

The Plattsmouth Journal
 PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY AT PLATTSMOUTH, NEBRASKA
 Entered at Postoffice, Plattsmouth, Neb., as second-class mail matter
R. A. BATES, Publisher
 SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

TO BUILD THE HOUSE OF GOD.

O Lord our God, all this store that we have prepared to build Thee an house for Thy holy name cometh of Thine hand, and is all Thine own. I Chronicles, 29, 16.

A little cool again.
The big storm hasn't materialized yet—not here.

No keeping Al Smith out of the presidential race now.

At least the person who says it can't be done can't do it.

Horace Greely up-to-date is "Old man go West and get young."

A man can smell with his nose, but that's where a woman shines.

There are people who find their most pleasant reflections in a mirror.

Prohibition works most successfully on people who can't afford to drink.

The limbo of the government attic is yawning for those useless bureaus.

It's just as natural for a lot of us to want things as it is for us not to get them.

About 85 per cent of the farm houses in the United States are still heated by stoves.

Evidently wealth is guilty. A lot are unhappy who haven't it, and nearly all those who have.

Another good thing about building pavements strong enough to stand can't dig them up so easily.

All the tires seem to develop weak places as soon as you have decided they will last until spring.

The reckless driver might be cured by being sentenced to lead the life of a pedestrian for a month or two.

No doubt old Methuselah had days when he couldn't decide which rising generation to worry about most.

The way we understand, the town that dances the Charleston the most ought to have the best football team.

Odd, isn't it, that a Michigan boy who won a plowing contest was awarded a scholarship to study Latin?

Mary Ellen Lease once advised Kansas to raise less corn and more hell, but now, the two words are synonymous.

What? Western trainmen move for return of war-time wages. When it is as much as the railroads can do to live now?

That's the way some people are; complain, complain, all the time. Six weeks ago they complained because it was too hot.

A personal advertiser offers $2 reward for information concerning the whereabouts of a friend who is a barber. Owing to the abundance of barbers, we suppose, he doesn't feel justified in offering the usual $5.

SWEET CLOVER SEED

Hulled and Scarified

We have the machinery to hull, scarify and clean Sweet Clover seed. Our charges for doing a complete job are $1.00 to $2.25 per bushel, depending upon the quality of the seed.

Bring sample and we will tell you the cost of hulling, scarifying and cleaning the sweet clover seed.

We also clean and grade all kinds of grain and seeds, 15c to 50c per bushel.

We are buyers of field seeds, such as Red Clover, Alfalfa, Sweet Clover, Kaffir Corn, Winter Rye.

Let Us Have Your Offers
EDWARD BARTLING SEED COMPANY
Nebraska City, Nebr.

Methodist merger opposed in the South.

Luther Burbank is 76 years old. He lives in California.

Generally speaking, too many people are generally speaking.

Some of our youth study in a football stadium with a college attached.

New Jersey voted "wet" and elected Harry Moore, Democrat, for governor.

California's climate has been vindicated. It produced America's most beautiful girl.

What this country really needs is a lot of rocking chairs with the old-fashioned squeak.

In other days when a person was run down he took a tonic, but now he takes an ambulance.

Most of us have decided we are going to pay the doctor bill we owe if we ever get out of debt.

The principal objection to explanations is that so many of them themselves require explaining.

The Irish Free State has an army of approximately one thousand officers and sixteen thousand men.

One nice thing about these soft collars is the laundry can't sharpen 'em as they did the other variety.

Secretary Mellon says all nuisance taxes should be repealed. But the government has to have some revenue.

"Mellon asks cut in Taxes," says a newspaper heading. That's the kind of a "melon cut" that everybody will be for.

An Atchison man says, if Moses had written one hundred commandments instead of ten.

Well, everybody ought to derive a great deal of satisfaction from the fact the St. Louis whisky steal was at least bi-partisan.

The prohibition officials are padlocking "supper clubs" in New York, but nobody will really be deprived of any food thereby.

