FLATTERING LIPS

Help Lord; for the godly man ceaseth, for the faithful fall from among the children of men. They speak vanity every one with his neighbor; with flattering lips and with a double heart do they speak. —Psalms 12:1-2.

The straight and narrow path is wide enough for its traffic.

Keeping a friend in hot water will eventually cook your goose.

Radio in summer sounds as if dishpans were being broadcast.

All a man needs to know about a woman is all he doesn't know.

A blind man is the only one who can't see any use for silk stockings.

We don't know who lost the war, but Europe seems to be hunting for it.

The nice thing about a bad start is it gives you more to brag about after you do win out.

The good die young. Just as soon as home-made wine begins to get good its owner kills it.

Nearly everybody knows who our next president will be, but they do not all agree on the matter.

Always carry a pump or a stump speaker along on an auto trip in case you have to fix a puncture.

There's nothing new under the sun, but a lot of strange things are happening under the moon.

A wife is a great comfort to her husband during those distressing times a single man never has.

It once took nine tailors to make a gentleman, but now it takes nine months to pay one tailor's bill.

After a girl contracts to go thru life with a man, she naturally hates to make most of the trip alone.

After eating supposedly young chickens in restaurants we have decided youth will not be served.

We were anxious to see the first signs of summer and we will be just as anxious to see the last signs.

When a self-made man begins bragging on himself it is a sign that he thinks he has completed the job.

Another nice thing about a modern novel is that every time the heroine has a fit the author thinks it's a crisis.

Another worry we are escaping this month is that we don't have to watch our overcoat when we eat in a restaurant.

When a fisherman begins telling about his trip, remember this: The largest bass ever caught weighed only 18 pounds.

Every good woman fears her husband will be led astray by the wiles of naughty women, when as a matter of cold truth most of 'em are safe.

The fact that some cogs in the republican machine are well oiled does not mean that it can make the distance without getting sand in its bearings.

Science has now invented a new breathing machine that is said to bring a man back to life after he has been dead for thirty minutes. The next thing to expect is an invention to bring back a politically dead politician.

Sky-scrapers 750 feet high are coming in great numbers. It is predicted at a meeting of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. This is made possible by recent improvements in express elevator service, operators handling the cars by push buttons. Stops will be made every tenth floor. There'll be local elevators for each deck of 10 floors. High land values are compelling man to resort to inventive ingenuity that is magical. The high building and the elevator are simply attempts to escape from land rentals.

Fools rush in where wise men fear to wed.

In a small town the stray dogs get you and in a large town the stray bullets get you.

Be careful about looking at thermometers in July. It is not polite to cuss before ladies.

Now is a good time to go fishing because the streams are so muddy a fellow can't catch anything anyhow.

Don't envy the man who has been on a summer trip. The home bill-boards are equal to any he sees on his journeyings.

Statistics show women have charge of spending 90 per cent of the money in circulation and the figures do not have to be proven.

A front porch campaign would go kind of awkward on these little library shelf front stoops that the architects affect nowadays.

Yes, girls, if you wear bobbed hair you are at least giving your lover a square deal. He knows all of it is fastened at one end.

Personally we are not going to send a letter by air mail as long as the postage costs ten times as much as the message is worth.

We see by the columns of an alert newspaper that John D. Rockefeller plays Mah Jongg. That fellow will lose all of his money yet.

As we understand them, if a round the world flyer makes it all the way with the same front teeth he started with, the trip is a success.

After looking over the bonus application blanks we don't see how a man could possibly fill one out without earning part of the money.

Politics should cut but little figure in the election of county officials. Fitness is what the people demand and what they are going to have.

A suggestion: Why not equip the traffic cop with a klaxon instead of letting him stand there and nearly blow out his brains with a whistle?

There is always something to be thankful for. Think how much more dreary the world would be if breakfast foods were served with mayonnaise dressing.

The prize for self-restraint goes to the paragraphist who reads that a diner held up and robbed a restaurant and refrains from making a wise crack about it.

The voters are going to take no chances in the coming election. They want men who they know are well qualified for the positions. Inferior candidates are already being "spotted."

The Anti-War parade in Vienna Sunday was a most imposing affair, and numbered more than 300,000 people. This demonstrates that people over there are not hankering after any more war.

The farmers of Nebraska come up smiling when this year's crops are ready for the markets, and the present prices are ever maintained. Prosperity is coming in great gobs for the long-suffering farmers.

A railroad has to haul a ton of freight 48 miles to get enough money to buy a pint of ink, 115 miles to buy a monkey wrench, 75 miles for a crossie, 3350 miles to pay a freight train crew for a day's work. So claims Dr. David Friday, statistics sharp of National Transportation Institute.

