KETTLEHUT ESTATE IS ADMITTED TO PROBATE

Court Sustains Proponents of the Will and Allows the Admission and Probate of Estate.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The trial of the protest against the admission of the last will and testament of Henry Kettelhut, Sr., deceased, of near Eagle, this week proved one of the most hotly contested cases that has been before the county court in many months and the long list of witnesses carried the case through Monday and Tuesday and up until 8 o'clock Tuesday evening when the case was submitted by argument to Judge A. H. Duxbury.

After the trial and argument the court made a prompt decision of the case, holding that the application for the probate of the will would be allowed and the documents offered as the last will and testament of Henry Kettelhut, Sr., would stand.

The will covered only a small part of the estate as the large land holdings of the deceased had been conveyed by Mr. Kettelhut to the sons of his large family, there being eleven children surviving. The will stated that each of the daughters of the deceased were to be given money considerations of $1,500 each to be paid by the sons of Mr. Kettelhut who had received the land, this being stipulated in their deeds.

Part of the land is located in Lancaster and part in Cass county, but the deceased had made his home in Eagle and here the estate was probated.

The contest of the will was made by several of the daughters of Mr. Kettelhut, one daughter, Mrs. Stange, not being a party to the action. The land consisted of two eighty acre farms, one 150 acre tract, the residence in the town of Eagle and another small tract adjoining the town which were given to each of the sons.

A very large number of the residents of Eagle were here for the two days of the trial, many being called here as witnesses in the case.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Davilla Gillum, one of the field secretaries of the Delphian Society. In an introductory talk Miss Gillum explained that the Delphian included in its program subjects offered in the curriculum of leading Universities, such as history, art, literature, music, drama, poetry, fiction and philosophy.

Not only is the list of subjects widely inclusive but the method of treatment has been carefully considered by men who represent the colleges of Yale, Harvard, Chicago and Columbia Universities, Metropolitan Art Gallery, and Royal College of Organists of England.

The Delphian is known to be the only nationally organized society following a uniform plan for the promotion of general culture, and the aim is to establish creative thinking and to awaken community interest in higher education.

The chapter programs are arranged to stimulate comment and discussion by every member which gives everyone practical experience in self expression instead of written papers. The meetings will be held the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month.

The officers elected for the coming year are, president, Mrs. Monte Straight, vice president, Mrs. Henry Goehring, secretary, Mrs. L. Turpin, treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Richey. An advisory board of three members with Mrs. R. B. Hayes as chairman, assisted by Mrs. E. H. Westcott and Mrs. S. S. Chase, was also elected.

NEW TREMBLORS FELT IN MONTANA; TOWNS DAMAGED

Railroad Officials Organize Forces to Repair the Havoc of the Landslides.

Los Angeles, June 28.—An avalanche in the high Sierras, twenty miles above Kernville in Kern county, killed two Los Angeles members of a week-end fishing party late yesterday, reports reaching here today. Meager notices telling of the tragedy did not mention any earth tremors connected with the slide, but spoke of a heavy rainstorm preceding it.

Helena, Mont., June 28.—Mother earth became nervous again late today in central Montana and suffered more convulsions.

Tremblors occurred at Three Forks, at Sulphur Springs and at Anaconda. All of them were slight. After spending a night fraught with fear over the hidden dangers of an earthquake disaster, the population in several small towns were preparing to vacate their homes in case a new disturbance occurred.

No loss of life has occurred, according to advices reaching here from cities and towns in the affected area. Only three persons have been injured, it is reported.

The tremors today were confined to the south central region of Montana, whereas last night's shocks covered sections of four states in the northern half of the Rocky mountain range. In the three other states, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming, the tremblors were slight and no material damage was recorded.

Report Towns Damaged.
Properly damage estimates in the stricken area of Montana have soared to the 500 thousand dollar mark to-night with reports coming in from the smaller towns and villages.

Two isolated towns are reported to be seriously damaged by the tremblors, incomplete reports stated. At White Sulphur Springs, which reported a new shock today, virtually all of the county buildings of Meagher county and many of the business structures have been demolished with an estimated loss of 100 thousand dollars. A property damage of one thousand dollars was also expected at Three Forks, it was reported.

The center of the disturbance, all authoritative information here to-night indicates, was in the lower Gallatin valley, and the smaller towns bore the brunt of the earthquake's damaging effects.

Northern Montana last night felt a series of light earth shocks, none of which caused material damage. Railroad officials in the south central section of the state today were organizing their forces to repair the damage wrought by the landslides and the boulders tossed down from mountains by the tremors on their tracks.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad officials announced that all transcontinental trains would be routed over the Harlowton-Great Falls-Butte line while the cavern in the Lombard tunnel is being cleared.

Prisoners Panic Stricken.
Prisoners in the county jail at Billings were panic stricken, when the second tremor last night split the floor of the courtroom located in another building near the jail.

Near panicky conditions that prevailed in virtually every city of western Montana, when the tremors broke their fury last night, had subsided late today before the new shocks occurred and work of estimating the damage was begun.

Damage in Butte was negligible, consisting of bricks being stripped from the facades of buildings and chimneys being toppled over. The quakes left no marks on the more than 1 thousand miles of underground workings of the Butte copper mines. Thousands of men labored in the slopes and drifts while the tremor was most severe.

The earth movements last night were of an oscillatory character, a back and forward wave like swaying. Today, thunder and lightning played in the heavens above Butte.

PRESENT DAY AND OLD INDIANS ARE CONTRAST

Winnipeg, Neb., June 27.—The Winnebago and Omaha Indians of Thurston county today present a remarkable contrast to early days. The men are those among them who depend largely upon hunting and fishing for a living. Douglas Grizzlybear and John Whitebeaver fish the Missouri river in the summer and trap the nearby streams during the winter to earn a living for their families.

Many have abandoned primitive pursuits altogether and moved to the cities where they pursue various callings. Others farm their allotments, not very successfully, but enough to eke out a living. And there are still others who are excellent farmers.

At the top of the ascending scale is a graduate of Yale, a full-blooded Winnebago, and the head of a high institution of learning. He is the Rev. Henry Roe Cloud, principal of the American Indian Institute at Wichita, Kansas. A full-blooded Omaha, Francis LaFlesche, is a member of the national bureau of ethnology and the author of several widely read books on Indian life and history.