It must make an oyster feel like champing its teeth with rage to hear people say, "this is an 'R' month, let's have some oysters."

Looks like Florida who has been advertising herself as the home of the artful tax-dodger may have some trouble in delivering the goods.

According to Washington statistics the average American consumes only half an apple a day. No wonder there are so many graduates from the medicine schools.

Cold weather has hit Nebraska but the farmer who has corn in the crib meat in the smokehouse and wheat in the warehouse will not worry about the weather.

Fortunately, England keeps its crime situation well in hand, leaving Scotland Yard free to throw its full strength into the search for the prince's mislaid inkstand.

Fatal traffic accidents are decreasing in large cities and increasing in towns of 10,000 population or less. The reason given is better supervised control of traffic in the larger cities.

Considering the expressions that find their way into full print nowadays, the writer who clouds his expectives in asterisks and dashes must be trying to say something awfully bad or awfully tame.

Contradictory to the belief that lightning does not strike twice in the same place, the dome of the capitol in Washington has been struck 50 times, but of course, under different administrations.

One fashion authority says sixty pairs of shoes are necessary for the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Yes, and at the end of the season the only way to tell 'em apart is by the tennis court dirt on the sport's shoes, the ball-room dust on the dancing slippers, and the 57 kinds of dust and spots on the street shoes.

25 K G 25
 OUNCES 25 CENTS
Same Price for over 35 Years
Why pay war prices?

A GREAT CHANCE

Indiana's governor has given the Democrats of that state a very good chance. By appointing Arthur Robinson, an unheard-of citizen of Indiana, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Ralston, Governor Jackson has started a dickens of a row in the Republican party in that state.

The appointment of Robinson, evidently, was not made on merit, although the disappointed Indianapolis News seems to think that he "will average very well with the average senators," concluding the sentence with this phrase—"for there are men in that body with whom he will compare favorably." To this the News adds: "Names of many others, some of whom had attained a high degree of statesmanship, were presented to the governor for his consideration, but there was never any great chance apparently that the appointee would be anybody other than Robinson."

Think of it! The once high and mighty Beveridge was turned down. So were other Republicans of admitted ability and political strength. To say that the personal friends and political adherents of these Republican worthies are "fighting mad," is to indicate the situation mildly, or inadequately. Meanwhile, the Democratic sage, at French Lick Springs, nods. But Tom Taggart never sleeps, although his eyes may be closed for the time being, while inwardly he smiles. It is only reasonable to assume that at the proper time he will have something to say to the Democrats of Indiana and work a plenty for them to do—by way of electing a Democrat to the place so recently occupied by that other able Democrat, Senator Ralston.

It's about time for the usual Thanksgiving pictures of the Old Pilgrim Fathers out gunning for turkey with a bell-muzzle blunderbuss. In fact, the Thanksgiving pictures are already creeping into the clothing ads, only the pilgrims are carrying wide-mouth megaphones into the stadium. And the modern pilgrims are not exactly Puritans; maybe some of the old ones weren't either.

How would the great statesmen get under way in his orations if there had never been two Irishmen named Pat and Mike?

Checho-Slovakia was born fifteen days before the armistice of 1918. Only the energy, the enlightenment and the high intelligence of the Checho-Slovakian people can account for the almost incredible progress that has made the republic today one of the world leaders in finance and international politics.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., continues his utter indifference toward public feeling and is said to be writing another poem.

Dr. John A. Griffin
Dentist

Office Hours: 9-12; 1-5. Sundays and evenings by appointment only.

PHONE 229
Soennichsen Building

ALL GOING UP

There is tremendous activity in dealings on the Stock Exchange these days. Prices of stocks are going up. Many speculators believe that the prices of stocks will double in the future.

Let us give these speculators encouragement. The prices of stocks will surely double. No one can set any definite date for the doubling process, but it will surely come around.

