Ran Minford has a fractious horse which required to be thrown to be shod but the critter went out of the blacksmith shop he was wearing the shoes, and no doubt about it. That was Monday, on Tuesday, after to celebrate the event, the horse ran away, probably hearing of the running away of the team of John Farris the day before.

Mrs. B. F. Brendel, who has been feeling quite poorly for some time, departed last Tuesday afternoon for Omaha where she will take treatment at one of the hospitals there for some time, with the hope that her health may be restored. Her many friends in Murray and elsewhere are wishing that she may return home soon restored in health.

Two Runaways. Last Monday the team of John Farris, which has been eating plenty of this dollar and sixteen cent corn, was feeling the effects of the high cost of living and kicking up their heels concluded to show the people of Murray what they could do and went lickitylap down the street, clearing the thoroughfare of Murray quicker than the sheriff could have cleaned a joint in which niggers were shooting craps. They finally came in contact with the mail box post at Doc Long's and this checked them some and they began to think what are we running for and stopped after the excitement was all over. Not much damage for the fun they had.

Arrives From the South. A. W. Reed, who was called to Sterling Kansas, where a sister, Mrs. M. E. Watson, has passed away, and where he went to attend the funeral of the sister, and also to visit a brother, Mr. R. J. Reed of Alden, Kansas, who has been very sick as well, returned home last week. The brother is some better, but it is not expected that he will finally recover his health until he shall have undergone an operation. Mr. Reed says that the weather there was much like here with the exception that they missed the last snow which we received.

Why Not Be Humane.

There seems to have been an epidemic of dog and cat troubles in Murray, for they seem to get poison very easily, and while it might be thought there was to many of the canines and felines, there should be a more humane way of thinning the population.

The Boys Were Mistaken.

Two young lads, who have been frequenting the elevator district at late hours, were very severely frightened when they saw two men shot down one night not long since. The men, who were shot and dropped recovered as the bullets did not hit them. The boys were away and gone before the men who had a chance to laugh at the joke which they had played on them. Such is life.

Christ Prays for Disciples

Golden Text: "Holy Father, keep them in thy name, which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we are."—John 17:11.

Just before the Master and his disciples departed from the upper room to go to the garden of Gethsemane, He prayed for the disciples, knowing full well the time was near, even at hand, when he should be betrayed and crucified. He talked with the Father. What an exalted privilege that was which the disciples enjoyed to hear the son of the most high God, even Jesus Christ, talk to the Father, the creator of Heaven and earth, and all the universe—talk of things pertaining to themselves, addressing the Father who had so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth on him might not perish, but have everlasting life. He said:

1—Father, thy hour is come. Glorify thy son that thy son may glorify thee.

2—Even as thou gavest him authority over all flesh, that to all whom thou hast given him, he should give eternal life.

3—And this is life eternal, that they should know thee, the only true God and him whom thou didst send, even Jesus Christ.

4—I glorified thee on the earth, having accomplished the work which thou hast given me to do.

5—And now, Father, glorify me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6—I manifested thy name unto the men whom thou gavest me out of the world; thine they were, and thou gavest them to me; and they have kept thy word.

7—Now they know that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are from thee.

8—For the words which thou gavest me, I have given them, and they received them, and know of a truth that I came forth from thee, and they believed that thou didst send me.

9—I pray for them. I pray not for the world, but for those that thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10—And all things that are mine are thine and thine are mine, and I am glorified in thee.

11—And I am no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee, Holy Father. Keep them in thy name which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we are.

12—While I was with them, I kept them in thy name, which thou hast given me; and I guarded them so that not one of them perished but the son of perdition, that the Scriptures might be fulfilled.

13—But now I come to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they may have my joy full in themselves.

In the beginning God created the Heavens and the earth. The earth was without form and void; and darkness covered the face of the deep. This was a new world. Man was created and given a home in Eden—Paradise, but man fell and the world was again plunged into darkness, this time spiritual darkness, and man who had been made in the image of God, by his own volition became very sinful. People multiplied and grew in sin, and the world became so wicked that the people all but eight were destroyed at the time of the flood.

Then a new covenant was made, with the rainbow as a token, that the world would not again be destroyed for man's sake. Then the covenant was made with Abraham that in his seed should all the world be blessed, through his seed, and the omnipotent should come, the redeemer of the world—the Christ.

Then God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life.

The coming of Christ in the flesh was a fulfillment of prophecy, for "The word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

The boy, Jesus, grew to manhood and lived all of His life without blemish by instruction from the father and had selected a little band through which he was to establish his church which was and is to be the means through which the world shall be saved. After three years of teaching by precept, by example, by miracle, by the overcoming of natural forces, the Christ comes to the time in which he is to be offered up, his life to pay the price for the sins of the world. And at this time, in the presence of his little band, he talks to the Father about them and their mission to the world.

Because it was God's plan to have man an instrument in the salvation of the world and themselves, this prayer of the son to the Father was staged in their presence. When Christ prayed at the tomb of Lazarus, he said unto the Father, "I know that thou hearest me always, but I say it that they who stand here may believe that thou hast sent me."

That the world, which is incredulous, might believe, were many of the wonderful works done for when the disciples asked him, "Who didst thou say that thou art?" the Master answered, "Neither this man nor his parents, but that the glory of God might be made manifest."

In this prayer Christ says: "I have accomplished the things which thou hast sent me into the world to perform." He had fully fulfilled all the things which were required of him. He had overruled the forces of nature, had restored life after it had left the body, had cured disease and in doing so had forgiven sins for had there been no sin, no transgression of the law there had been no sorrow, disease or death.

Now he comes to the final acts which is to prove his divinity in line with all his life which had proved him the Son of God and the savior of the world; in line of prophecy, he was to offer his life as a ransom for the sins of the world, thus freeing mankind from the transgression of Adam. Then was to occur the bursting of the bonds of death which is the prison house of sin, for the wages of sin is death. He had overcome the world; now he was to overcome the bonds of death, thus demonstrating his power again to save a lost world. The great climax was the enlightening of the disciples at the day of Pentecost and sending the comforter, the Holy Spirit. Then when all this which has been done, he returns to his Father, with whom he was even before the world was created.

Paul has aptly said, "There is no other name given under heaven or among men, whereby we must be saved, except that of Jesus, the Christ, the son of God and the savior of the world." This salvation and the joys of eternal life are ours, if we will but accept the Christ and obey his commandments.

DIVORCE RECORD FOR THE YEAR

From Tuesday's Daily.—The records at the office of Clerk of the District Court Beal disclose the fact that in the year 1924 there were fifteen divorces granted by the court and thirty hearts made happy. This is a gain of two over the record of 1923 and in the face of 37 marriages gives us quite a Reno showing for the year. However, it may be stated that by far the largest number of Cass county marriages have taken place at Council Bluffs or Glenwood owing to the Nebraska barbed wire marriage license law. This law may have been a fine measure in the eyes of its promoters but
