

Bridge Tolls Reduced!

The District Court of Cass county has dismissed the Restraining Order and denied the Injunction asked for by the new Toll Bridge company against our bridge, which Restraining Order and Injunction, if granted, would have prevented us from reducing our Bridge Toll Rates and we are now at liberty to run our own business as we see fit, regardless of the attempted interference of the new Toll Bridge company.

Therefore, we have put the following Cut Rates into effect for the present, although we are in a position to make further reductions if we deem it necessary in order to overcome the results of the methods pursued by the new Toll Bridge company to secure business.

Y. M. B. C. HOLDS FIRST OF ITS FALL MEETS LAST NITE

Enjoy Several Social Features and Address by Rev. Frank Emory Pfoutz on Church Government

From Wednesday's Daily—
The opening of the active fall work of the young men's bible class of the First Methodist church was observed last evening at the rooms in the basement of the church in a very pleasing meeting that was attended by a large number of the members and who enjoyed to the utmost the fine program arranged for them.

The first portion of the evening was devoted to the usual singing of the class and in which all joined with the greatest of spirit from their summer rest and gave added interest to the opening of the fall musical work.

The chief feature of the evening was the address given by the pastor, Rev. Frank Emory Pfoutz, who in his remarks gave the members of the class a clear insight into the church government and management, taking up the government plan of the church, the local quarterly conferences, the annual conference held in every state and the general conference of the churches of the nation that is held once every four years and which passes on the affairs of the church at large. The methods of handling the affairs of the church including the selection of the pastors and missionaries of the church was brought out very clearly and showed in every detail the working of this great church government.

The Y. M. B. C. have received an invitation from the Philathea class of the Sunday school to join them in a Halloween party on Tuesday, October 20th at the parlors of the church.

"SLICKER" WORKS ON OMAHA WHOLE-SALERS THIS WEEK

Forged Letters From Plattsmouth Stores Are Sprung By Stranger on Omaha Houses.

From Wednesday's Daily—
A new stunt in the forgery line was revealed today when a representative of the Pinkerton Detective agency visited this city in an endeavor to get a line on a stranger who has in the past week been presenting alleged orders from Plattsmouth retail merchants on the wholesale houses for different articles and in one instance the stranger made good and secured two shotguns from the Lee-Kountz Hardware company, valued at $100.

The representative of the Pinkerton company brought to light a number of the activities of the man in this city but which resulted in only the one case of his being able to defraud the wholesale houses with the alleged orders.

This stranger visited here last Wednesday and called at a number of the business houses, in each case representing himself as an advertising representative of some certain line of goods and with a very plausible story as to furnishing some free advertising matter would secure a letter head from the business house which was found later was used to make out the forged orders for different articles at the wholesale houses.

The man called here at the Jess F. Warga hardware store and poured forth his tale of representing some of the large hardware companies and with the story of furnishing slides and other advertising matter requested a letterhead which was furnished and which later neatly filled out with a written request for the delivery of two high-priced shotguns was presented at the Lee-Kountz wholesale store and promptly honored as the letter bore the name of Mr. Warga.

At the Weyrich & Hadraba store the man posed as the advertising representative of the Atwater Kent Radio company and also secured a letterhead but in this case the letterhead failed to produce the results desired as the man seemingly lost his nerve. He had filled out the letter and signed the firm name and took it to the Midwest Electric Co. in Omaha with the request that he have a radiola delivered to him. The wholesale house told him they did not have a machine of the type requested assembled, but told him to return in an hour for the machine. The man had evidently feared the result of a second visit and never returned there. The next day the wholesale house called the Weyrich & Hadraba store to learn what they wished done with the machine that had been ordered and then for the first time it was learned that the order was a fake and a rank forgery.

The man also visited the Ladies Toggery here but failed in his desire to get a letterhead and in this manner saved the loss to the wholesale houses.

At the Bates Book and Stationery store the man posed as an advertising man for the Remington Typewriter company and made his request for a letterhead with the statement that he wanted to send out slides and other matter advertising the typewriters. Here the man was given the letterhead but fortunately the blank portion of the head was torn off leaving only the printed portion of the head and which was valueless to the man.

It was stated that the man was of medium height, rather sandy complexioned with graying hair. He was not of striking appearance and there was nothing in his actions or request to fix him in the minds of the Plattsmouth business men on whom he had called.

The detective was busy rounding up all possible activities of the man in hopes of securing some clue that might lead to his apprehension. It is understood that the man was active in a number of other towns in this section of the state and the business interests of the towns in this part of Nebraska would do well to be on the lookout for this graffer.

