THE WATER OF LIFE

And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come.

Revelation 22:17.

Look out for frost any time now.

The flower of American mathood is self-rising.

As the leading abomination we nominate a summer cold.

Bear in mind the next Bargain Wednesday, September 23.

Insanity is a very present help in time of conviction to the murderer.

The honeymoon is over when washing dishes is no longer romantic.

One thing that can be said in favor of the day-dreamer is that he doesn't snore.

"Darkness and tempest make a twofold night." Heat and mosquitoes make it fourfold.

We're in favor of re-establishing the whipping post for adult females who bob their hair.

It's a queer game. A labor official calls a strike on a mine operator and the consumer is out.

Almost everything has been invented now except a simple device to trim the bob at home.

Radicalism is that unkind opinion you have of another man's snoring when you can't sleep.

The headline reader sizes up the situation in Spain by calling it a Riff in someone's loot.

It's fair enough. The tourists in little cars get shaken up and those in big cars get shaken down.

It's all right to vote your convictions, but the men who vote their prejudices win all the elections.

It is noticeable that the republicans, not the democrats, are making the more definite plans for 1928.

Another argument in favor of dead bandits is that they are of no interest whatever to criminal lawyers.

Summer's nice all right, but in winter you can keep your hands in your pockets so you won't lose your money.

"Borah Leans Toward Mitchell"—headline. And so does more than one-half the people of the United States.

Miss Omaha is counted among the prettiest girls at Atlantic City. Hurray for Omaha and her beautiful daughter.

Youth has its advantages. So has age. The older you are the more easily you remember when the weather was worse.

One enjoyable feature of an auto race is thinking how easy it would be to dodge when all the speeders are going the same way.

Table food prices continue their upward trend, but fortunately gasoline and automobiles and such necessities manifest a tendency to drop.

The man who fights against state rights is not loyal to the national or the state governments. He is a true supporter of centralized government and a traitor to the country.

A Stanford university professor announces that meat eaters are possessed of the sturdiest physique. The vegetarians may retort that their souls are the purest, anyhow.

Colonel Coolidge told an interviewer several days ago, Cal, as a boy, never disobeyed him. We have been wondering all the time what defect the president suffered when he was a kid.

Statistics show that 18,000,000 boxes of rouge were used in the United States last year. Since there must be four times that many women, it would seem that a lot of them have been obliged to use common house paint.

Keep on chasing women and one will catch you.

The family skeleton looks better in a closet than in a bathing suit.

Every summer resort with a good place to swim has a large floating population.

The world is doing better. Banana shortage last summer and song shortage this summer.

The way to marry off two daughters at once is to have two porches and two hammocks.

An alligator will grow 12 feet in 15 years while a centipede will grow a hundred in a week.

The young St. Louisians who spent one or two hot nights in a balloon knew what they were up to.

Some of us get into trouble because we don't think and get into trouble because we do think.

The Chinese used umbrellas 3,000 years ago, so people have been borrowing things for 3,000 years.

Being in a roadside tent with privacy is better than a swell summer cottage and all of your relatives.

A snake bit an American tourist in Cuba. It could have been worse. Suppose it had bit him in America.

An intersection of streets is a place where you have the poor satisfaction of knowing that a cop saw it hit you.

A South Dakota woman has died of appendicitis at 104, which shows what medical science amounts to in a pinch.

The National Geographical society sees the need of more weather reports. But what we really need is less weather.

Some funny things happen. A Chicago woman caught three robbers. And she's 40, and hasn't caught a husband yet.

Wonder why his parents didn't wait a little longer and name Arthur Garfield Hays after two or three more presidents.

If a woman wears a wedding ring, the chances are she is married. If a man carries an umbrella the chances are he is married.

Two new poisons have been discovered in samples of moonshine liquor. The old fashioned booze begins to seem like a panacea in comparison.

There doesn't seem to be any doubt about being able to collect from Europe, if we only lend her enough money to keep a little out for herself.

Nobody over here envies President Hindenburg his job until all the wine growers of Germany began sending him samples of their vintages.

"The working man is a collector of God," declares the ex-kaiser. Times have changed since William figured as the Almighty's sole collaborator.

If you don't think Mitchell knows as much about air aviation, put him in a position to show himself properly. He may be a political schemer, but we hope not.

Detroit has an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to sound your auto horn when your car is not in motion. Congestion at busy corners is thus robbed of one of its chief horrors.

One good thing about so many people going to Florida to live is that if it keeps on, after awhile we shall all have relatives down there whom we can visit during the cool snaps.

Mexican women are said to be arming in their determination to win the right to bob their hair. Why don't they bob it and let the country put it back if it can, like our own women did?

For the first time in five years, Mexico is issuing paper currency. We are assured that it is not being modeled on any German varieties, and hence will not result in a shortage of print paper.

GYP-LAP The FIREPROOF Sheathing

Save fuel!

Insist that your new home be sheathed with Gyp-Lap; it seals out cold and cuts fuel bills.

Gyp-Lap is nailed directly to the studding. Makes an equally strong, durable backing for clapboards, stucco or brick veneer.

CLOIDT LUMBER & COAL CO.

ERA OF CHURCH BUILDING

One of the most impressive features of this nation's $5,000,000,000 building program for 1925 is the item of $400,000,000 for new church buildings and equipment.

INCOME TAXES

The income tax publicity figures seem to indicate there is something sadly wrong with our system of taxation.

Some men admittedly worth millions pay comparatively small sums—little more than others on a small salary. This doesn't mean that their returns are dishonest or that they are evading taxes illegally.

They are apparently investing in such large amounts of tax free securities that their income tax shrinks almost to nothing.

The flood of tax exempt securities makes a revision of the tax laws necessary if every man is to pay a just tax.

Colonel Mitchell is still in the limelight. And will be for some time to come, as long as he is in the air service.

SHEARING THE LAMBS

One billion dollars is the price paid for gullibility in the United States this year, according to a report compiled by the New York Better Business Bureau.

The sellers of fraudulent stock and operators of other get-rich-quick schemes are still waxing fat on the credulity of the thousands of people who stand ready to risk their hard-earned savings on the fickle wheel of speculation.

The bureau's report shows that in spite of the enactment of blue-sky laws and numerous other efforts to safeguard the public from the designs of the sharpers, the losses for the year 1925 are approximately "normal."

Protective legislation can go only a short way toward saving people from their own follies. Financial tricksters are notoriously adept at evading the law and escaping its toils.

Many people who appear to be thoroughly intelligent in ordinary matters and who are endowed with their full share of human skepticism readily throw all reason to the winds when the prospect of easy money looms on the horizon.

It is futile to tell them that if a stranger or passing acquaintance really has a "sure proposition" he will not be so anxious to share the opportunity by letting them in on the ground floor.

The persistent thirst to get something for nothing is the confidence man's greatest asset.

It would be a mistake to think that the game of finance is wholly or even largely dishonest. Fabulous fortunes are made every now and then through perfectly legitimate transactions.

But the men who make them are men who know their ground, who realize where the pitfalls lie and who can tell a sharper when they see one. This get-rich-quick business is no place for amateurs.
