BELLEVUE COLLEGE TO BE REOPENED

Trustees Vote to Establish "School for Christian Leaders" at Fall Session.

Bellevue college, which has been closed by the government as a vocational training school for the last six years, will be reopened this fall as a "school for Christian leaders."

Decision to reopen the school, which was returned to the control of the Nebraska Presbyterian synod last March, was reached by the board of trustees of the college at its annual meeting at the college yesterday.

The school will be operated under the supervision of the Presbyterian theological seminary, and it will offer courses in religious education and administration designed particularly for laymen desiring to engage actively in church, mission or Sunday school work, as well as some courses for ministerial students.

The board placed the operation of the school in the hands of the executive committee, with instructions to work in co-operation with the Presbyterian Theological seminary, the Nebraska board of Christian education and the national board of Christian education at New York City.

To Work Out Details.
The executive committee will work out details of the plans for the reopening of the school at meetings to be held at an early date.

Rev. L. C. Denise, president of the organization and operation of the college, said last night that he could not yet estimate the size of the faculty or the extent of the courses to be offered.

The board of trustees was induced to reopen the college, Dr. Denise said, largely because of the success of the young people's conference which opened at the college Monday, to continue until Sunday evening. One hundred and fifty young church workers are attending the conference to hear speeches on Sunday school teaching, mission work, stewardship and allied topics by 15 nationally-known speakers. According to Dr. Denise, this is the largest conference of its kind ever held in the country. A conference for ministers is also being held at the college.

RESIDENTS OF CITIES THE MOST HEALTHFUL

New York, June 25.—Despite the popular belief that rural life is inherently wholesome and healthful, statistics indicate the scientific profession afforded the city dweller makes him a far healthier individual than his country cousin, according to George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller foundation. The crystal waters of the old family well are inferior to the product of the faucet, Mr. Vincent declared today in the second installment of the views of the foundation's activities during 1924.

THIRTY REPORTED KILLED FOLLOWING BLAST IN THEATRE

Cause of Kansas City Explosion Is Undetermined—Fireman Dead in Crash.

Kansas City, June 26.—At 2 a. m. this morning, police and fire department officials estimated that from thirty to forty persons had lost their lives in the explosion and fire which last night destroyed the Gillis Theater building here.

The officials, however, made it plain that their estimate was at best guess work, and declared that the number of casualties could not be determined with any accuracy until a thorough check is made of the ruins.

Kansas City, Mo., June 25.—Several persons were believed to have been killed and injured in an explosion and fire in the Gillis theater, a burlesque house, tonight. The explosion, which apparently occurred in a restaurant underneath the theater, caused a portion of the main floor to collapse and blew off the roof. Soon after portions of the walls caved in, burying several persons.

Flames swept the five-story building immediately, according to witnesses. The walls soon crumbled, and in adjoining structures were also destroyed.

Several hours after the theater was reduced to ruins it was impossible to gain definite information as to the number of persons trapped, but Fire Chief Alex Henderson said his men reported several persons were buried in the debris.

John Hogan, a fireman, was killed and two others were seriously injured when a fire truck on the way to the scene crashed into a telephone pole.

Many of the injured were victims of the falling balcony of the theater, spectators at the show declared. It broke into splinters and the flying pieces cut the patrons as they scrambled for safety.

The cause of the explosion could not be determined. A porter at the building declared he smelled gas in the basement half an hour before the building was wrecked.
