Mrs. George McReynolds and daughter, Leona, and son, Elmer, and Mrs. Albert Wolfe were visiting and doing some shopping in Nebraska City last Saturday.

Mr. W. A. Hicks, after a third attempt at a well at the home of Mr. D. D. Adams, has succeeded in getting a good supply of water, the first two efforts resulting in dry holes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Boedeker were in attendance at the funeral at Murray last Sunday, going to pay their last respects of honor and love at the burial of the late Walker Gilmore.

F. A. Boedeker was a visitor at home last Sunday, and departed Monday for Lincoln where he went to take up his work again as bank examiner.

Messrs. Frank P. Sheldon and David C. West, of Nehawka, prominent business men, were called to Plattsmouth last Friday where they had some business matters to look after.

Luther Meade of near Union, was a visitor in Nehawka last Monday, looking after some business and coming over on horseback, which is a slight departure from the regular order of business.

Grover Hoback and wife were at Murray last Sunday where they went to be present at the last sad rites over the remains of the late Walker Gilmore whose funeral occurred on last Sunday afternoon.

C. F. Hitt, who lived west of Nehawka the past season, one day last week in company with some other, C. E. Hitt, of Plattsmouth, started for the south in a car. They had gotten as far as Atchison, Kansas, when the younger man was stricken with sickness and the party had to abandon their trip and return. Mr. Hitt is reported as being better.

Mrs. C. A. Rosencrans was a visitor in Nehawka for last Saturday and Sunday being a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wunderlich, where she visited very pleasantly for the time. The parents, on last Sunday took her to Union, where she took the train for home, escaping the down pour of rain that came only after she had arrived at home.

Make Changes at Barber Shop.

Frank N. Lemon, the popular barber, has been making some changes at the shop, which is having a new steel ceiling placed on the room, by the owners of the auditorium, Mr. Charles Bates doing the work. The room is being given a new coat of larch being Edward Wood and when the work is over the shop will present a quite nifty appearance.

Getting Ready for Tournament.

The boys state basketball tournament will be held at Omaha on March 5th, 6th and 7th, and the boys team in Nehawka are practicing for the event as they will enter in the competitive contests.

Taken to Hospital Monday.

Mrs. Martin Ross, who has been having trouble with her eyes for some time past, departed last Monday, accompanied by Mr. Ross, for Omaha where she entered the hospital for treatment for her eyes. It is hoped she will be able in a short time to return with her eyes entirely cured. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rough, took them to Union to catch the train.

Missouri Pacific Jumps Track.

During last Sunday night the night freight which runs between Union and Lincoln jumped the track near the home of George Hansen and caused much inconvenience with the traffic on the branch on Monday. The early train from Union to Murray went as far as the wreck, where they exchanged passengers and other business with the train which had come from Lincoln, and each backed out after the exchange. The passengers south on the main line was held for about an hour on account of the wreck.

Many Attend Funeral at Murray.

Many of the Nehawka people attended the funeral of the late Walker Gilmore, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Gilmore of Murray last Sunday. The weather was very threatening and most of those who went were caught in the rain, and much trouble was had by many who went unprepared for bad roads as the roads had been excellent. Mr. George Hanson told of seeing five cars stalled at the hill near Mr. Rusterholtz, while George Pollard returned via Union to avoid the bad hills and slippery roads.

Have Excellent Hog Sale.

Harry Knabe, the young hog breeder and raiser, who has made such a success with the breeding of Hampshire hogs, held a sale at his home on last Monday and at which he had for sale some of the finest hogs of this strain raised in all the western states. There were people from many different states there to make purchases. Harry has done some good advertising and the results were reflected in the excellent crowd present in spite of the bad roads and the heavy rain of the night before. Col. Rex Young, the celebrated auctioneer, had charge of the selling and Walter J. Wunderlich of the bank of Nehawka was clerk, they both being good men for the places which they occupied. Busy Workers of the Methodist church served a most delicious lunch which always makes a man good natured.

Departed for the West.

Col. Rex Young, who conducted the hog sale for Henry Knabe, had to catch the train for the west for the western part of the state, where he has sales for the remainder of the week. Mr. Young, when he shall have closed the week, will be officiated at one hundred sales during the season.

Knabe's Hampshires Average $70.

The Harry Knabe Hampshire sale at Nehawka yesterday was one of the tops of the season, the 48 head cataloged selling for an average of over $70. The top of $170 was paid by the Big Four Farms at Brookings, Ia., for Lot 11, a daughter of Yankee King bred to Lookout DeKlab. This gilt was a full sister to the junior champion bear at the National and she, with her two little mates, sold for an average of $140. SWEDEN HAS LOST FOREMOST LEADER Death at Stockholm of Former Premier—Socialist in Politics, But Respected by All Classes.