Those gambling in stocks with limited capital will lose. They always must. Because, in all advancing markets, there comes a time when it is beneficial to the big gamblers to shake out the little ones. This process is called "making the market healthy."

The big gamblers control the daily fluctuations of stock prices. A dozen bank presidents and big operators can effect a sufficient change in the figures recorded on the ticker on any given day, to wipe out the foolish ones who bought stocks on a shoe-string.

A thousand bank presidents in cooperation with biggest stock gamblers could not, however, affect the trend of security values in the long run. Because, in the long run, values are fixed by the public's desire to buy or sell.

But disaster comes to those who gamble in stocks on a narrow margin without possessing sufficient resources to hold on for the long run.

The reason that all stocks will double is that the United States of America is doubling. It is doubling in population, in output, in absorption of its own products. Every well conducted business is growing and prospering. Its profits are increasing. Ultimately they will double.

If you invest your money in a fine kind of company, your stock is bound to double in its price—its market price.

As far as material prosperity is concerned, this country is safe. It will grow. And all the enterprises within its bounds will grow with it.

One thought, only, the writer wishes to present.

You buy a share of good stock for $100 and you receive $5 every year for your investment. The company grows and you find that your share of stock is selling for $200. And you are receiving $10 for every year. You imagine that you are becoming wealthier.

You must remember, however, that where you formerly paid the laundry 3c for a collar you now pay 6c. Where you formerly paid the cook $5 a week, you now pay $10 a week.

Everything is doubling. Laundries, cooks, the landlords and the butchers. All Americans keep apace with the glorious, economic prosperity of America.

The sore spot comes when you realize that $10 today does not amount to any more than $5 did twenty years ago. And $20 a few years from now will not bring you more than $10 does today. All of which is sad. But cannot be helped.

SEVEN YEARS AGO

The republic of Checho-Slovakia is economically and politically one of the stablest states of Europe. Yet this state is only seven years old, is formed of peoples closely related by blood but long politically separated, is deprived of the inestimable advantage of a seacoast, and is surrounded by nations, some of which are extremely unsympathetic. Now the seventh anniversary of the birth of the Checho-Slovakian republic, is proudly observed, not only at home but also by men and women of Bohemian, Moravian and Slovakian origin throughout the world.

Less than a month ago Dr. Vilém Pospisil came to Washington to arrange for the funding of the Checho-Slovakian debt to the United States. He presented an estimate which fixed the debt, including principal and interest, at $107,000,000. By American accounting the amount was $117,000,000. The Checho-Slovakian representative, while expressing his confidence in the accuracy of his estimate, at once proposed a compromise at $115,000,000. This was accepted, details of funding were arranged without haggling, and the Checho-Slovakian mission was on its way back to Prague after three days of negotiation. It was a striking example of Checho-Slovakian directness and efficiency.

Checho-Slovakia was born fifteen days before the armistice of 1918. Only the energy, the enlightenment and the high intelligence of the Checho-Slovakian people can account for the almost incredible progress that has made the republic today one of the world leaders in finance and international politics.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., continues his utter indifference toward public feeling and is said to be writing another poem.

NOT A FUTILE THING

Henry Cabot Lodge is dead, but his hatred and his vindictiveness still live; their noxious breath is felt in almost every page of the post-humous volume which he dedicated to his enmity for Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations, an enmity not for the league itself, but because it was the embodiment of Wilson's ideal as an instrument of peace. Woodrow Wilson is dead, and the hymn of hate that comes from the grave of the Massachusetts Senator can do him no harm nor can it detract from his fair reputation as a world builder at a time when the world was frantically engaged in tearing itself to pieces. Both have passed on to such rewards as may await the results of their labors here.

It would be a futile thing for the friends and followers of either to continue the controversy which was used by Senator Lodge to fan post-war political hatreds, and which wrecked the life and hopes of the war President.

It is worth while, however, in the light of present events in the Near East to consider the posthumous statement of Senator Lodge that the League of Nations is a wholly futile thing. Developments of the last few days give the lie to that declaration.

