke's Episcopal church of this city were held last evening at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Petring on high school hill and was a departure from the accustomed services which have always been held in the church, and a very large number were in attendance at the meeting and also at the dinner that preceded the services. The ladies of the St. Mary's and St. Luke's guilds had arranged the manner of service for the present Lenten season and to create a greater interest and fellowship among the members decided that it would be appropriate to have the services at the homes of the members during the next six weeks, and also to have a parish supper at each of the meetings.

Yesterday the supper was held at 5:45 and some forty-two were in attendance around the tables arranged very prettily for the occasion with decorations of pink roses and here the time was spent pleasantly in a social way.

At 7:45 the regular services were held in the parlors of the home the Rev. Father Stanley P. Jones of Omaha being the officiating clergyman and gave a very impressive discourse was thoroughly enjoyed by all of the on the "Three Temptations" which large congregation and filled with inspiration for the opening of the Lenten season. Canon W. S. Leete of the St. Luke's church offered the prayers and Mrs. J. M. Roberts presided at the piano in the singing of a number of the hymns of the church. At the service Canon Leete also called the attention of the members of the parish to the fact that "The Crozier," the official publication of the church in the Omaha diocese, had been re-organized as to its publication and was now under a board of managers composed of Father D. J. Gallagher, Vicar Stanley P. Jones and Father John Albert Williams. The publication will be placed in the hands of all those interested and the children of the parish will have the sale of it in charge during Lent.

The success of the meeting was due very much to the efforts of the ladies of the church in their guilds have been such faithful workers and is the second of the activities of the Lenten season. The first of these was the Shrove Tuesday pancake luncheon held at the rectory on last Tuesday. One of the features was the very witty menus that were arranged by the head of the guild, Mrs. F. H. Dunbar.

RECORD FOR TELEGRAMS

From Tuesday's Daily—
The record for telegrams ever received on any one radio program was reached Sunday by the Edgewater Beach hotel station, WJAZ, Chicago, when it piled up a total of almost 40,000 messages on its prize contest and Volstead act debate and referendum vote of Saturday night. A total of 76 prizes were offered, the capital prize being a $3,200 Peerless automobile and along with the opportunity of voting for or against the continuation of the present Volstead act, drew forth this large response. At ten o'clock Sunday night, just twenty-four hours from the time the code word necessary to enter the competition was first given out, 27,120 had expressed a la Western Union and Postal telegrams a preference for modification of the prohibitory law, while 19,971 had voted for continuation of the existing statute. In addition a good many failed to vote, though trying for the car, and the Canadian telegrams expressing preference were excluded from the announced total, thus bringing the number of telegrams up to near the 40,000 mark. How many operators it must have taken to receive this great number of messengers in a 24 hour period one can only conjecture. It is certain they averaged more than 50 cents each, and at that figure alone would have yielded the telegraph companies a revenue of $20,000.

The prize car was won by Emmett Small of Charleston, West Virginia, while Timm headsets went to two Nebraskans—one of Omaha and one of Gothenberg.

Much misunderstood, the pig! Folks thought he could just "waller" around anywhere and thrive. Now we know he does best in a neat, clean house that is cool in summer and warm in winter. So money-making farmers are walling and ceiling their hog houses with Sheetrock—the different wallboard. Costs little, goes up easily, stays put permanently.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF EDWARD LONG TODAY

Body Taken to Gretna Where it Will Be Laid to Rest—Many Attend Services at the Home.

From Monday's Daily—
This morning at 10 o'clock at the late home on west Elm street was held the funeral services of Edward Long whose death occurred on Saturday morning following a long illness. The services were very largely attended by the old friends of the deceased and of the family who took this opportunity of paying their last respects to his memory.

The services at the home were conducted by Canon W. S. Leete of the St. Luke's Episcopal church and the simple and impressive funeral ritual of the church celebrated by the rector. During the services the male quartet composed of F. A. Cloldt, L. P. Minor, H. G. McClusky and Dr. J. P. Westover sang two of the old hymns, "Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me" and "Rock of the Ages."

The body was born to the waiting hearse by old friends of the departed young man. A. H. Duxbury, Edwin Fricke, E. J. Hill, Clarence Beal, Ed Fullerton and H. E. Becker. The body was taken to Gretna, the old home of the Long family where it was laid to rest.

