FINDS LONG LOST BROTHER

From Wednesday's Daily—

Delmer Kirkpatrick joined the regular army from his home in Des Moines about three years ago and his folks have never heard from him since in any way, either through correspondence or otherwise until Monday of this week his sisters, Mrs. A. D. Bakke of Murray and Mrs. Skip Dalton of Plattsmouth went in Lincoln where they were visiting with Mr. Dalton who is a service man and taking vocational training at Lincoln. On their return trip Monday morning they encountered some very slippery roads and also met two men who were going to Syracuse and who assisted the ladies in getting out of a bad place in the road. The men were given a ride and offered to drive the car as the roads were very slippery. They were allowed the privilege.

They drove to Syracuse where they got out of the car and thanked the ladies. Mrs. Bakke and Mrs. Dalton turned their car back the way they came to get to the "O" street road and in passing through Palmyra Mrs. Bakke thought she saw her brother marching with other soldiers and turned her car and caught up with the one she thought her brother and found it even so. She went along beside him for a number of blocks in Palmyra and visited and was informed the soldiers were going from Lincoln to Camp Funston where they are to stop for awhile. It was a great pleasure for Mrs. Bakke to find the brother.

imbibes Too Freely of Hootch; Gets 'Run In'

From Monday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon Deputy Sheriff W. R. Young was called out to Louisville, where the strange actions of a man on the Platte river bridge here had attracted the attention of the passersby.

On the arrival of the deputy sheriff at the bridge he discovered Mike Zelanski, an evident devotee of Gambrinus, suffering from an overdose of the juice of the corn or some other intoxicating beverage and Mike was in a condition that might be aptly described as a beastly state of inebriation and claimed to have secured the peppy beverage "some-where in Sarpy county," and from the appearance of the man he had evidently had considerable difficulty in carrying his large and copious load as far as he did before he succumbed.

The victim of the strong drink had lost his hat in the turbulent waters of the Platte river and when Mr. Young arrived on the scene of action one shoe was about to follow the hat into the river and Mike himself was not far from the edge of the bridge. The deputy sheriff placed Mr. Zelanski in the auto and brought him to this city to face the bill of justice for his violation of the prohibition law.

For the many acts of kindness that have been shown to us in the loss of our home by fire, and for the assistance that the friends and neighbors have given our family, we wish to express our most heartfelt gratitude. Such splendid friends are priceless and it is hardly adequate in words to express our feelings of gratitude to the friends and neighbors.—John Zaloudek and Family.