Each is said to have occupied territory of the other. Just why they are at arms, neither has been able to explain satisfactorily, but given the same conditions that existed then it is as dangerous a situation as that which precipitated the World War. If the League of Nations had existed then that war might never have been fought. The League has not been idle in the last few days. Athens and Sofia were given twenty-four hours warning to cease hostilities and to withdraw within their respective borders. It was a supreme test for the league but it is written there is every reason to believe that the quarreling nations will fully yield to the tremendous pressure that has been put upon them, and a dangerous conflagration in Europe's cockpit was averted. The League wins, its victory is a happy complement to the recent peace developments at Locarno; even if it does not receive the full measure of compliance with its demand, its action will have justified its existence, for the knowledge that there is such an international body to which the differences of nations may be taken for amicable adjustments, and the further assurance that a flaunting of its authority must bring down on the offenders against the world's peace, world-wide disapproval and reprisals, will prove a stabilizing factor and help to make war remote. And thus the living write their own refutation of the dead Senator's last fling which was penned not in faith, but in personal hatred and political bitterness.

It is reported by David Lawrence, a reliable political observer, that the United States Government has notified private bankers that it will look with disfavor upon loans to those foreign Governments which have not yet settled their war debts with this country; likewise, upon loans to cities in those countries or to industrial enterprises in which debtor Governments have an interest, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

This species of coercion is particularly unfortunate at this time, when Europe is unsettled both politically and economically and, far from being in a condition to pay enormous sums to the United States, is looking to this country for funds to tide it over a dangerous period. It emphasizes the view now generally held in Europe that this country is a Shylock.

If the United States were in dire need of money, its position could be justified. But we, who suffered far less than the other Powers in the war, are enjoying enormous prosperity. Our national debt is being retired at a swift rate, and our National Treasury has rolled up large surpluses. While citizens in debtor countries are being called upon to pay heavier and heavier taxes, we are experiencing a steady relief from war-born imposts.

In these circumstances, to pinch France and other nations by placing an embargo on foreign loans is an act not in keeping with justice and fairness. Moreover, even its wisdom may be questioned. Trying to get money from impoverished Europe is almost like trying to draw blood from a turnip. To cut off one of Europe's few sources of financial relief is to retard the work of post-war reconstruction.

Instead of using coercive methods to collect war debts, this Government would be much wiser to take an entirely different attitude toward the whole question. Instead of regarding the war debts as a cold economic

OUR SHYLOCK ROLE.

It is reported by David Lawrence, a reliable political observer, that the United States Government has notified private bankers that it will look with disfavor upon loans to those foreign Governments which have not yet settled their war debts with this country; likewise, upon loans to cities in those countries or to industrial enterprises in which debtor Governments have an interest, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

This species of coercion is particularly unfortunate at this time, when Europe is unsettled both politically and economically and, far from being in a condition to pay enormous sums to the United States, is looking to this country for funds to tide it over a dangerous period. It emphasizes the view now generally held in Europe that this country is a Shylock.

If the United States were in dire need of money, its position could be justified. But we, who suffered far less than the other Powers in the war, are enjoying enormous prosperity. Our national debt is being retired at a swift rate, and our National Treasury has rolled up large surpluses. While citizens in debtor countries are being called upon to pay heavier and heavier taxes, we are experiencing a steady relief from war-born imposts.

In these circumstances, to pinch France and other nations by placing an embargo on foreign loans is an act not in keeping with justice and fairness. Moreover, even its wisdom may be questioned. Trying to get money from impoverished Europe is almost like trying to draw blood from a turnip. To cut off one of Europe's few sources of financial relief is to retard the work of post-war reconstruction.

Instead of using coercive methods to collect war debts, this Government would be much wiser to take an entirely different attitude toward the whole question. Instead of regarding the war debts as a cold economic proposition we should think of it as one in which blood and tears play a part. The money we lent Europe was used for the successful defense of great principles of humanity, of which we are today the beneficiaries.

