Shrader and when the mortgage was released from the rightful property and now a shadow remains on Mr. Shrader's property, and he has to bring suit for the clearing of the title as he has disposed of the property.

Will Give Play Friday

The senior class of the Union high school of 1924 will on Friday, April 25th, of this week give at the M. W. A. hall a play called "My Irish Rose." They have been giving the play much practice and are in readiness for the event when the time comes. Those of the class who are interested in the play and are also members of the staff are Elmer Fahrlander, Stacey Niday, Ronald Dysart, John Brandt, Ethel Becker, Bessie Copenhaver, Ina LaRue, Vera Upton, Bonnie Copenhaver and Mildred Clark.

Responded to Request to Sing

Last Saturday evening the Misses Bessie and Ina LaRue responded to the request of Omaha parties to sing in connection with a program which was being broadcast from the WOAV station at the Woodmen of the World building. Both the young ladies are accomplished singers and their singing was most highly appreciated by all who listened in over the country. Requests have also been made for some numbers to be given from the same broadcasting station by Lucian LaRue and in the near future he will favor the country by his very clever singing and which many people have already enjoyed.

Has Thrilling Experience

Ross McCarroll had a very exciting experience with a team which included to run away and which, as many a person would do, did just the wrong thing. The team was attached to a disc when they became frightened and started to run and Mr. McCarroll ran and climbed on the disc but by the very rough character of the ground was thrown off and in a manner badly bruised while the team got away. The team ran until tired out and stopped of themselves. It was very fortunate for Mr. McCarroll that he was not thrown under the knives or discs when he was thrown off for had he been the chances for his escaping with his life would have been very meagre.

Entertained Her Scholars

Miss Beulah Pell, teacher of the Irvin school with all her scholars, went to the woods on last Friday afternoon and there with them picked wild flowers and enjoyed the evening very well. The teacher also made each of the scholars a present of a colored Easter egg which was their name. The teacher is very popular with the scholars as a result of her very clever ways and kindness to them.

Is Having Home Painted

Edward Dowler the man who drives the trucking and by the way one who is always on the job when there is work to be done, is having his home treated to a good painting. L. W. Crawford is doing the work, while the materials were purchased from the well known and reliable firm of Frans Bros., the lumber dealers.

NATURAL BEAUTIES ARE MANY HERE

Surroundings of Plattsmouth Among Most Attractive in the State and Draw Attention.

While it is not fully appreciated by the residents of this locality, who are familiar every day with the scenes in and near this city, the fact is that there is no portion of the state of Nebraska or anywhere else in the middle west that has more natural beauty than has Plattsmouth and its surrounding territory and many of the tourists who have passed through the city have been charmed and delighted with the natural beauty that is found in such profusion in this section.

There is nothing more beautiful to the eye than the hills on which this city is located in the summer season when the trees are in leaf and the many handsome homes with their attractive lawns and surroundings that speak of the city from the crest of the hill near the Will farm the beauties that are found in Plattsmouth.

With the improvements that have been made in the permanent streets of the city in the last few years it is now possible to travel in comfort to almost any section of the city and the property owners have taken a real pride in making their homes and immediate surroundings as attractive as possible for their own comfort and general beautification of the city.

The highways that lead into the city offer many real treats in the way of natural scenery and this is especially true of the river view drives that give one a glimpse of the broad bottom lands and the soft purpling hills that lie along either side of the Platte and Missouri river. As the travelers pass along the highway where the residents can receive the view and the broad acres that are rich in productiveness stretch themselves before the beholder for many miles until they are broken by the gentle hillsides. Along the drives that lead to the Missouri river are many wonderful places that charm the eye as they show the beauties of the natural scenery that led the early settlers to halt their westward caravans to locate here in one of the real natural beauty spots of Nebraska.

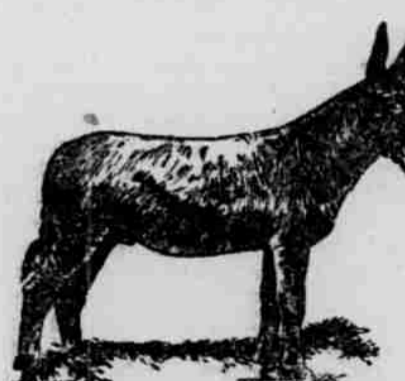

Not alone has nature been bountiful in providing settings for real homes but the residents who have settled here have built up a city that is a real home town. Here the hills of the city are dotted with spacious and well kept houses of worship where the residents can receive the religious training that goes to form the basis of all civilized society and form the social ties that strengthen the life of the community. Here also are found the schools, the equal of any in the state, with staffs of competent and well qualified teachers who are training the young people for the time when they will take up their duties as citizens of this great state and nation.

When we carefully review our own surroundings and those of other sections we may feel that Plattsmouth has been among the chosen spots of the state for a real home that offers all the comforts and joys that modern life demands and for which the surroundings of the city have been made ideal. To the stranger seeking a location we say with pride, "Come to Plattsmouth and find the end of the search for the ideal home town where happiness and comfort are a part of the daily life."

ALASKA PIONEER HERE

From Tuesday's Daily—George L. Kerr, the representative of the oil company that is now engaged in the drilling at the Nehawka oil fields, is enjoying a visit with one of his old time friends of many years standing when both of the gentlemen were boys back in New York. The friend is Edgar G. Raine, the well known lecturer and explorer of Alaska, who possesses a greater actual first hand knowledge of the northern country than any one in the United States. Mr. Raine had been located at Fairbanks, Alaska, for a number of years and has traveled over the uttermost parts of that country, even making trips with dog teams and has penetrated into some of the wildest parts of the country. He was a member of the party that accompanied the late President Harding on his trip to the different points in Alaska and has been spending the past few weeks at his home in Seattle. Mr. Raine spends some time each year in lecturing in the United States and he is now engaged in a short tour of the country prior to returning north for the summer in his beloved Alaska. It is hoped that while he is here he may be secured for a lecture on that little known portion of the United States which contains an unknown treasure-house of natural resources that have not been touched.

ly in the cantata and a number of duets by Misses Grace Livingston and Mildred Crom, and Raymond Cook and Miss Mary Wetenkamp were also a part of the service. The accompaniment was played by Mrs. R. C. Cole in her usual finished manner.

The cantata was of unusual length and occupied the entire evening worship hour and was enjoyed by a very large congregation. The ladies of the church had arranged very attractive decorations of potted plants and flowers that made the settings very attractive.

MULES ARE HIGHER

From Tuesday's Daily—The visitors on the livestock market at Omaha yesterday report that the demand for the humble and often derided mule is very strong and that the sales of the famous Missouri animals on the market brought up a sharp price and that some of the teams were selling for $400 and better on the market during the day. The indications were that the mules would advance even stronger as the demand was increasing.
