HOLDING ELECTION

Anticipating the general election by a few days, A. Rorenkrans is holding an election at his barber shop on North fifth street and has gone so far as to have small ballots printed with the national and county ticket printed thereon and which the voters there are permitted to write in regulation manner and deposit in the ballot box. "Rosy" is a believer in purity in politics and is running the election in regulation style and while the poll was open only a few hours today there were quite a large number of votes cast. Those who wish to vote may do so by calling at the barber shop and securing their ballot of "Rosy" or Charley. Differing from the regular election, there are no rules or regulations to prevent the candidates or their friends from electioneering in the barber shop and if any extraordinary amount of noise is heard from that part of the city it is merely the election arguments.

NEW PROMOTION FOR YANK HERO OF WORLD WAR

At Forty-Four Years of Age MacArthur Will Be Made Major General—Youngest in Years.

The American army will soon have the youngest major general it has had in many years.

The secretary of war has recommended to President Coolidge the promotion of Brig. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, son of the late Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, to be a major general, effective Jan. 17, 1925, to fill the vacancy that will be created through the retirement, two days earlier, of Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morton, commanding the 9th corps area, with headquarters at San Francisco.

Brig. Gen. MacArthur is now only 44 years old and will merely have turned the corner of 45 when he dons the shoulder straps of a major general. As a brigadier MacArthur is now commanding the 23rd infantry brigade at Fort William McKinley in the Philippines. He comes of notable military lineage. His father was once in command of the army and was one of the few men who have held the rank of lieutenant general in the American army.

Born at Army Barracks. Born Jan. 26, 1880, at Little Rock barracks, Arkansas, young MacArthur was only 19 years old when in 1899 he won a competitive examination at Milwaukee to fill a vacancy at West Point.

When graduated, in 1903, he stood No. 1 in a class of 160 and was commissioned a second lieutenant of engineers. He served on construction work in the Philippines, on the Pacific coast, where he took part in operations necessitated by the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906; on river and harbor duty at the harbors of Manila, Two Rivers, and Sheboygan, in Wisconsin, and with engineer troops at various posts.

From 1913 to 1917 he was a member of the general staff corps in Washington except for a short tour as assistant to the engineer officer with the Vera Cruz expedition in 1914.

Chief of Rainbow Division. After the outbreak of the world war he was again brought back to the war department to act as liaison officer between the general staff and the press, and he remained in that capacity until the American declaration of war in 1917, when he was made chief of staff of the Rainbow (42d) division.

Maj. MacArthur served with great distinction in the world war and at one time was the victim of a gas attack. Besides serving as chief of staff of the Rainbow division, composed of men from all parts of the United States, he was brigadier general commanding the 84th infantry brigade in the same division, and later, became the general commanding the Rainbow division.

To him were awarded the Distinguished Service cross and the Distinguished Service medal by the United States, the Croix de Guerre by France the War Cross by Italy, and the Order of the Crown by Belgium.

Went "Over the Top." He participated at Lunenburg, Baccarat, and the Esperance-Souain sectors, also at Champagne; he was in the Champagne-Marne and the Aisne-Marne defenses, and in the offensives of St. Mihiel, Essey, Pannes, Meuse-Argonne and Sedan. Besides his two decorations he won seven divisional citations. He was wounded twice.

On an occasion in his service with French troops MacArthur conducted himself with gallantry that became legendary throughout Foch's army. He asked permission to take part in a boche raid, and went over the top armed only with a riding crop to "let the boys know somebody at headquarters was willing to go with them." The feat earned him the Croix de Guerre.

BETTER THAN CASH BONUS

When the state legislature of Nebraska passed the state aid veterans' relief bill, general complaint was heard among ex-service men because Nebraska, like other states didn't vote its veterans a cash bonus. Now, as the provisions of the bill are becoming more generally understood, and the increasing funds available under the law permit the disbursing committee to apply more liberal interpretation of the relief intended, many of those who protested at the start are becoming converted to the belief that this bill will prove more popular in the years to come than even a most generous cash bonus.

The latest ruling of the committee is that any ex-service man, his wife, son or daughter, having to go to the hospital (regardless of whether he is needy or not) is entitled to his room, board and ordinary nursing, to be paid for out of this fund, at a rate not exceeding $4 per day.

In addition to this, needy veterans may file application stating their financial condition, etc., for the cost of operations, surgical care, etc., but those who are able are expected to pay for these services themselves, being entitled only to hospitalization except in cases of need.

In the three years the state aid fund has been available fully a thousand dollars has been paid to Plattsmouth and Cass county needy service men, under the old application for relief procedure, while now with the scope of the relief permitted so greatly broadened, the state aid fund will prove of much greater value to the ex-service men of the state than a cash gratuity, which in many instances would have been spent overnight, leaving the veteran without means of paying expensive hospital bills in case of severe illness.

Although the state aid fund is being administered by the American Legion and relief and hospitalization blanks are signed by local post officers of the Legion it is not necessary that the applicant be a member of the Legion to avail himself of the relief provided for him by a generous legislature which saw in this a better plan than the giving of a cash bonus.

SOAP ONCE A COSMETIC

Gradually the use of soap has become general, or nearly so, and Liebig says that a nation's degree of civilization may be judged by the amount of soap it consumes.

Our present generation in America consumes more soap than any people in the world. Our use of cosmetics is increasing at almost the same rate as it did in Gaul, they used it as soap in their historical origins.

It is perplexing to evaluate the discovery of soap properly, for its origin is so confused in vanity. Another historian credits the invention of soap, or a mixture that perhaps was the genesis of soap, to a colony of Phoenician settlers in Gaul, who used it as a salve for eruptions on the body. The lye was made from water and ashes, and olive oil was used for the fat.

This source is of greater spiritual comfort, because the healing of diseases, while never a proper function of soap is a more ennobling impulse than false adornment of the person by discolored hair.
