JUDGE J. T. BEGLEY HOLDS A SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT

From Saturday's Daily— Yesterday the district court held a short session to take up a number of matters of importance that were demanding the attention of the court and arranging the various cases that would be brought up for trial.

In the case of the State of Nebraska vs. C. Quinton on the indictment for perjury returned last November by the grand jury, the case, on motion of the defense, was laid over until the November term of court.

The case of the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. vs. Thomas Svoboda, in which the plaintiff appealed from the decision of the compensation award made to the defendant, the court sustained the special appearance of the defendant and the service of summons quashed. Plaintiff excepts.

In the case of the Farmers' State Bank vs. the Board of Equalization, the court found the assessment value of bank stock and property at $2,550 and assessment should be based on said amount.

M. D. A. Presents a Fine Entertainment Last Night

From Saturday's Daily— Last evening the members of the M. D. A. of the Burlington shops, with their families, were entertained very pleasantly at the Parmele theatre with the presentation of the comedy-drama, "A Poor Married Man," the cast being selected from among the members of the organization and the occasion was one of the greatest enjoyment to all of the large number that filled the theatre to its utmost capacity.

The cast was composed of Jack Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Copenhaver, Glen Henry, Harold Gaines, Emma Johnson, Lillian Rainey and Mary Decker and each of the players acquitted themselves in fine shape and it was the general expression that it would be most pleasant if this organization could be seen in other productions.

There were a number of others who were also present to enjoy the show and the audience was one of the largest that has assembled in the Parmele theatre.

Bishop Stuntz Retired at His Own Request

Springfield, Mass., May 9.—The committee on the episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal church voted today to grant the requests of Bishop Homer C. Stuntz of Omaha and William A. Quayle, St. Louis, for retirement on account of illness. They were relieved "from the obligation of traveling through the connection at large and the responsibility for residential supervision."

Dedicate Flying Field at Fort Crook This Afternoon

From Saturday's Daily— This morning the residents of this city were startled by the sound of planes making their way through the air and from the south there was seen a squadron of planes, six in number, traveling in battle formation toward this city and as the planes were flying low the residents had a fine chance to view the planes which were enroute to the new flying field at Fort Crook.

The dedication of the new field takes place this afternoon and will be one of the most notable military events held in the Seventh corps area this summer. Many of the leading members of the U. S. army air service will be at the fort to take part in the ceremonies.

RUNAWAY AUTOMOBILE DOES DAMAGE

Car of C. D. Thurston Takes on Wild Trip and Causes Small Smash-up Near Main Hotel.

From Friday's Daily— Last night about 10:30 the few persons that had heaved the disagreeable night and were out on the street in the business section of the city, were startled by a very loud crash in the direction of the Main hotel which was caused by a rather peculiar accident.

Mr. C. D. Thurston and family were attending the Parmele theatre and had left their auto parked on the south side of Main street near the office of the Drs. Livingston and Hall and the car was so turned that it was thought that it was safe from getting away from the moorings. In some manner the car got a start down the rather steep incline of the Main street hill and started out on a little spin of its own. The car, which is a rather heavy one, bumped over the curbing on the park in the center of the street and headed for the spacious hostelry of William Barclay and struck the car of Reese Hastain of Louisville, which was parked in front of the hotel and did some little damage to one of the fenders of the car while the bumper of the Thurston was damaged. The two cars were forced into a third car that was pinned up against the curb and had one of the fenders badly bent and smashed.

The collision was investigated by the night police who were attracted at once to the scene and it was found that the owner of the third car could not be located as there was no registration card in the machine.

The damage to the Thurston and Hastain cars was very light and the affair was one of those unavoidable accidents that sometimes occur to cars when they are parked on a hillside street as steep as that of Main street.

Gives a Shower in Honor of Mrs. Roy Harshman

Last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. M. Straub and daughter, Miss Phyllis, gave a miscellaneous shower at their home east of Avoca in honor of Mrs. Roy Harshman, who was recently married. The spacious home was filled with the many ladies who were asked to meet the guest of honor and she was showered with many elegant and useful gifts, the articles ranging all the way from kitchen ware to things suitable for every room in the house. Various stunts and games helped to pass the afternoon pleasantly, and at a suitable hour most delectable refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Straub and her daughter are known to be the most successful entertainers and it is always superfluous to state that everyone had a splendid time.

Elledge Children Very Sick at Home of Grandmother

From Saturday's Daily— The children of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Elledge, who have been at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. James B. Higley for the past two weeks, are very sick at this time suffering from an attack of typhoid fever and the condition of the younger child, Ralph, aged 5 years, is very serious indeed and his recovery is considered quite doubtful.

Shows Confidence in the Soil of Old Cass County

The purchase by T. H. Pollock of the Farmers State Bank of this city yesterday of the 204 acres of land formerly known as the Little Frank Young farm, and which is situated on the highway five miles south of this city, shows that in the opinion of the bankers Cass county soil is not such a bad investment after all and is a guaranteed safe investment for the conservative man or woman. There has always been a safe return from the Cass county farms and while many may not be satisfied with their showing for the year perhaps, they should realize that they have a real substantial and safe investment in their land and it is evident that Mr. Pollock shares this opinion in making the purchase of the new farm.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL GOES TO A DEFEAT

Louisville High School Baseball Team Trims Up Our Boys by a Score of 10 to 5.

From Thursday's Daily— Yesterday afternoon with the wintry zephyrs making the atmosphere decidedly wintry at the baseball park the Plattsmouth high school baseball team experienced the bitterness of defeat at the hands of the Louisville boys by the score of 10 to 5.

