UNION NEBRASKA

James Tigner and wife and parents John Tigner and wife, of near Louisville were visiting last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tigner of Union.

Vigil Sudduth and the family of Murray were visiting last Sunday at the home of Tony Sudduth and wife and all enjoyed the day most pleasantly.

Ezra Murphey, formerly a resident here, but who has been away for a number of years, was a visitor with his many friends in and near Union last week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Easter shelled and delivered corn on Monday of this week at the Farmers Elevator of Union in order to have the crib room for the new crop.

Thomas Hamilton and the Rev. C. L. Elliott and family departed for Florida where they will make their home this winter and will work at the carpenter trade.

H. M. O'Dell of Nehawka, has been having a large number of walnut logs cut and hauled to the station and when he has collected a sufficient quantity he will ship them.

Mr. Alden Rheuman and Miss Virginia Copchaver were moving the "Ten Commandments" at Nehawka last Friday evening, and the picture was an excellent one.

Mr. Sudduth was looking after the repairing of the big road grader which was being put in the best possible condition at the shop of T. E. Fulton at Nehawka.

Tony Sudduth and W. E. Moore were in attendance at the American Legion convention at Omaha on Wednesday of this week they driving over to the convention city in their car.

Ray Bramblet was a visitor in Omaha last Monday and following days where he was attending the American Legion convention which is the great thing in the metropolis this week.

One Tuesday of this week Roy Ppron, with his super-radio, broadcasted the Coolidge address to the American Legion, from the door of his store so all could hear the president speak.

James Levin has been assisting in the work of unloading a car of coal for the Focus Brothers' Lumber Yard, driving the team for Will Schumaker and makes an excellent horseman as well as a fine worker.

Mrs. William Gray has been very sick at her home in Union for the past week and still remains very poorly. All is being done for the good lady, that is possible, still her condition does not improve very rapidly.

W. L. Hoback and Paul Swan, who are spending ten days at Overton and where they are visiting at J. F. Hoback of that place are having a most excellent time and are expected to return home during the latter portion of this week.

there following an operation for the benefit of his health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Easter and daughter, Miss Laura, who have been visiting for some weeks past in the western portion of the state where they have friends and relatives and where they enjoyed a very pleasant visit, returned home on day last week.

Messlames W. L. Stine and Mollie Garrens were visiting in Nebraska City last Saturday they having made the trip in the auto of the former and were visiting with friends for the day and also were doing some shopping while there.

W. A. Harding, the manager of the Farmers' Elevator has a new eight tube radio manufactured by the Nolos Radio Co., of Brock, which he received the presidents speech over on Tuesday and will receive the world series when they are played.

A number of the young people and older ones as well, from Union, were in attendance at the church services at Sciota last Sunday evening, among them were Rev. A. E. Fletcher, who is the minister, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stine, Miss Leta Burke, Wymore Fletcher, Mrs. Mollie Garrens and Miss Velma Eaton.

David Murray shelled and delivered a portion of his corn crop the first of this week, in order to make room for the crop now about ready for the crib, but will only let enough go to make the necessary room for the crop which is now to be gathered, having faith in corn that it is a good piece of property, and the value will not decline but rather advance.

Giving the Street a Dressing.

The main street of Union is being treated to another coat of gravel, which is being hauled and spread by Blair Porter. This gravel is being dumped in the middle of the street, which seems the most rational way as then the gravel will be on both sides of the street. It will also help separate the line of travel instead of crowding them together on one side of the road.

New Minister Arrives.

The Rev. James Runnels and family, the new minister of the Methodist church, has arrived and moved into the parsonage, and has ministered to the church for the first service last Sunday. The Rev. Runnels had the charge of a church south of Silver Creek and was filled with enthusiasm for the cause of the Master.

A Most Interesting Service.

Last Sunday, at the Methodist church, a most interesting service was presented under the instruction of Mrs. L. B. Mowbray, entitled "Naomi and Ruth" which was put on by the members of the Bible school. Miss Mary Luford sang "My Task" most beautifully.

The Church Services.

There will be Bible school at both the churches at the regular hours, and preaching at the Baptist church at the morning hour, the Rev. W. A. Taylor, the regular minister, having charge of the services while at the Methodist church there will be no morning services as the Rev. Runnels will preach at the Wyoming church, but the Methodist church will have their evening services. The Epworth League of the Methodist church and the Baptist Young Peoples' Union will hold services in the evening.

