Mrs. Hanson, who was still in the car, the truck, crawled out and secured the aid of her husband at home, which was a mile away and two of the calves were placed in the touring car which Clarence brought and Mrs. Hanson drove to Murray while he held the animals in the car. ## METHODIST DEBATE ON WAR QUESTION

Attitude of Church Taken Up at General Conference—Resolution Left to Members.

Springfield, Mass., May 12.—The attitude of the Methodist church toward war was the subject of eager debate today before the committee on the state church which will draw up for presentation to the general conference the church's official pronouncement of its stand. A preliminary statement submitted by a subcommittee, was ordered printed for study by the committee members.

The resolution, as read, left to individuals the right to act in case of war as their consciences direct, but declared the church as a church would separate itself from carrying on any war. Judge John Marshall of Kansas told the committee that the latter clause should be omitted.

"When the church says it won't fight for the right which right is as sailed by wrong," Judge Marshall said, "the church can get ready to close its doors. Without war we wouldn't be here, except as Mohammedans. This declaration would withdraw the church when the nation is in peril; if war really came, your declaration would vanish into thin air in fifteen minutes. You can't make a church stand by when the country is fighting to preserve the right."

In addition to the last clause, excepting war that was "in self defense or in defense of humanity," was suggested by O. W. Fifer of Indianapolis. Other committee members declared that was necessarily un-Christian. "The church should not be used as a tool of the state," Dr. George Elliott of Detroit, said, "and the church ought to pledge itself not to support war without war."

At the general conference session this morning, a proposal to invite President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia university, to speak on the prohibition law, which he opposes, was defeated by a large majority.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Shingling the Hillside
The story of the old Arkansas farmer who answered when asked why he did not patch his roof, that when it rained he couldn't ax it and when it didn't he didn't need it repaired, has an application in the case of some land owners today. When it is raining and the rich earth is washing from the hillside, they can't do anything to stop it, and when it is not raining it does not need stopping in both cases, shingles would be of no value.

Who ever heard of shingling a hillside? Well, shingles for a hillside are called terraces and a terrace is a ridge much like a road grade carried around the hillside to prevent excessive washing or formation of many small ditches. These ridges are made with a road grader after a proper location has been determined by means of a leveling instrument. Some long slopes may require five or six terraces, one above the other and so graded that all the water with its debris between them is carried around the terrace to the edge of the field and emptied into the road ditch or down a grassy ravine.

This work should be done in the fall of the year, since it allows plenty of time for the grade to settle over winter.

Terracing is not an experiment. It has been practiced for many years in some states.

Rope Club
Fifteen boys under the leadership of Supt. Worley, of the Greenwood High school have enrolled in a Rope club. These boys are in the Agricultural class and are enjoying the work fine.

Girls' Clothing Clubs
Eight girls from near Elmwood organized a club with Mrs. Harry Arnold as leader. Five girls from Weeping Water met and organized for second year work in clothing, with Mrs. L. R. Snipes as leader. Mrs. Guy Ward of Avoca will also have a girls' clothing club. Miss Mary Borreson, of the Boys and Girls club office, Extension service, was in the county this week helping organize the clubs.

Community Club
The country people near the Trisch school met and enjoyed a splendid program. Mrs. Ed Ruby had full charge of the program. Mrs. Philip Tritsch is president of the club.

POULTRY PRODUCERS PLAN EGG MARKETS
Headquarters for New Co-operative Marketing System Will Be in Lincoln as Planned.

Fremont, Neb., May 13.—Nebraska farm women are going in for co-operation. Fully half of those present at a mass meeting of egg producers here Monday were farm wives. Article of incorporation were adopted for the Nebraska Poultry Producers' association and it was decided to hold a state meeting in Lincoln June 2.

Headquarters of the new co-operative marketing association will be in Lincoln. It is authorized to establish shipping and grading stations, storage warehouses and truck lines to gather eggs from farms at any place in the state.

Prof. George R. Boomer of the state agricultural college, said that within a radius of 50 miles about Lincoln there are 2,000,000 hens, almost as many as the total for the state of Oregon, which has a successful co-operative marketing association.

The basis of the plan is community organization, these grouped in county units. Several counties will establish a joint shipping point, from which eggs will be shipped by the car load. A state wide selling agency will be established at Lincoln. The association will be authorized to handle poultry and its products, together with supplies.

Nebraska produces more than $25,000,000 of eggs each year," Prof. Boomer explained. "This is almost equal to the value of the state's wheat crop. Seventy per cent of the eggs are shipped out of the state. Accordingly, it is highly important to perfect a system of marketing by which the present loss and waste are eliminated."

Prof. Boomer declared that Nebraska is in a better position for egg production than any other state. California, in addition to its distance from the eastern market, has to pay almost twice as much for feed, much of which is shipped from Nebraska. In spite of the boasts about climate, a hen will not lay as many eggs per year in California as in Nebraska. The number of days when heat checks egg production in California is larger than the number of days cold keeps hens idle in Nebraska, he said. Thoughtful breeders have been found offsetting cold and inducing hens to lay in the winter, yet no way has been found to offset heat. In New Jersey, feed is double the price in Nebraska, and freight on corn from Nebraska amounts to

Judge Stueffer of Omaha Holding Court Here Now

From Monday's Daily—
District Judge Carroll B. Stueffer, of Omaha, came down this morning for the purpose of opening the session of the jury term of the district court for Judge James T. Begley and to hear the case of D. O. Dwyer vs. the Board of County Commissioners of Cass county, relative to the fees charged in the conduct of the grand jury and the trial of cases in the district court for the county.

The judge is one of the new members of the bench in this part of the state and is recognized as one of the very ablest of the members of the court in Omaha.

The case assigned for trial was not taken up as many of the members of the jury panel were farmers and very busy and were excused by the court and Sheriff E. P. Stewart being out of the city on some county business made it impossible to fill the panel so that the case could go on trial this afternoon.

Judge Stueffer is the fourth visiting judge to be here to hear the cases that were brought on as a result of the grand jury indictments and the outcome of these cases. Judge F. W. Burton, of Fremont, was here to rule on arguments as to the legality of the jury, etc., while Judges A. C. Troup of Omaha and John B. Raper, of Pawnee City, were here to preside at the trial of cases at both the December and January terms of court.

Fame for Former Plattsmouth Girl on the Coast
The Los Angeles Evening Express of May 7th has in its news section a very striking picture of a former well known Plattsmouth girl, Miss Ada Tulene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tulene, and who was reared to womanhood here and attended the local schools.

Miss Tulene was recently voted the most beautiful girl in Santa Ana, California, and has with this distinction received more or less publicity on the coast. Miss Tulene recently had her portrait taken showing her congratulating Glenn L. Martin, inventor of the Martin bombing plane, for his achievements in the air service. Mr. Martin was a former resident of Santa Ana and recently visited the old home and received a great ovation from his old time friends.

The relatives and friends of Miss Tulene, who have seen her picture are well pleased with it and it is a striking picture of the very charming former Plattsmouth lady.

HAVE PICNIC PARTY
From Tuesday's Daily—
Yesterday the members of the St. Margaret's and St. Agnes' chapters of the Church School Service League of the Episcopal church had planned to hold a picnic party after the close of school and were somewhat disappointed when the clouds that heralded the approach of rain rolled up in the west and made necessary the adjournment of the picnic party from Garfield park where it had first been planned to the auditorium of the public library where the games were held and enjoyed very much. Later the members of the party enjoyed their luncheon at the rest room in the court house where ample accommodations were found for the young people.
