LOVE IS OF GOD

Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God, and everyone that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.—I John 4:7.

A rolling stone gathers nothing but speed.

You can't tell if a man is working too hard or has a radio.

There isn't any law against a man who smokes, carrying matches.

That was some rain Tuesday night. Is the new moon a wet or dry one?

You hardly ever meet a man who doesn't think he is too smart for his job.

A cut from an enemy soon heals, but a cut from a friend leaves a scar for life.

If you're in doubt as to what to do with your last year's straw hat feed it to the cow.

Among the things that seldom happen is a last summer's suit being in style again.

In making a movie they take one long-drawn-out kiss and hunt for a plot to precede it.

If you can't get rid of your enemy any other way you might encourage him to talk himself to death.

A girl needn't be afraid other girls will not notice her engagement ring—sometimes half a dozen have worn.

Omaha will be headquarters for the dry people for three states. That ought to help some, either way you take it.

Don't go away from home to celebrate. A good time is guaranteed in Plattsmouth. No need to go elsewhere.

Congressman Green of Iowa says out of $300,000,000 in taxes is assured. Too much talk, Mr. Green, and no action.

Club women urge teaching citizenship in the home, but the trouble about that is finding anybody at home to teach.

Tourists will not pass through this way if every car that passes southward over the Platte river bridge is searched for booze.

Physiology tells us the sense of touch is dulled on the back, but it doesn't take physiology to tell us it is most sensitive on the pocketbook.

President Calles' statement in reply to the Kellogg note doubtless was written more for its effect upon Mexicans than upon the American department of state.

They are talking now of raising the salaries of dry agents. Yet, let them keep on robbing the taxpayers. The people pay the freight. Jones don't do it any longer.

If you want tourists to pass thru Plattsmouth, you will have to put a curb on some of the officers who are too reckless in searching cars that come over the Platte river bridge.

The Chinese have been demoralized by the influence of our great American cities. They read about the war between cops and gangsters in Chicago and are stirred into a frenzy to kill.

New York is having another sensational row about the sale of impure milk. It is sensational, however, every time New York has a row about impure milk. We'd hate to be a dairyman dependent on New York customers.

The United States Bureau of Standards announces that the weight of the earth is "about six thousand million million tons," however much that may be. Let's see who was that bird who is supposed to have carried the earth around on his shoulders?

We have never carried a parasol in the summer time to ward off the sun, simply because we have doped it out that the game isn't worth the candle. In other words, the exertion a man expends holding an umbrella will offset any shade he may derive from the raised umbrella.

Days are longer now. It stays earlier much later.

The cook book tells you how. The bank book tells you what.

The small boy is just aching for the fireworks to open up.

The 1925 model bedtime story runs thus: "Did you lock the garage?"

Hew to the color line in clothes, girls, let the paragraphs fall where they may.

Marriage is an institution from which too many are quitting before graduation day.

Come to Plattsmouth on the Fourth of July. Celebrate at home and have the time of your life.

It is hard to be a leader in America. You can't tell which way the darned crowd is going.

Radio will never be as popular as the telephone, because on the former everybody can listen in.

A New York man shot himself because he was unable to get liquor. What seemed to be the trouble?

A boy was arrested at Brookhaven for trying to sell a Ford car for $35. It must have had more than one fender missing.

A bride exaggerates her husband's bills, but after a few years of wedded bliss he has to die to prove to her that he is sick.

Manage to put a few dollars away for next winter. A hard winter is already prophesied. A warning in time will save dimes.

Now that the MacMillan polar expedition is off, it probably isn't too soon to begin to organize a relief expedition to rescue it.

Observing the girls flash by at 60 miles an hour, it is hard to believe that a horse once had to be "so gentle a toon could drive it."

The only city that reported no fatalities last year as the result of auto accidents is Cicero, Ill. Great Caesar, let's all go to Cicero!

The month of the brides is the time to look at the big dipper, say astronomers. But hubby will soon be busy looking at her big bills.

Don't heed the big posters to come to the big cities on the Fourth. Save your money and stay at home and celebrate and enjoy a good time.

On with evolution discussion. Hurry up and get it over with. Only a fine ad for Dayton. Evolution has always been a debatable question.

The world is growing better and already at least three American editors have conceded that possibly Germany had a right to elect whom she pleased as president.

The French Academy of Medicine issues the decision that kleptomania is not a disease. Shoplifters in easy circumstances are going to have to think up a new one.

The old fashioned boy who plowed with a mule and wore patches on his pants now has a grandson in the city who has no use for patches except to patch a tire with now and then.

Fourth of July comes but once a year, why not celebrate and have a good time in honor of America's independence. Patriotism should rankle in the brain of every young American.

Searching tourists' cars as they pass over the Platte river bridge is a rank insult to them. An officer should have sense enough to distinguish such cars from the average booze cars.

Three Missouri women jurors voted to convict a man of highway robbery, and then broke down and cried. And there seems to be nothing in that as a criticism either of their hearts or their brains.

The Parmelee theatre people is putting on some fine plays, and you can't cry "Poor movies" anymore. Messrs. Clouet & Moore put fourth every effort to please their patrons, and if you can't appreciate their efforts, it is not their fault—but yours.