Celebrates Anniversary Properly

Last Sunday being the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Ivan Balfour there were gathered at their home a number of her friends to properly celebrate the day with her sister, a most pleasant time was had, and the testimony of those who were present was that the dinner which this excellent cook served was one which will be long remembered for its excellence, and was enjoyed by her mother, Mrs. C. Ferguson and aunt and uncle Charles Ferguson of Nebraska City, Bert Boyd and wife and C. C. West of Dunbar and Mr. and Mrs. Mont Robb of Union.

Confidence Changes Hands.

Mrs. Harriett Pickens has disposed of her Cafe at Union to Mr. C. C. Pitman, who will continue the business here and will be assisted by Mrs. Pickens.

FRAGUE BODY STARTS NEGOTIATIONS ON DEBT

Washington, Oct. 5.—With only a week-end respite after departure of the French, the American debt commission turned today to consideration of funding the debt of Czechoslovakia.

Members of the Czech-Slovakian commission, headed by Dr. V. Pospisil, made formal calls at the treasury and state departments as the first official act of the conference, which opens actively tomorrow.

The treasury also received advices from Ambassador De Martino that the Italian debt funding mission "surely will be here before the end of the month," indicating to the American commission that it would be able to continue work on the remaining major debts without interruption.

Mexico Frees U. S. Sheriffs

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 7.—Deputy Sheriffs Archie Hoffman and Abel Mendoza, arrested in Tijuana, Lower California, last Sunday on charges of abduction, were released from custody early Tuesday afternoon when a Mexican named Mendina whom the American officers had arrested and brought across the boundary line, was returned to his native country.

Release of Hoffman and Mendoza came after Governor Adelardo Rodriguez had taken action in the case. Rodriguez instructed Tijuana officials to release the Los Angeles officers, Mendina, who was in the San Diego county jail, on charges of participating in a Los Angeles kidnaping case, was returned to Tijuana.

San Diego deputies, under instructions from Los Angeles, took Mendina to the boundary line and turned him over to Mexican officers, and within a few minutes Hoffman and Mendoza were at liberty on the American side of the line.

PRESIDENT URGES TOLERANCE IN HIS OMAHA ADDRESS

Nation's Executive Given Ovation by American Legion Convention at Tuesday's Session.

All formalities attendant to the opening of the national Legion convention finished, President Coolidge's visit at an end, and the principal purpose of the convention was accomplished as the convention was able to get down to serious business with the fall of Commander Drain's gavel at the Auditorium this forenoon. There is much business of importance to be considered as well as the election of national officers Friday.

Thousands of Legionnaires, guests and townfolks swarmed the streets of Omaha all day yesterday, participating in or watching the activities of the day—the "high spot" of convention week.

President Coolidge and his official party, Coolidge, rested a few hours, wherever, the chief executive of the nation arriving early and going thru a day filled with the greatest of activity—even for a president.

From the railway station he went to the home of Walter Head, with Mrs. Coolidge, rested a few hours, went to the Auditorium, delivered his Legion speech, was whisked to the Omaha club for luncheon and from there to the parade reviewing stand, where he braved the chill weather for over two hours watching the most colorful parade in Legion history pass by.

Direct from the reviewing stand, President and Mrs. Coolidge and party went to their train and departed at 6 p. m., after as great an ovation as that which greeted him upon his arrival.

"You Saved Civilization"

The thought that soldiers of peace of today should beat their swords into plowshares is the essence of the president's 45-minute address before perhaps 19 thousand Legionnaires and spectators who packed the municipal auditorium yesterday morning.

"Standing before the throng he uttered praise for the service men before him for leaving "saved civilization from a gigantic reverse."

Then while plaudits still were ringing in the hall and out through the air by radio, the president warned that "results of the war will be lost and we shall only be entering a period of preparation for another civilization from a gigantic reverse."

"I can see no merit in any unnecessary expenditure of money to hire men to build fleets and carry on wars when the real relations and agreements permit the turning of such resources into the making of good roads, the building of better homes, the promotion of education and all the other arts of peace," the president declared.

While the Legionnaires applauded these words, there was no mistaking their support when he said, "I am a thorough believer in a policy of adequate military preparation." They cheered and applauded to the echo.

The president received another big demonstration when he announced himself in favor of a broad selective service act, a much favored Legion measure.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at the Auditorium at 10:25, but a few minutes before an announced time he was immediately escorted to the center of the stage and after shaking hands with Commander Drain, he seated himself just behind the microphones. Mr. Coolidge at once became the target of a battery of movie and still cameras, he smiled bravely as the bright lights were turned on and the five movie operators turned their cranks. There were perhaps a dozen photographers with "still" cameras.