DOLLING UP COURT HOUSE

From Tuesday's Daily—
The Cass county court house, a building as fine as any in this section of Nebraska, is at last receiving the attention that it has long been needing in the way of repair and overhauling and the board of county commissioners have started in to make as fine a building as it was when first erected. The building has suffered from the neglect of previous years and other boards and the present commissioners have decided that it was time to do justice to the building and the interests of the taxpayers by having the building cleaned up and put in proper shape.

The roof of the building has been fixed and the special drainage work installed that will do away with the leaky condition that was endured for years and now the work will be extended to take in the re-decorating and cleaning up of the entire third floor of the building.

The contract for the painting and re-decorating has been let to Frank R. Gobelman and who will start the work today and keep it going until completed. The district and equity court rooms, the offices of the clerk of the district court and sheriff, the office and library of the district court and the hall will all be cleaned and re-decorated in plain and attractive coloring that will add to the beauty of the rooms and the general appearance of the building.

A few years ago the second floor of the building was re-decorated but this is the first time since the court house was built in 1891 that the third floor of the building has received the attention of the decorators.

DAUGHERTY PROBE MAY REACH INTO OUR OWN STATE

Omaha Democrat Looking up Attorney General's Connection With Lion Bonding Cases.

Three Nebraska cases are said to be likely to figure in the senate investigation of Attorney General Daugherty.

W. E. Kavan, an attorney and democrat, of Omaha, has been inquiring about these cases in the last few days, and this has given rise to the suspicion that these cases are to be taken up with others at Washington.

One of these is the celebrated case of Tom Matters who was finally sent to Leavenworth after the federal district attorney's office had twice been compelled to go to the circuit court of appeals to defend his conviction by a jury. The first time Matters secured a reversal. Then T. S. Allen, as district attorney, prosecuted him and secured a seven year sentence. This was affirmed by the court of appeals, but forty-five days after Matters landed at the Leavenworth prison a pardon that Daugherty endorsed secured his freedom. President Wilson had denied Matters a pardon a few months before.

At the time Daugherty defended his action and said that representative citizens of Nebraska of both political parties had recommended that matters be let out on the ground that this was a technical violation of the banking law. Later W. C. Dorsey, as special counsel for the government, secured the conviction of Matters in connection with a conspiracy charge against officers of the Guaranty Securities company. His appeal and that of several of his associates is now pending.

Another case is that of the Lion Bonding company. The state secured an indictment against a number of its officers after it went into a receiver's hands, but Attorney General Davis dismissed this after the federal grand jury had taken similar action. The ground assigned was that under the state law each defendant could have remanded a separate trial, which meant years to try all of them, whereas the defendants have no such rights in federal court.

All of the men indicted in the federal court were released save Gurney, who pleaded guilty to misuse of the mails and paid a fine of $2,500. District Attorney Kinsler takes all responsibility for this action. He says that he consulted with the department of justice, and was told to use his own discretion, and that he acted after a full consideration. The other case is that against Howey and Dunn, former Lincoln bankers. These cases Mr. Kinsler says he was instructed to prosecute vigorously and will do so.

Secretary Knudson of the department of banking, says that all of the files of the Lion Bonding company are in his possession, and that he was never consulted about the case. Mrs. Mary A. Fairchild, head of the insurance, said the records were turned over to Secretary Hart after the Lion license had been cancelled, and that she had not been consulted about the case afterward.

250 New Depositors in 10 Months or 1 New Depositor Added Every Working Day for the Past Ten Months is the Record of The Farmers State Bank of Plattsmouth.

Of These 188 are Checking Accounts and 62 are Saving Accounts.

During the past ten months we have added 250 new depositors, or an average of one new depositor each working day of the entire ten months.

Of these 250 new accounts, eighteen of them are the bank accounts of local fraternal orders, societies and clubs.

Our deposits have naturally been increasing very satisfactorily also and are now considerably more than when the present stockholders took charge.

This steady growth may be regarded with equal pleasure from many angles.

It is, of course, an evidence of confidence in the Farmers State Bank and faith in our officers' and directors' ability to conduct its affairs with safety and profit for depositors.

It indicates a widespread recognition of our sound forward-looking policies through which patrons' best interests are always protected. But, above all, from our viewpoint, our steady progress is an indication of the increasing prosperity of this community.

And thus, as our records show a steady increase in deposits and number of depositors, we see for the year 1924 more prosperous farmers and more successful business enterprises for this community.

As we grow, our city and this section of Nebraska grows. We are equipped to help every individual resident grow, too.