IDLENESS AS A GOAL

A Chicago dispatch quotes Bishop E. H. Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church, when speaking on the subject of "work," as saying that "the heresy that life began in a toilless Eden and that its goal is an idle heaven has no religion or Biblical warrant."

Certainly the idea of "an idle heaven" has no basis in reason or common sense. The tired and worn-out man may find grateful the sound of the passage, "they shall rest from their labors," but a little reflection will convince him that nothing could be more intolerable, more acutely miserable, than sitting with folded hands to all eternity. Life that is life involves both activity of interest and actual employment of some sort.

To "rest" from the "labors" of the spirit—the anxieties, fears, alarms, and devastating battles with temptation—cannot involve a cessation of either intellectual interest or active employment, for such cessation would virtually make of man a lifeless automaton. The universal ideal of heaven is an ideal of final peace and happiness, but there can be no peace or happiness in a sluggish idleness that neither exercises the faculties nor performs any service to others. Though not new, the view of Bishop Hughes is logical and convincing.

OUR MURDER RECORD

Chicago had 170 murders in the first 151 days of this year. That is unusual; but not so unusual as a fourth of that number would be in any equal population in the countries from which Chicago's inhabitants came.

Compare the number of our American murderers with the record of England or of the immigrant nationalities with the records of the countries from which they came, and you will find that the same numbers of the same sorts of people committed many more murders in America than in Europe.

Some of the reasons are doubtless obvious, and explain if they do not excuse a part of the difference.

But, even with this allowance, the situation is a challenge to our law, government and institutions to vindicate themselves.

As a girl looks so do the men look.

Some women are so foolish they should have been men.

Most of the motor cars over five years old are paid for.

The most popular summer resort is, "It's too hot to work."

Time it gets cool enough to go to work it is time to go to bed.

The clothes that make the women are the clothes that break the men.

Us farmers cheer when wheat goes up and kick when flour follows suit.

Will Shepherd be convicted? The case is now in the hands of the jury.

Any town is a good one to the man who has the respect of the paying teller.

It is easy for a bow-legged girl to stay in the water instead of sitting on the beach.

The skinny have a slender chance of keeping cool, but the plump, they have a fat chance.

When a young man doesn't get after calling a second time, a flapper puts him down as a flat tire.

Everybody should celebrate the glorious Fourth of July. It is a day ever to be remembered by true Americans.

The department of agriculture is conducting a test to determine just how tough a piece of beefsteak may be. As if anyone cared.

A woman can feed her family out of a tin can and avoid cooking. She can use paper plates and side-step dishwashing. But nobody has yet invented a table that will "rid up" itself.

HABIT OF SERENITY

People who have poise command our admiration. Better than that, they command our affection.

Some men and women we know—rare souls—never "blow up." The east wall may fall right in but they sit unperturbed. They proceed to do the next thing and do it in the best way they know how. We wonder at their constant serenity.

The answer is habit.

If you are accustomed to lose your patience over every trifling irritation, to "go off half-cocked" whenever you are annoyed, to rave when the telephone service is bad or the stenographer misspells your words, you are forming the habit of irritability.

When life's blows come, they will shatter you. You have not formed the habit of serenity. You have no resources, nothing to fall back on.

If, on the other hand, you control your temper on small occasions, you resist the desire to rave, you hold yourself in check in face of the day's petty irritations, you are forming the habit of self-control.

Habit is your greatest aide or your greatest curse in life. It can be made to serve you. Make habit serve you.

If you have formed the habit of serenity by constantly making a definite effort to restrain yourself when you are annoyed by the countless irritations of the day, you will find that when the heavy blows fall, the habit of serenity will take care of you automatically.

You won't blow up because you never do blow up. And people will be amazed at your poise, and wonder what the secret of it is. The secret is habit.

There is a great deal to command the stoic philosophy of the old Romans. Told that his son had died, the stoic replied:

"I didn't expect him to live always."

By careful living from day to day we can prepare ourselves to withstand all the shocks of life.

Serenity is a habit, and there is in it one of the deepest satisfactions in life.

RED CROWN GASOLINE

WHETHER for style, strength or convenience you prefer disc wheels, wire wheels or artillery type, you certainly want the kind of gasoline that turns them fastest and most economically.

Red Crown—the balanced gasoline—is the result of many years of refining experience and innumerable tests. A definite proportion of low boiling point fractions assures instant ignition and quick starting. Higher boiling point fractions burn from the start to the end of the stroke and develop maximum power and speed.

So accurate is Red Crown—the balanced gasoline—in its proportions that altering it in any way provides a fuel that is less satisfactory in some respect. It burns up so completely that carbon troubles are minimum, and very little unburned gasoline passes the piston rings to dilute motor oil.

Standard for Nebraska's first automobiles, it has grown in favor until more Nebraska motorists use Red Crown than any other gasoline. They know it is always uniform and high grade and that they can get it wherever they go. Do as they do. Pull into the nearest Red Crown Service Station for gasoline and for motor oils that provide protective lubrication. You are sure of prompt, obliging service and full measure where you see this sign.

MAGNUS NOT CANDIDATE FOR MINNESOTA OFFICE

Minneapolis, Minn., June 25.—Magnus Johnson, former farmer-labor senator from Minnesota, today denied reports he had announced his candidacy for governor of Minnesota in the 1926 race. Mr. Johnson said he planned to push his election contest against Senator Thomas D. Schall, who defeated him at the last election.
