Under the Decision Competition For Deposits May Again Grow Unless Law is Amended.

Bankers are of the opinion that if the supreme court adheres to its recent holding that the guaranty fund can be held liable for deposits made where the bankers individually agree to pay excess interest it will be necessary to secure amendment of the law at the coming session if a serious menace to the fund is to be removed.

The state will file a motion for a rehearing, but has practically held to the same doctrine. It is not likely that it will reverse itself. This time, however, the court was very plain in holding that such a practice is not only proper, but that it may save the guaranty fund from loss by opening up further opportunities for getting needed money.

The statute prohibits any bank from paying more than 5 per cent interest on deposits, necessary in order to limit the competition between banks for money. The supreme court has held that where the bank agrees to pay more than 5 per cent interest the deposit becomes a loan and the owner is not subject to reimbursement from the guaranty fund. Under its late holding, it removes, in part, the bar against competition for deposits.

If a bank is hard pressed for funds it finds the way barred after it has borrowed on its good paper. It cannot get more money by soliciting deposits bearing only 5 per cent. Under the court decree, however, there is opened up the opportunity to go to another bank or to individual holders of money and really borrow on the security of the guaranty fund. "A hard pressed banker," said one expert, "can go to a man with money or to another bank and say, 'I will issue a certificate of deposit for that amount, carrying 5 per cent, and if we broke you will get your money back from the fund. Personally, I will pay you 3 per cent more, and give you my check now for the interest.' As the court views it this side contract does not remove the deposit from the protection of the guaranty fund, since all the bank is paying is 5 per cent. And if the banker, without the knowledge of the depositor, charges this excess interest the deposit is not imputed to the depositor."

PROFITING FROM THE WAR

Paris, Jan. 2.—"The United States is the only nation that is getting real solid and durable benefits out of the world war," Georges Tchitcherin, the soviet foreign minister said to the Petit Parisien's Moscow correspondent, in answer to a question regarding the present relations of the United States to Europe.
"America's economic pressure on the European states," Tchitcherin continued, "is an argumenting day by day. Such a situation of inequality must, on the whole, be considered unhealthy. It must be added that recently the American government has profited by its international strength under the direction of Secretary of State Hughes to act in the sense of aggressive imperialism and in the far east has presented a menace to Chinese independence."

ONE-SEVENTH FEDERAL TAXES BACK TO STATE

Nebraska Pays in $10,791,615 and $1,555,586 Is Returned as "Aid."

Over 14.41 per cent of the taxes contributed by citizens of Nebraska to the federal treasury are being returned to the state by various federal aid acts, it was revealed here today by officials of the treasury department.

During the past fiscal year Nebraskans paid $10,791,615 in federal taxes, and received from the federal government as its proportion of federal aid $1,555,586, or 14.41 per cent. New York received the smallest share of federal aid during the year amounting to only .58 per cent of the total federal taxes it paid. Nevada ranked first, having received from the federal treasury $1.16 for every dollar contributed to the federal government.

Nebraska ranks twelfth among the states in the union in the amount of federal aid it received during the past year. Nebraska members of congress who are familiar with the situation stated that the time is rapidly coming when the federal government will be compelled to curtail all forms of financial assistance extended to the states.

Coolidge's Message.
President Coolidge in his last message to congress is believed to have had this matter in mind when he stated that the "efficiency of state governments is impaired as they relinquish and turn over to the federal government responsibilities which are rightfully theirs."

The president declared he is opposed to any expansion of this policy, and he expressed the conviction it can be reversed.

The rapid expansion of the federal aid system until about 5 per cent of the nation's income is devoted to it, has been due principally to certain pieces of legislation enacted during the past few years. These acts are:

The Smith-Lever act, for co-operative extension work; the federal aid highway act; the Chamberlain-Kahn general disease act; the Smith-Hughes vocational educational act; the industrial rehabilitation act; and the Sheppard-Towner maternity act.