Twice before commencing his address, the president stood and saluted the flag which was draped above the speaker's table. The delegates stood cheering for more than a minute.

Mrs. Coolidge came forward in response to repeated calls from the convention delegates and bowed smilingly to the crowd gathered.

Commander Drain introduced the president of the United States as a man who "deserves to possess greater confidence of the American people than any man since George Washington."

He lauded the executive for accepting honorary chairmanship of the Legion endowment committee.

Mr. Coolidge spoke with a clear, firm voice, using both arms to gesture and not very frequently raising his eyes from his manuscript. He remained close behind the microphone. The audience that extended up to the ceiling of the big hall in the rear, listened intently.

The president's speech contained nothing oratorical. He coolly and dispassionately discussed the country's situation as he sees it and pointed to staggering losses of the war, and had his audience with him apparently as he declared: "Our people have had all the war, all the taxation, and all the military service they want."

The convention was adjourned at 11:35 o'clock, President Coolidge remaining until the gavel dropped.

Says Subordinate Military Power Sharp, but rather enigmatically, he was followed with no specific reference to any recent event as Mr. Coolidge expressed the opinion that military power should be subordinated and governed by civil authority, and continued:

"It is for this reason that any organization of men in the military service bent on inflaming the public mind for the purpose of forcing governmental action of the kind which is so dangerous and so undignified and so dangerous undertaking and precedent. This is so whatever form it might take, whether it be for the purpose of influencing the executive, the legislature, or the heads of departments.

"It is for the civil authority to determine what appropriations shall be granted, what appointments shall be made and what rules shall be adopted for the conduct of its armed forces. Whenever the military power starts dictating to the civil authority, by whatsoever means adopted, the liberties of the country are beginning to end. National defense should at all times be supported, but any form of militarism should be resisted."

This may have been a reference to the General Mitchell incident and also to reported efforts of the army staff to prevent reduction of the army budget. It was so taken by many who listened.

Seek Goal in Paths of Peace

"If we are looking for a more complete reign of justice, a more complete supremacy of law, a more complete social harmony," he said, "we must see it in the paths of peace. Progress in these directions under the present order of the world is not likely to be made during a state of domestic and international tranquility. One of the great questions before the nations today is how to promote such tranquility."

"It is not easy to conceive of anything that would be more unfortunate in a community based upon the ideals of which Americans boast, than any considerable development of intolerance as regards religion," Mr. Coolidge continued.

"This country," he said, "has become a real composite of the rest of the world, and added: "If we are to create on this continent a free republic, and an enlightened civilization that will be capable of reflecting the true greatness and glory of mankind, we shall have to look beyond the ordinary manifestations of race and creed."

Spirit of Friendship

The president called upon all to forget the animosities and enmities that fed the war spirit. Here again is a plea to apply tolerance, he urged. "We can make little progress if the theory we are a superior people," he said.

"We can only make America first in the true sense which that means by cultivating a spirit of friendship and good will, by the exercise of the virtues of tolerance and forbearance, by being 'plenteous in mercy' and through progress at home and helpfulness abroad, standing as an example of real service to humanity."

Married Last Evening

One of the most beautiful home weddings occurred last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baker, parents of the bride, when she was joined to her bridegroom, Mr. W. A. Taylor, in the presence of the bride's parents, the ring being produced at the proper moment by the groom who very cleverly encircled the extended finger of the bride with the golden wedding band, thus joining the knot of Miss Olive Baker and Clarence Johnson in the bands of wedlock for their natural lives, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. George Morey, pastor of the Methodist church of which the bride is a member. The ceremony was to be performed and which had been most beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, making a bower of beauty, was announced by the strains of the wedding march, played by a sister of the bride, Mrs. Ora Johnson and who also played most beautifully, "A Wood Violet." The bride was most beautifully gowned in pearl blue faced satin and the groom in conventional black, which made a very pretty scene. The gift room was in charge of a sister of the bride, Miss Fern Baker, while those assisting in the serving were Misses Lenora Kruse, Luella Crew, Florence Lowell and Miss Elvira Baker. The color scheme of pink was carried out in the decorations of the dining room. The bride, Miss Olive Baker was born in the neighborhood of Weeping Water and is a graduate of the high school of this place and a teacher and one of the best in Cass county of the past seven years, the last five of which were spent in the schools of Weeping Water. The
