CITY SCHOOLS HOLD ANNUAL MAY DAY FETE

BEAUTIFUL AND COLORFUL WITH BRIGHT COSTUMES OF THE GIRLS OF SCHOOL.

HELEN WESCOTT IS THE QUEEN

Chosen as the Most Popular Girl in Senior Class; Ruth Tidball is Maid of Honor.

From Saturday's Daily—
After raining in the morning and the lowering clouds threatening rain at any time, the weather man was kind to the May day fete of the Plattsmouth city schools yesterday afternoon and permitted the carrying out of the program without rain, although the threatening weather served to keep many away.

The bleachers and seats around the high school campus were filled by 2 o'clock and as the rain apparently was to hold off its downpour the crowd gradually grew very beautiful and attractive presentation of May day that had been arranged by Miss Frances Fields, supervisor of music of the city schools, and the teachers of the grade schools.

The occasion was colorful with the rainbow like garb of the senior girls who were in the train of the queen as her attendants, as well as in the vari-colored gowns and suits of the little folks of the grade schools who participated in the program.

The high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Fields played the accompaniment for the dances and songs and for the pageant that occupied the first part of the program and also for the march of the queen and the attendants.

The first portion of the program was given over to the pageant that carried out the thought of the springtime season and was very effectively presented in a series of dances and pantomimes.

The story of the pageant was one of interest and very cleverly carried out. Ceres, who is the goddess of agriculture, and takes care of all plants and grain on earth, has one daughter, Prosperina, goddess of springtime. King Pluto succeeded in carrying the daughter away to his realm. Ceres is grief-stricken and sings her lament when informed by Jupiter of the loss of her daughter. Ceres pronounces a curse on the earth until Prosperina returns. Jupiter finally sends Mercury to Pluto to bring back the goddess of springtime. Pluto allows her return for six months and then she must leave the earth for six months when the earth would become cold and dreary.

Ceres was presented by Miss Helen Wescott, Prosperina was most charmingly given by little Miss Jean Caldwell. Edward Patterson made a very striking Pluto, Jupiter was represented by Robert Fitch and Mercury by Roy Kline. The young people made a very pleasing offering of the pageant and the second and third grades were seen in a number of clever dances, while the older girls of the fifth and sixth grades gave a real classic dance that showed the greatest artistic ability on the part of the girls.

The teachers who assisted in the direction of the pageant and the dances were Misses Marion Walker, Jessie Whalen, Estelle Baird, Irene Parli, Marie Svoboda, Amelia Martens and Evelyn Stewart.

One of the most charming of the special numbers given was the solo dance of Miss Melba Gehrett, who is one of the talented young people of the city and gave a very classic exhibition for the benefit of the very large audience.

The question that had been chief in the minds of the audience was that of the selection of the Queen of the May and whose identity was a very closely guarded secret, so much so that the senior girls who were present were unaware up to a very few moments of the coronation of who the queen was to be.

The throne had been arranged at the north end of the campus and was very pleasing to the eye, a lattice-work of white forming the background and over this were placed streamers of the cherry and lavender of the seniors colors while the seat of the queen and the throne was covered with white. The green foliage formed back of the seat of the queen also made a very pleasing effect.

The sound of the march of the orchestra was followed by the appearance of the queen's herald and then the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Tidball, whose dark beauty was enhanced by a dress of the softest shade of pink, her headdress also being in this color and the winsome maid of honor carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The maid of honor was followed by a bevy of senior girls in their bright colored gowns that added beauty to the general settings of the coronation and when grouped around the throne made a very winsome picture of girlish beauty.

The queen came next and as the white clad figure with the long flowing veil approached the campus, the veil borne by the pages, the audience had their first glimpse of the choice of the high school, Miss Helen Wescott, the queen of 1925. Miss Wescott made a most charming queen and the honor was one well bestowed as the new queen has been one of the active figures in the school during her four years in high school and her musical offerings have been an always pleasing feature of the high school entertainments.

The floral crown was placed on the brow of the queen by the maid of honor and completed this feature of the ceremonies of the afternoon.

After the coronation the audience was entertained by a series of fancy dances and drills, one of the cleverest of which was the jazz band, presented by the little folks of Grade C, which was received with marked approval. The choral club of the high school also gave a number that added to the enjoyment of the audience.

The May pole dance was the last attraction of the exercises, the children of the second and third grades assisting in the winding of the pole. In the second part of the exercises, Miss Marion Walker, Miss Anna Rys, Miss Carlis, Miss Janet Bajock, Miss Marie Boyd, Miss Gladys Lash and Mrs. W. G. Kieck assisted in the direction of the children.

The fete was closed by the Star Spangled Banner most appropriately bringing the event to a close.

The 1925 May day fete may well be credited as the cleverest and best arranged of any that have been given despite the fact that the weather served as a handicap to the teachers and the young people taking part. Miss Fields and all the teachers who have been working on the arrangements for the event certainly deserve a world of credit for their splendid service.

Will Popularize Idea of the "Fall Dinner Plate"

The politicians of a decade ago, who put over the slogan "A Full Dinner Pail" had nothing to do with the low townsman C. C. Wescott, president of the Ad club, which is co-operating wholeheartedly with the American Legion in the securing of next year's district meeting here.

Mr. Wescott has worked out the "Full Dinner Plate" idea as a novel feature to advertise Plattsmouth at this city next Thursday, and in it will be incorporated small "labeled" plates, for pinning to the coats of the various delegations, larger ones for tying onto their cars and on up to the monstrous ones that will be placed in and near the convention hall, and on all of them will be suitable printing and painting setting forth the many things Plattsmouth will offer its guests in 1926, one of which that is sure to strike a responsive chord among the delegates being the "full dinner plate" itself. A real feed is in store for them when they come to Plattsmouth and if there is anybody can put the idea across, its C. C.