Must Match Dollars.
Under these acts approximately $21,772,175 in federal aid has been granted to the states during the end of the fiscal year 1924, whereas in 1914 the total of federal aid allowances paid to the states amounted to less than $5 million 5 hundred thousand dollars.

The requirement that the state must match national appropriations from state or local sources is common to all these acts, and is believed to have resulted in the considerable pressure being brought to bear upon state legislatures to increase state appropriations.

There is pending before congress another federal aid measure—a bill proposing the establishment of a new department of education. It has been agitated by members of congress for a number of years.

Another bill which has already been approved authorizes an annual appropriation of 2 million 8 hundred thousand dollars for expenditure by the national government in co-operation with state and private agencies for forest fire prevention, reforestation and extension of timber lands. No appropriations have yet been made under this act.

VAIL MEDAL AWARDED TO OKLAHOMA LINEMAN

St. Louis, Jan. 1.—After investigating hundreds of daring acts performed by employees of telephone companies throughout the country the national committee of award of a plunger medal to the National Telephone Company of New York adjudged C. E. Rider, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, the winner of the Vail gold medal of the Southwestern Telephone company for the most outstanding heroic deed performed in 1924. It was announced at the local offices of the company.

Rider, a lineman, rowed a boat several miles against a current and through blazing gasoline floating on the Cimmaron river to restore broken wires between Chicago and Galveston.

OLD TIMER WAS SCALPED BY THE INDIANS IN 1868

Former Resident of Nemaha County Had This Experience in Pioneer Days in the West.

The daily papers carried the following interesting dispatch about an early day pioneer of Nemaha county. In fact the subject of the sketch was a pioneer long before Nemaha county was known. The dispatch is as follows:

New has reached here of the death of Allen Edwards at his home at Waukomis, Okla., at the age of 74. For many years the Edwards family lived on the Dan McClure farm some six miles northwest of Table Rock. They moved to Oklahoma several years ago.

In 1848 Mr. Edwards, then a boy of 18, was stung by a blow from an Indian war club and scalped and left for dead on Walnut creek, near Great Bend, Kan., by a band of roving Indians, when these savages attacked a wagon train. His hair never grew again and he wore a wig to cover the unsightly scar.

Few victims of Indians in pioneer days were as lucky as Mr. Edwards. The World War and the Indians marks the last life of the noted freighting train that the Indians attacked. It was in this same train that the father of Alex Weddle was killed. Mr. Weddle was in the last wagon of the train for sick, but the Indians had no feeling for a sick man so killed him with the rest of the number. They supposed, of course, that they had ended the life of Edwards when they scalped him, but fate said not, and he finally crawled to a creek and hid for a time and afterwards made his escape.

Was First White Child.
Alex Weddle, whose father was killed by the band of Indians, was the first white child born in Nebraska. The Weddles resided near the mouth of the Nemaha in the early fifties. Alex Weddle is still living near Millen, Nebraska.

Allen Edwards father, located near the Missouri in the early fifties, and was the first ordained minister in this territory. This, of course, was many years before Nemaha county was known. It was in the early fifties that the first white child was admitted into the union until 1869.

Many interesting details might be narrated but one of striking interest is brought to light by an old acquaintance of Allen Edwards.

Had Not Been Whipped.
Fighting Indians never seemed to put any fear in the white man, and this held true with Mr. Edwards. Although he had been scalped he had not been whipped, and every time he saw an Indian in after years he wanted to kill him on sight.

One day while in Brownville two of the red skins appeared in the city on their ponies wrapped in their high colored blankets. Mr. Edwards was known to take a swig now and then and that day he had taken a drink or two which seemed to raise his ire and he proceeded to his Indian friends and tore their beautiful blankets into shreds before the officers could calm him.

The death of Mr. Edwards ends a chapter of wonderful interesting early day life coupled with Indian fighting that causes a shudder to come over one as he thinks of the rehearsing of the details.—Auburn Republican.

