Every so often something turns up in the news to prove that people still exist who bank their savings in the old sock, the tomato can under the rose bush, or the innards of a condemned clock in the attic.

It seems unbelievable!

A bank gives you something for the use of your money. The tin can in the garden doesn't. Neither does the old sock nor the clock.

Don't hoard even small amounts. Put your money in this bank where it is safe.