Stockholm, Feb. 24.—Flags were at half mast throughout Sweden today in honor of Hjalmar Branting, former premier, who died shortly after noon. All classes expressed their regret at the passing of one who was regarded as among Sweden's greatest statesmen. Branting had been ill for several weeks and serious complications developed during the last few days. Gallstone inflammation set in while his vitality was also ebbing. One of the political effects of his death is expected to be the development of a tension—if not a complete split—within the ranks of the socialist party, which has been held by the great force of Branting's personality. The former premier's nearest followers were Minister of Defense Hansson, and former Minister of Finance Thorsson. Both of these men belong to the more conservative element of the party, while Richard Sandler, present head of the cabinet, and Minister of Finance Ernst Vigfors, are known as being radical in tendency. Branting's influence was successful on several occasions in holding the party together.

The former premier had been ill since November 30, when he contracted influenza. At that time he expected to go to the Rome meeting of the league of nations council. He later contracted thrombosis and on January 24, resigned as premier. He is survived by a widow, Anna Branting, who for forty years has been well known as an authoress; a son, George, a lawyer; a daughter, Sonja, also a lawyer, and a brother, Axel, a journalist.

The reaction to Branting's death in all political camps, as reflected in the afternoon papers, is remarkable and unanimous. The ultra-conservative Aftonbladet, in its obituary notice: "He was a real patriot and his guiding star was his pure idealism."

The bolshevist editor and party leader, Zeth Hoeglund, one of Branting's bitterest antagonists, says: "Lucidity of style, logic of thought and orthodox Catholic, when women worshippers attacked a so-called separatist priest, Lius Monje, when he attempted to celebrate mass in the Soledad church, a short distance from the national palace."

Police were summoned to suppress the disorder and fired in the air. The worshippers protested that they were the victims of armed separatists who had been guarding the church since it was seized Saturday night.

Despite the police the women refused to leave the edifice and remained inside with the purpose of preventing Monje from conducting mass.

Leave Armed Guard.

After the announcement last Wednesday of the formation of a national Mexican church and the publication of a manifesto in which Joaquin Barro, a Catholic, a former priest, proclaimed himself patriarch, about 100 armed men, led by the so-called "Father Monje," on Saturday night drove Father Alejandro Silva from the Soledad church. When the police arrived to preserve order and clear the nearby streets, the separatists consented to leave the church but only on condition that Monje should not be disturbed and that they be permitted to maintain five armed men to watch the place of worship.

Although it was announced that Monje would celebrate mass yesterday, the service did not take place, and when an attempt was made at noon today to conduct mass the women worshippers vociferously protested when they learned that the separatist leader was on the altar.

Claim Labor Support.

Owing to the opposition of the middle classes of the population it is not believed the separatists will attempt to carry out their announced intention to occupy the Soledad and other large churches in the capital, as well as the Guadalupe shrine, which is the home of Mexico's patron saint. The separatist has declared that their movement is being supported by Mexican labor organizations, but Eduardo Moreda, general secretary of the Mexican regional federation of labor, the largest organization of its kind in Mexico, is quoted as saying that the rules of the federation prohibit it from participating in religious matters.

Competition in Rural Districts Healthy for Country Merchants.

Ole Buck Tells Ad Club. There is plenty of business for city merchants and small town merchants alike in Nebraska rural districts. Ole Buck pointed out to Lincoln Ad club members Monday noon at the chamber of commerce, and there is no danger of the small town man being put out of business, except thru his own fault. City advertisers are going more and more into the country field, but the small town merchant will always have his own field, and the small town newspaper is justified in carrying advertising for both.

"Small town merchants no longer buy space to keep the paper alive," Mr. Buck said, "except in a few instances, but because advertising gives them service. As living standards rise, the rural demand for finer things will grow and country people will go to the city for the sort of things their own merchants cannot afford to stock. This doesn't mean ruin for the latter. Harvard people now come to Lincoln to shop. Lincoln goes to Omaha, Omaha to Chicago, Chicago to New York and New York to Paris, and they all prosper. "City advertisers can take a lesson from the mail order houses in preparing their copy and layouts. More pictures and more detailed descriptions are necessary to bring the farmer's wife into the city to shop, because it isn't easy for her as for the city woman. And while some newspapers are well equipped, the majority are not as you cannot specify type and border as you can in laying out your ad for the city paper. This makes the use of plate more satisfactory, and as more and more offices are installing casting equipment, mats will prove still better. They cost as much to make, but postage is much lower on them.

"Country merchants and editors are beginning to study advertising systematically, for the former has realized that the only way to keep a paper alive today is to make it worth while to advertisers and readers alike."—State Journal.

ONE KILLED AND SEVEN WOUNDED IN CHURCH FIGHT

Faction of Catholics in Mexico City Use Guns in Battle Over Seizure of Soledad Edifice.

Mexico City, Feb. 24.—One person was killed and seven were injured in a clash at noon today between followers of the recently proclaimed Mexican Catholic Apostolic church and orthodox Catholics, when women worshippers attacked a so-called separatist priest, Lius Monje, when he attempted to celebrate mass in the Soledad church, a short distance from the national palace.

Police were summoned to suppress the disorder and fired in the air. The worshippers protested that they were the victims of armed separatists who had been guarding the church since it was seized Saturday night.

USES TRIGGER DEVICE TO DESTROY HOOTCH

Stevens Point, Wis., Feb. 22.—One of the latest devices for the destruction of intoxicating liquor when a raid by dry agents seemed imminent, was found in a saloon at Bancroft, raided by Sheriff H.
