Can You Follow Up Your Opportunities?

You can if you are doing business with your home bank which is right on the ground with you and can understand your position.

But living in one town and banking in another makes it hard for the other bank, hard on our bank and hard on the customer who wants immediate and efficient service.

Murray Over the Top.

Like all things which Murray does, she went over the top in the gravel canal and it was done in a very short time. For her population, notwithstanding she is not on the proposed gravel road at all, the committee, composed of George Nickels, W. G. Boedecker, A. Gansemer, Arthur Hanson and Everett Spangler, did splendid work. This team did valiant work in the collecting of this money and when they had completed their work they found they had more money than they were expected to raise. Murray always does her full share and generally a little more besides.

Entertains Friends Saturday.

Leslie Gansemer passed the 17th milestone in the Journey of life last Saturday and entertained his friends at the Peterson hall, where some sixty of the young people gathered together and enjoyed the evening most pleasantly in games, songs and music with an excellent luncheon which was served at an appropriate hour in the evening. Some very appropriate presents were presented as tokens of the high esteem in which Leslie is held by his young friends.

Will Receive Banner.

During the past fall and winter there was a contest of all the Bible schools of the Christian churches in Cass county, and in that contest the Murray Christian Bible school, by hard work, was able to win the highest honors, and as a consequence, were accorded the banner, and as the roads have been far from good, ever since the closing of the contest, the committee having charge of the presentation of the banner had not a date for the occasion, but now have decided on the coming Sunday evening as the time they will present the banner to the Murray school. At the time which will be at the time of the evening service hour, there will be given an appropriate program rendered.

Will Move to Kansas.

A. W. Reed and wife entertained at their home west of town a number of their neighbors and friends last Saturday, who had called to give this estimable couple a farewell reception and to wish them happiness, health and prosperity in their new home, to which they will move in a short time, in Kansas where they are expecting to engage in farming. The evening was spent in games, music and social conversation, and a most appetizing luncheon was served gladdened the merry makers and made the evening wisher could be meeting with this excellent couple again. In departing all wished Mr. and Mrs. Reed a pleasant journey and an excellent time in their new home.

School Program a Success.

The program which was given by the Murray schools, about ten days since, was a success in every respect, and was the result of the work of the teachers in training the pupils for the success which came to them. There was a large and most appreciative crowd at the entertainment, and the giving of the entertainment for the training which it furnished the pupils as well as for the benefit of the treasury, to the amount of seventy-five dollars for the purchasing of things which the school room needed, for which the law makes no provision, is to be highly commended. The being able to do these things is very nice and supplies a place which is worthy and also develops the pupils in a way nothing else can.

Card of Thanks.

We have made our home in Cass county for a number of years and during our stay here, have learned to love the people, because they have always been lovable, whenever we were sick, you ministered unto us, both in the Murray neighborhood and in Nebraska neighborhood, when my wife was ill, you were kind, you did everything possible to make her comfortable and relieve her suffering. I want you to know that I duly appreciate the kindness extended, during her illness and at the time of her death, knowing as the Master has said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto Me."

J. P. Douglass.

Have you ever seen a person "Always in Trouble"? Perhaps you will appreciate a position of this sort more if you will go to the M. W. A. hall at Union on next Friday evening, April 3, and see the play, where it will be produced by the Plattsmouth Dramatic Club.

BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday, March 29th
By M. S. Briggs

Closing Period Christ's Ministry
Golden Text: Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, yea and forever.—Heb. 13:8.

For three months we have been studying the events of the last period of the life of the Savior on earth, covering but a week prior to the crucifixion and the 40 days following.

We take up the study with the triumphal entry of the Master into Jerusalem when the people cried, "Blessed is the King that cometh in the name of the Lord," singing Hallelujah to the highest, strewing flowers and branches of trees in the way and proclaiming him king as he rode on the colt. How different this crowd from the one who less than a week afterwards cried, "Crucify him." The night before Jesus had been at the home of Lazarus and his sister, where a supper had been given, as he had but a few days before raised Lazarus from the dead. At this supper Martha had served and Mary had sat at the Master's feet and had anointed him with the ointment, Judas Iscariot objecting, for he wanted the price the ointment would have brought. Then comes the lesson from Matthew, the 25th chapter, showing what shall come at the last day when those who had fed the hungry, visited the sick and ministered to those in prison, given drink to the thirsty and clothed the naked would be placed on the right hand and Jesus says to them, "As often as you have done it unto the least of these my brethren, even the least, you have done it unto Me. And when you have failed to do it unto the least of these, you have neglected to do it unto Me."

Then following this comes "The Lord's Supper." The Savior teaches us "the bread which came down from heaven, that if a person eat thereof he would never hunger, for he said, "Take, eat this bread; it represents my body; eat of it for it represents my body and drink of this wine; it represents my blood which shall shed for the sins of the world and for the redemption of the world."