DISPUTE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

From Wednesday's Daily—
Last evening a dispute between members of one of the Plattsmouth families occurred near the Main hotel, in which a father and daughter were involved and which was seemingly over the refusal of the daughter to heed the admonition of the parent to hasten homeward instead of remaining down in the main section of the city during the late hours

RAISES REAL BEANS

From Wednesday's Daily—
The largest bean that has been the opportunity of any one to gaze upon has been raised at the county farm west of this city by D. E. Askew, one of the residents there. This bean is what is known as the Guinea variety. Mr. Askew states, and it is claimed, that it is very palatable, altho in appearance it resembles the gourd family. The specimen that Mr. Askew has produced weighs ten pounds and he has presented it to Col. M. A. Bates of the Journal and who is contemplating some very delicious eating from the bean.

MRS. LELIA QUEEN PASSES AWAY AT OMAHA LAST NITE

Former Well Known Resident of This County and For Many Years a Teacher.

From Wednesday's Daily—
After an illness that has covered the period of the past year and in which she has been gradually growing weaker, Mrs. Lelia Queen, well known Cass county lady, passed away last evening at the Nicholas Senn hospital in Omaha where she has been for several weeks. The condition of Mrs. Queen has been very grave for the last few weeks and her recovery was considered the matter of the gravest doubt for the last few days, death coming last night to ease the long suffering of the patient.

The deceased lady was a lifelong resident of Cass county and was the daughter of Robert Fitch, one of the pioneer residents of Cass county, she having been born and reared in the vicinity of Union.

For a great many years Mrs. Queen was engaged as a teacher in the schools over the entire eastern section of the county where her many old time friends will regret very much to learn of her death. She is survived by two children as well as a number of other relatives who reside in this section of the state.

The arrangements of the funeral have not been made at this time but it is expected that the body will be brought here for burial. The deceased lady was a sister of L. F. Fitch and Mrs. Jennie Frans of Union, John Fitch of Nehawka, Mrs. Belle Frans and Mrs. Joe Campbell of near Murray, R. H. Fitch of Plattsmouth and Mrs. Gertie Yost residing in the western portion of the state.

SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS

From Wednesday's Daily—
Mrs. T. L. Short of Omaha, was here today for a few hours visiting with her relatives and friends and resting up from her harrowing experience of a few days ago when she was very badly burned in a fire that broke out at the home of Earl Short and wife with whom Mr. and Mrs. Tom Short were visiting. The fire at the Short home was caused by the flames from a kerosene stove catching fire to a can of oil and which in a short time was blazing very strongly. Mrs. Tom Short had attempted to throw the blazing can of oil out of the kitchen when the can exploded and as the result she received severe burns on her feet and one of the lower limbs as well as having a small cut on the head from a portion of the glass can that was broken in the explosion. Earl Short also had his left hand very badly burned in trying to put out the fire. The blaze destroyed the greater part of the kitchen furnishing before it was extinguished.

SUES ON CONTRACT

From Wednesday's Daily—
An action was filed in the district court today entitled Lydia Ann Mercer vs. Norman D. Talcott, administrator of the Amick estate, asking that the plaintiff be allowed the sum of $500 alleged to be due on an unfulfilled contract to sell real estate entered into by members of the Amick family since deceased and who had died before fulfillment of the contract on which plaintiff had paid the sum of $500.

EAT LESS, EXERCISE MORE

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Obesity cures are almost all shrewd schemes for foolish fat people, and the "trick lies in getting those who purchase them to eat less and exercise more." So Dr. Arthur J. Cramp, of the bureau of investigation of the American Medical society informed the annual meeting of the American Dietetic association here today.

"Women of an embonpoint," said Doctor Cramp, are in the class with bald-headed males—they believe there must be panacea which without effort will transform a "stylish stout" into a "boyish lissomeness." Not all, but most obese women eat too much and exercise too little.

"Cures for obesity are of two general classes: Those containing dried, pressed thyroid, which is believed dangerous, will reduce, and those having no thyroid, which will not reduce," he said.

Doctor Cramp believed anyone could get rich selling pink dishwater as a fat reducer, because women want svelte, boyish forms and men want to pretend they have waist lines.

BUSINESS HOUSES MOVE

From Wednesday's Daily—
In the last few days several of the business houses of the city have changed locations and are now getting comfortably settled in their new quarters. The Cash and Carry store of Hilt Martin, formerly located on Fifth street, has been moved to South Sixth street where the Halstead meat market was formerly located. John McLean has moved his shoe store from the Main hotel building to the Union block, occupying the room between the Fritche drug store and the store of Hilt Martin. The new places of business are now ready for service and feel well pleased with their new locations.

HERE FROM ULYSSES

From Wednesday's Daily—
James Gilmour and wife of Ulysses, Nebraska, are here enjoying a visit with William Gilmour and Sam Gilmour and family on the farm south of this city and the other relatives and friends in this section of Cass county. They came here to witness the placing of the new monument in the Gilmour family lot in the old Rock Bluffs cemetery, one of the oldest in this section of Nebraska and where rest members of the pioneer families of the west.