The victory of the visitors was contributed to in no small part by the work of Ted Hartman, the hurler, who caused eleven of the Plattsmouth swatters to lay down their bats through the strikeout route, and also secured two safe hits, one being a three sacker which disrupted the game for the locals.

The Plattsmouth team also suffered from the effects of several very serious errors that aided the visitors in their victory and inability to hit at the opportune time kept the town of victory from the grasp of the locals.

Joe Krejci was on the mound for the Plattsmouth team and retired five of the sandpit boys by the strikeout route, but was touched quite heavily in the sixth and seventh innings, which combined with the ragged fielding of his teammates, perished in these two innings.

Joe Buttery and Krejci each secured a three bagger that helped the locals out to their standing.

The box score was as follows:

Polishing Up the Peerless for the Spring Cleanup

The interior of the soft drink parlor of Edward Donat, long known as the "Peerless" in honor of the foaming beverage that once originated from LaCrosse, Wisconsin, is once more taking on a rejuvenated appearance as the result of the efforts of Edward Donat, Jr., who has in the past few days been busy with elbow grease and Bon Ami, and as the result of his labors has the place shining as of yore when the halls rang with song and cheer. The ceiling and side walls that were coated with hte smoke and grime of several years have been washed off and present a very attractive appearance and certainly make a most pleasing change in the condition of things.

JACOB LUFT DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Resident of Cass County Since 1872 and For Many Years a Farmer Near Cullom, Nebraska.

From Thursday's Daily— Last evening at the county farm, west of this city, Jacob Luft, one of the old settlers of Cass county, was called to his last reward, following an illness of a short duration and at the age of seventy-six years.

Jacob Luft was born in Hessel-Darmstadt, Germany, November 16, 1846, and resided there until twenty-six years of age when he came to America and in 1872 came to Cass county, Nebraska, locating on a farm near Cullom, northwest of this city where he made his home for a great many years and where he was numbered among the hard working and industrious farmers of that portion of the county.

Some twenty-five years ago he disposed of his farm and came to Plattsmouth to reside and to spend his remaining days but in the passage of the years the amount that he had realized from the sale of his farm that he had acquired by hard work and saving was swept away and he was compelled in the last few months to make his home on the farm west of the city where he was looked after as a ward of the county.

The wife preceded him in death in the year 1895 and since that time he has largely lived alone. To mourn his passing there remains one daughter, Mrs. Jesse Green of this city.

The funeral of Mr. Luft will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the funeral chapel and the interment will be at the Oak Hill cemetery, west of this city.

New Organization Holds It's First Meeting Last Night

From Saturday's Daily— Last evening at the home of Gerald Fleming on High school hill, the United Brotherhood of Bachelors of the Senior class of the Plattsmouth High school was successfully organized with a membership of some eight persons, all of the Senior class boys.

George Ebersole was elected as chief cook, Herman Tiekotter as grand potato peeler and Gerald Fleming as chambermaid.

Visit from Bellevue Legionnaires is Arousing Interest

From Saturday's Daily— The proposed visit of the Bellevue Legion post comprising ex-soldiers stationed at the government vocational school here to this city in the near future, is heartily endorsed by many of the local business men who realize that it will afford an excellent opportunity for these men to get acquainted with Plattsmouth.

Hobo Has a Fit at City Bastille This Morning

From Saturday's Daily— This morning when Clyde Jackson, the night merchant's policeman hastened to the city bastille to release the travelers who had been given shelter there for the night, he received quite a surprise from one of the members of the slumber party.

This man had evidently found that the soft and luxurious couches provided by the city had not benefited him as they should as he proceeded to have a small fit before the eyes of the startled guardian of the law but soon recovered and went on his way apparently little the worse for the experience.

John Hiber was a visitor in the metropolis today, going to the city on the early Burlington train.

FORMER CASS COUNTY LADY MEETS SUMMONS

Mrs. Mary Jane Muller Passes Away in Michigan—a Former Resident of Weeping Water.

From Saturday's Daily— Mary Jane Muller was born in East Gilead, Branch county, Michigan, June 10, 1840, and died at her home in McBride, Mich., April 8, 1924, aged 83 years and 10 months.

When a child she moved with her parents to LaGrange county, Ind., where she grew to womanhood. In 1860 she was united in marriage to William J. Monroe. When the Civil war broke out she saw her young husband march away to join the troops at the front. He soon returned to her, however, as his offer of service to his country was rejected on account of a physical disability.

To Mr. and Mrs. Monroe were born three daughters, Nellie M. Harriett E., and Jessie W., all of McBride, Harriet E. having preceded her mother to the heavenly home last June.

In 1869, Mrs. Monroe moved with her husband and small children to the then pioneer state of Nebraska and shared the labor and hardships incident to a new country. They also enjoyed the true friendships which sprang from the warm, loyal hearts of the young Christian people who made their homes in the far western state. It was among these people and under the pioneer preaching in the little stone church that she learned to love her Saviour, and from that time on she chose her friends from His followers.

About 20 years ago she and her husband and children moved to McBride, where she has lived since. Four and one-half years ago her aged husband left her for the home beyond. Since then she has been lonely, yet brave and industrious, a favorite work being the knitting of garments for her children and grandchildren and great grandchildren. She loves the outdoors, the sunshine, birds and flowers.

As a mother, she was most faithful and devoted, an efficient nurse in sickness, a wise and resourceful advisor and friend, and with her passing soul has embarked that was sweet and brave and "her children rise up and call her blessed."

Say Live Stock Rates to Omaha is Unreasonable

Washington, May 9.—Livestock rates from points in Nebraska to Omaha and South Omaha, Neb., as related to rates from Nebraska points to St. Joseph and Kansas City, Mo., and Sioux City, Ia., were found to be unreasonable today by the interstate commerce commission. The commission suggested a revised schedule.