ROBINSON DEMANDS SUGAR TARIFF PROBE

Washington, Jan. 2.—An investigation of the tariff commission was asked today in a resolution offered by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader.

The inquiry would be conducted by the senate finance committee with a view to determining whether any pressure had been brought to bear on members of the commission in connection with the sugar investigation.

Under the rules the resolution went over for the day. Senator Robinson made no explanation beyond having the text read and its introduction led to no immediate debate.

PAYERS OF INCOME TAX FIND SOME CONSOLATION

Washington, Jan. 1.—The bureau of internal revenue has chosen New Year's eve as the time for advising all persons who have income taxes to pay that the time for filing their returns has come again. It may be said, but it is true, and the bureau's announcement made it rather definite by adding: "The period for filing income taxes returns for the calendar year 1924 begins at midnight tonight and ends at midnight March 15." There, however, is some consolation to be found. Officials explained, even on New Year's eve, in that thousands of persons will pay 25 per cent less on this year's income than they paid in 1923.

ARE PREPARING TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR COTNER SMOOL

Christian Church Will Stage Large Meeting in Interest of Their College This Sunday.

The Christian church of this city will hold a very large meeting at the church here tomorrow in the interest of the Cotner college endowment fund that is being raised in the state churches to aid in the work of the college. The amount of the endowment is $1,000,000 and is being taken up with the greatest interest over the state and nation.

A county organization has been established with headquarters at Weeping Water and W. Hugh Fletcher, will be here in the county to aid in the campaign and will be in this city to attend the meeting here on Sunday. There will be a large number of the notable leaders of the church here for the day including J. T. Corwine, former mayor of Topeka, Kansas, and a minister of the church; Mrs. H. H. Harmon of Lincoln, Neb., the pastor of the First church of that city; W. J. Evans of Indianapolis, one of the best known clergymen of the central states; Peter Cope, a widely known religious leader, and Rev. S. R. Bradley of Weeping Water, and the Weeping Water male quartet will also be present to take part in the meeting here as will also Mr. Fletcher, the county leader.

The public will be interested in learning of some of the splendid results of the work of Cotner college which has a record of having one in 55 graduates of the college in "Who's Who in America," while the general average is one in 200 graduates in the United States.

Cotner college has given six college presidents to the nation, for the Christian colleges of America. Thirty-eight university, college and normal school professors, eighty-four high school and grade teachers carrying A. B. degrees.

In the field of religion, the college has furnished the national secretaries, 200 ministers, 53 missionaries, 22 instructors in Christian colleges and 471 engaged in special religious work.

Twenty-eight per cent of the college students coming from the Christian colleges of America furnish 90 per cent of the leaders of Christian and educational work.

Eighty-five per cent of all college and university presidents come from Christian colleges.

One of the dominant thoughts resulting from the World War and being stressed by America's foremost thinking men is that Christian education as emanating from Christian colleges must be the power that will bring world peace.

This generation can well be proud that they are in a larger way achieving more in the bringing about of inculcation of Christian ideals than any generation of any age preceding. And this is resulting primarily because of the emphasizing of Christian education.

INCREASE IN POSTOFFICE APPROPRIATION BILL

Washington, Jan. 2.—The treasury postoffice appropriation bill was reported by the senate appropriations committee today carrying a total of $763,309,000 or $125,036 more than was provided as it passed the house. Increases ordered by the senate committee were scattered throughout the field services of both departments, there being no outstanding items in the entire list of changes.

As reported the bill exceeds the present law by $12,000,000, but still is $11,826,000 under the budget estimates for 1926.

RADIO CONCERT JARS THEATER MANAGERS

"Unless Something is Done We All Might as Well Quit," Says William A. Brady.

New York, Jan. 2.—With thousands delighted with the first radio concert by John McCormack and Lucrezia Bori, the theater managers, according to spokesmen, are facing a crisis as a result of the latest development of free amusement on the air.