CHANGE INAUGURATION

The American Bar association, recently in session, unanimously adopted a resolution favoring the change of the date of inauguration of president of the United States. The matter has been seriously discussed in many places in the country, and a resolution to bring about the change was offered in the present congress. It was acted favorably upon by one branch of congress, but got no further. That there will be a change, either in the inauguration or in the assembly and at no late day is sure. The situation as it now exists is not conducive to the best interests of the country. The arrangement allows for the functioning of a congress which is often largely composed of men who have been defeated at the polls. The "short session" is never of great value, and chiefly for this reason. It has been suggested that the president who has been elected in November be placed in charge of affairs the third Monday in January. This would appear to be giving everybody ample time to make arrangements for the change in administration. That the new congress should convene the first Monday in January is also urged, and with apparent wisdom. There are many reasons to be brought forward against the practice of having congress remain away from Washington and out of the halls of deliberation until more than a year has passed after their selection as lawmakers.

The way things now work leaves a congressman elected in November, 1924, until December, 1925, without any official capacity. Affairs could go to the dogs in the interim, and unless an extra session was called, the representatives to states and districts would be powerless to interfere. They are, so to speak, officials without office, for a year.

Some have suggested that the date for inaugurating the president could be continued as March 4, and that congress could be required by law to meet also on that date—the new congress; and this would be possible, it is said, without a change in the constitution. But that would probably be inadvisable. That the president should have a little time before the regular assembly of congress, in which to study conditions and prospects, seems reasonable. But ten months is assuredly too long a time for such preliminary observations.

All modern institutions keep up to date. A man elected to the presidency is qualified to assume the important position very soon after the election—or should be. It is so with those selected to represent the states in congress; and the country would be glad to have a readjustment of dates for formal taking up of responsibilities.

EASE UP A BIT

You feel all taut, trembly, a bit snappy, and decidedly out of tune with yourself, the world and humanity. Lots of folks get that way now and then. It may be the hot weather. It may be worry. It may be overwork, or it may be just general inefficiency in planning your working program. But always it is a danger sign.

Ease up!

That doesn't mean go to sleep, take a month's vacation, slack off, or go gold brick around for a couple of months. It simply means to go right ahead tending to business—but to consciously ease up the tension a bit. If you have any mental control of yourself at all it is reasonable to do. About the time you want to snap somebody's head off when they ask you a perfectly civil question—just get yourself in hand, relax, let your mind and body and entire consciousness just slacken up about 50 per cent, breathe two or three good deep breathes, take a good slow, soul-cleansing smile—and be your natural, self-possessed self again.

Then in the evening take a "star bath." No, that is not a new fangled panacea for hay fever, whooping cough, measles, sore toe or distemper—it is just a mental balance in which to weigh your own personal importance against the Eternal Progress and Plan of God. His Universe and the measly little world in which you live, have your sputterings and then pass on to give room for others. Throw yourself full length in the grass, roll on your back and relax until every finger point and muscle of your entire body is just as resistless as a jelly fish, and then gaze into the starry heavens—those vast unknown eternities without limit or confines. Examine yourself. Know yourself—your limitations, poor, petty insignificance and your vast possibilities.

In short, just take time to ease up a bit, get yourself in hand, take up the grand old game of living and go on, confident in the Eternal Fitness of all things, that God is in His heavens, and all is right with the world, and you will not only get more out of living for yourself, but you will put more into the lives of those around you—your family, your friends and business associates.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Home Care of Sick

The Busy Bee club of Eight Mile Grove precinct are now taking up "Home Care of the Sick," and the fourth meeting including "Personal Hygiene" was held at Mrs. Ernest Ahls, on July 16th. The meeting was called to order at 3:30 and finished at 6 o'clock. We reviewed all past lessons. Physical exercises were taken, also foot and shoe measurements were taken and compared, which created lots of fun and discussion. We found that only three were wearing approved shoes. The reports heartily appreciated of their many acts of kindness to our dear mother, Mrs. James R. Hunter in her illness and for the tender sympathy shown us in the loss that has come to our home. We also wish to thank those who assisted at the funeral and for the floral remembrances.—The Children of Mrs. Hunter.

Labor

Anyone wanting help on the farm should let us know a day or two before hand, so that we can have them here by the time you are ready for them. We have placed a good many men and have been able to take care of all calls.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to the many kind friends and neighbors our heartfelt appreciation of their many acts of kindness to our dear mother, Mrs. James R. Hunter in her illness and for the tender sympathy shown us in the loss that has come to our home. We also wish to thank those who assisted at the funeral and for the floral remembrances.—The Children of Mrs. Hunter.