At this supper Jesus says, "One of you shall deny Me." All protested they would not deny him and Peter most vehemently declared that although all the world shall deny thee, still will I not deny thee. Christ said unto him, "This night before thou cock shall crow, thou shalt have denied me thrice. The disciples being greatly discouraged the Master comforts them and prays the Father to keep them from the world. Following this they depart from the upper room to the garden of Gethsemane.

The great central idea of this lesson is "Not what I will, but what thou wilt." The Master leaving the disciples at the entrance of the Garden takes with him Peter, James and John and goes a ways into the garden. There he charges them, "Watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation." He then went on a stone's throw and kneeling prayed, "If it be possible, let this cup pass, but not as I will, but as thou wilt." This he did three times and at each time found the disciples sleeping. He asked Peter, "Could you not watch with me one hour?" The supreme trial of the Master was in the garden, not only because of the agony, but because of the human endurance. Jesus, the Christ was both human and divine. The humanity of Jesus cried out against the terrible suffering which should come to him that night.

Meantime Judas was away bargaining with the priests to betray the Lord of heaven and earth. While Jesus suffered in the garden, we all must pass through the same trial. Ella Wheeler Wilcox nicely expresses the experiences which shall come to us all, when she says:

"Down shadowy lanes, across strange streams,
Bridged over by our broken dreams;
Behind the misty capes of years,
Beyond the great salt fount of tears
The garden lies. Strive as you may,
You cannot miss it all the way.
All paths that have been, or shall be,
Pass somewhere through Gethsemane.
"All those who journey, soon or late,
Must pass within the garden's gate;
Must kneel alone in darkness there,
And battle with some fierce despair.
God pity those who cannot say—
'Not mine, but Thine'; who only pray
'Let this cup pass,' and cannot see
His purpose in Gethsemane."

The soldiers came and led the Savior to the city and the judgment hall for trial. Here he was buffeted, beaten, spat upon and in many ways humiliated and abused. The Jews gave trial during the night and then it was that Peter denied the Master three times. During these hours many things were happening. All the disciples denied him. Judas came back with the money and when the priests would not accept it, threw it down and went and hanged himself.

Peter, when he realized what he had done, went out and wept bitterly. When morning came the Master was again given trial by Pilate and Herod and finally given over to the soldiers for crucifixion.

On the cross he prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Here the thief on the cross beside the Master says, "Remember me when thou comest to thy kingdom." Jesus says unto him, "This day shalt thou be with me in paradise."

Following the crucifixion, the Master on the third day arose from the dead and met first Mary, then John and Peter on the way to Emmaus, then the ten in the upper chamber, then the eleven, then was seen by more than 500, then again at the ascension, the latter by Paul, then at last by John on the island of Patmos. Another time was the meeting on the shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Here he asks of Peter, "Lovest thou me more than this fishing life?" and Peter answered three times, "Thou knowest I love thee," and received in like manner the command, "Feed my lambs," "Feed my sheep."

One command which was emphasized by the Savior after his resurrection was, "Go ye into all the world and preach my gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved and he who shall not believe shall be condemned."

This is the great commission, and is fulfilled by the one who when he shall have believed, shall go out and work in the Master's vineyard, taking the message of love and forgiveness to a dying world.

MARRYING TO BE EASIER HERE NOW AS NO PEDIGREE WILL BE REQUIRED

Judge Duxbury Will Use His Discretion in Issuing Licenses Until New Law is Effective.
From Wednesday's Daily— The chance to take a fling in the matrimonial game is going to be a little easier from now on in Cass county for the ten months that remain until the old marriage license law goes out in the repeal of the 1923 law that has made Nebraska a marriage desert. County Judge A. H. Duxbury feels that as the legislature has seen fit to repeal the objectionable law that he will use his discretion in the issuing of the marriage licenses from now on until the first of July when the old law goes back into force and the ten-day notice clause is relegated to the history of the past, along with other freak legislation.

"MA" FERGUSON IS STUBBORN

Austin, Tex., March 24.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas today again denied the requisition of Governor Fuller of Massachusetts for the return to that state of Albert P. Russell, charged with wife desertion. Two requests have been made by Massachusetts authorities for the return of Russell. In her reply, Governor Ferguson said she would not permit the "Lone Star state to become a haven of refuge to which criminals might flee or allow its high office to degrade to the order of a collecting agency."

VIOLATED LAW OF CHURCH

Newark, N. J., March 24.—A new issue in the law was raised here today with the filing in circuit court for $50,000 damages against the Castle Ice Cream company by Morris Heyman, who declares the company forced him, his wife, and silver wedding anniversary guests, to sin inadvertently. Heyman's suit complains that he ordered twelve bricks of icees from the company to serve his guests, a mistake not discovered until all had eaten the dessert.