ORDER OF HEARING
on Petition for Appointment of Administratrix.

The State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss.
In the County Court.
In the matter of the estate of J. Eloy Johnson, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charlotte Johnson praying that administration of said estate may be granted to Charlotte Johnson as Administratrix:

Ordered, that November 23rd A. D. 1925, at 10 o'clock a. m., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said county, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Plattsmouth Journal, a semi-weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks, prior to said day of hearing. Dated October 28th, 1925.

A. H. DUXBURY,
County Judge.

ORDER OF HEARING
and Notice on Petition for Settlement of Account.

In the County Court of Cass county, Nebraska.
State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss.
To all persons interested in the estate of James Kivett, Bessie Kivett and Marvin Kivett, Minors:

On reading the petition of Muri B. Kivett praying a final settlement and allowance of her account filed in this Court on the 8th day of September, 1924, and her report filed on the 3rd day of October, 1925:

It is hereby ordered that you and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said county, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1925, at 10 o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Plattsmouth Journal, a semi-weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the Seal of said Court, this 27th day of October, A. D. 1925.
A. H. DUXBURY,
County Judge.

THEY LOOK GOOD AND WEAR BETTER

The Newest Shades

Black	Zinc	Zanibar	Maize
White	Flesh	Grain	Lavender
Priscilla	Sunset	Rosewood	Mandarin
French Nude	Harvest	Peach	French Tan
Blonde	Gun Metal	Pansy	Squirrel

Extra fine gauge, 240 needle, extra heavy weight pure Japan silk. Unconditionally guaranteed. A new pair if they don't wear. Pair 75^c

The Ladies Toggery
Fred P. Busch, Mgr.
We Give Cash Savings Script

NOTICE

In the District Court of Cass County, Nebraska.
Ella Kennedy, plaintiff, vs. the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, personal representatives and all other persons interested in the estate of Shepherd Duke, deceased, et al.

To the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees personal representatives and all other persons interested in the estate of Shepherd Duke, deceased; the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, personal representatives and all other persons interested in the estate of John Tallon, deceased; the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, personal representatives and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary Ann Doyle, deceased; the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, personal representatives and all other persons interested in the estate of Ella Cooper, deceased. All persons having or claiming any interest in Lot Nine in Block Five in the City of Plattsmouth, Cass County, Nebraska; and Lorine Grace Windham:

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 24th day of October, A. D. 1925, the plaintiff in the foregoing entitled action filed her petition in the District Court of Cass County, Nebraska, wherein you and each of you are made parties defendant, the object and prayer of which are to obtain a decree from said Court quieting the title in plaintiff to the following described real estate to-wit:

Lot Nine in Block Five in the City of Plattsmouth, Cass County, Nebraska—as against you and each of you, and by such decree to wholly exclude you and each of you from all estate, title, claim, or interest therein, and to have the title to said premises forever freed from the apparent claims of you and each of you, and quieted in plaintiff and for equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, the 7th day of December, A. D. 1925, or your default will be entered in said cause and a decree granted as prayed. Dated, Oct. 25, 1925.

ELLA KENNEDY,
Plaintiff.

C. A. Rawls,
Attorney.
(026-4w)

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

The State of Nebraska, Cass county, ss.
In the County Court.
In the matter of the estate of Philomena Neff, deceased.

To the creditors of said estate: You are hereby notified that I will sit at the County Court room in Plattsmouth in said county, on November 16, 1925, and February 17, 1926, at 10 o'clock a. m., each day, to receive and examine all claims against said estate, with a view to their adjustment and allowance. The time limited for the presentation of claims against said estate is three months from the 16th day of November, A. D. 1925, and the time limited for payment of debts is one year from said 16th day of November, 1925.

Witness my hand and the seal of said County Court, this 12th day of October, 1925.
A. H. DUXBURY,
County Judge.

(Seal) o19-4w

Advertising pays! Try it!