In the first of a series of bi-weekly concerts by noted artists, never on the air before, Mr. McCormack and Miss Bori, with their golden voices gave a concert last night through station WEAF with seven other stations in eastern cities participating in the broadcasting.

William A. Brady, theatrical producer, commenting on what he termed this "gorgeous" free entertainment, asserted that "radio constitutes the greatest menace that the theatre has ever faced." He cited the poor attendance at the theatres last night as proof of his assertion that the patronage of nearly every theatre in the city was affected by the first appearance of golden voices on the air.

The Metropolitan opera house, however, was sold out for the performance of "Feodora" with Maria Jeriza as the principal singer. Miss Bori also is a star at the Metropolitan.

The reception room at WEAF was crowded. Music critics who listened in on the concert say that the most obvious thing is that something is lost when a singer is heard over the radio.

PORK PRODUCTS BOOST EXPORTS

Nebraska Jumps Two Places in Relative Standing of All States—Large Foreign Demand

By increasing its merchandise exports $1,856,664 during the quarter ended September 30, 1924, over the figures of the previous three months, Nebraska advanced its relative standing among the states and regions of the union from thirty-third to thirty-first place, according to statistics just released by the department of commerce.

Reaching totals of $5,439,278 for the period in question, as compared with $3,582,614 for the previous three months, Nebraska superseded South Carolina and Arkansas in the race for foreign sales.

Lard led all other commodities in exports for the quarter under review, being valued at $1,102,939. Next came cured hams and shoulders, amounting to $1,063,231. Bacon shipments totaled $819,943; lead in the quarter, etc. reached valuations of $723,691; and vegetable food products, oil seeds, etc., amounted to $376,168. Other animal products shipped abroad totaled $1,290,331.

The first ten states in the tabulation and the amounts of their exports: New York, $75,909,180; Texas, $163,205,439; Pennsylvania, $71,834,632; Illinois, $70,765,613; California, $54,374,555; New Jersey, $49,852,174; Louisiana, $46,470,829; Michigan, $39,715,774; Ohio, $31,071,984; and Massachusetts $27,702,446. Tennessee's figures were $330,246 better than those of Nebraska, while South Carolina runner-up fell over $1,000,000 behind Nebraska in this phase of foreign trade.

Grand totals for the first nine months of the year give Nebraska figures of $13,871,977 and thirty-third place in the relative list of states. South Carolina, holding down thirty-first position, had a safe advantage of $2,500,000 over Nebraska, while the latter state's lead over Rhode Island, its nearest competitor, was close to $4,000,000.

GIVEN A REAL SURPRISE

Mrs. Lena Droege of this city had a very pleasant surprise on Christmas day that she will long remember, from her children who are residing in Omaha. It had been the intention of Mrs. Droege to go to Omaha for the day and to bring her daughter, Mrs. Gale Connor, but the bad weather prevented this and accordingly she had faced the prospect of Christmas alone here. She had gone to church and later enjoyed a fine dinner down town and returned home when she heard the sound of an auto stopping in front of her residence and her surprise may be imagined when she discovered that Mr. and Mrs. Connors and son and Carl Droege had motored here for the day and brought with them the Christmas dinner that had been prepared in Omaha and despite odds the family had a real Christmas feast together.

ENJOYED FINE CHRISTMAS AT THE HOME OF HIS DAUGHTER

Charles Johnson had the pleasure of spending Christmas in the country southwest of town with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Scheel, Jr., and with his little grandson, Robert Russel Scheel. Mr. Scheel came after his father-in-law with his spanning new team of clay banks which he recently purchased at the sale of his uncle, Ferdinand Wendt, of Crawford, who took the horses to Adams, where he held a big sale of horses a few weeks ago. The horses are 5 and 6 years old and are perfectly matched and are surely a handsome pair of high steppers. The trip to the farm was made in a sleigh and was very enjoyable and somewhat of a novelty to Mr. Johnson. They had a fine duck dinner on Christmas day.—Louisville Courier.