Enjoyable Reception and Dance for Newyuews

From Saturday's Daily—
The John Meisinger home on west Marble street was the scene last evening of a very enjoyable reception and dance in honor of the newyuews, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kruger, the bride being the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meisinger.

In the early evening, the near relatives came for a three course seven o'clock dinner, including a number from out of town. The table and rooms had been tastefully decorated, and the bride and groom received a hearty welcome from the members of the dinner party as they took their places at the table.

After the dinner hour, additional guests began arriving, including a large number from the vicinity west of town where the Meisinger family resided before removing here. The rooms were cleared and to the tunes of some good, old fashioned music, the guests numbering more than fifty engaged in an old fashioned dance that continued well past the midnight hour.

As a climax to the evening's enjoyment a luncheon of sandwiches, coffee and bride's cake was served, shortly before the hour of departure.

Besides being showered with congratulations, the bride and groom were recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

AUTHOR GIVES REASONS FOR WRITING STORY

Zane Grey Tells Why He Wrote the Story of "The Thundering Herd."

BY ZANE GREY

It would take a long time to tell all about how I came to write "The Thundering Herd"—almost as long as it took to write the book. But perhaps I can give you some idea in short space.

In the first place, some fifteen years ago I had the great good fortune to become a friend of the old plainsman, Buffalo Jones, and he took me on some wild trips to the North Rim of the Grand Canyon. He was really the savior of the buffalo—that is to say, he captured and tamed the buffalo calves, from which have descended all the buffalo living today. Naturally, I became wonderfully interested in these fine, big animals.

One day I was pretty much scared by Jones' cowboys, who put me on a white horse that the buffalo hated, and the whole herd took after me and chased me all over the desert. Not until afterwards did the cowboys tell me that the white horse thought it was play, and could never have been caught by the buffalo.

From that time on, I first heard about the millions of buffalo on the plains in the early days—the vast thundering herds—and the stories of how they were massacred for their hides and bones. Hides sold as cheap as twenty-five cents. This slaughter of the vanishing herds of the thundering herds, and set about getting my material. A few years ago I visited the plains of Kansas, Oklahoma and the Panhandle of Texas, to make myself familiar with the prairie land where the vast herds used to roam. I found deer, bison, wallow, antelope trails, but no other signs of the American bison. Then from all I had gathered I wrote "The Thundering Herd."

I hope all my readers and film fans will be interested in the story, not only because I have tried to draw a true picture of the extermination of one of the most wonderful of our own American animals, but also that it may give you the impulse toward conservation of what wild life still exists in our great country.

The picturization of this famous story by Zane Grey will be shown at the Parmelee theatre four days starting next Wednesday.

APPOINTS COMMITTEE

From Saturday's Daily—
Yesterday Judge James T. Begley held a short session of the district court and appointed a committee on resolutions from the Cass County Bar association to prepare proper expressions of regret at the death of C. S. Arich, one of the well known and popular members of the bar. The court named as the committee J. A. Capwell, C. E. Tefft of Weeping Water, William DelesDernier of Elmwood.

The memorial services for Mr. Arich will be held at the district court room in this city on Monday, May 25th, at 10 a. m.

W. T. Craig Acquires the Greater Part of the Block Between 3rd and 4th Sts., on Pearl

From Saturday's Daily—
One of the largest real estate deals of the past few weeks was consummated yesterday afternoon when W. T. Craig purchased the greater part of the south half of the block lying between 3rd and 4th streets on Pearl street.

This deal makes Mr. Craig the owner of all of the lots in the block west of the two lots owned by L. B. Egenberger and including several residences.

It is the intention of the new owner to have all of the residence properties improved and put in first class shape for rental purposes and which with their closeness to the main portion of the city should make them very desirable for the purposes of homes.

The frame warehouse that was formerly owned by the L. C. Sharp estate will be moved by Mr. Craig to the rear of his coal office on Fourth street and will be used as a storehouse for the lines of goods that he will handle in his transfer lines and coal business.

Mr. Craig has made a very great success of his business ventures in this city and his purchase of this large block of property means that it will be put in first class shape and be a pleasing addition to the community.

Enjoyable Bridge Party at the Egenberger Home

From Saturday's Daily—
Miss Helen Egenberger and Miss Esther Heafey were hostesses this week to one of the largest and most enjoyable bridge parties of the season, the event being held at the attractive Egenberger home on Vine street. There were four tables of bridge and in the playing Miss Jeanette Weber was awarded the first prize while the second prize was awarded to Miss Gladys Lash.

During the evening the young ladies also enjoyed a number of very pleasing musical selections, both vocal and instrumental.

At an appropriate hour very dainty and delicious refreshments were served that added to the enjoyment of all of the members of the party.

A SIGHT FOR THE THIRSTY

From Saturday's Daily—
Parties who were at the Burlington station yesterday had the opportunity of viewing the freight car loaded with iron drums of alcohol that were bound from Chicago to Omaha and which later fell into the hands of Robert Samardick and his force at Omaha.

The consignment of booze had been sent out as oil from some of the Chicago wholesalers in the booze game that prohibition has made so profitable and was consigned to the "Farmers Oil Co." of Omaha and was consigned from the "Star Oil Co." of Chicago, both fictitious names, the federal agents believe.

X CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Last evening the members of the X club were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Jack Hatt on West Pearl street and a large number of the young people of the high school who are members of the club were in attendance. The time was spent in dancing and a general good time, and at an appropriate hour dainty refreshments were served that added to the enjoyment of all of the members of the party.

Max Pfizmeyer was among those going to Omaha this morning to spend the day in that city looking after some matters of business.
