

Union Department

Prepared Exclusively for The Journal.

E. G. Lewis purchased a radio from W. A. Harding during the past week. Mrs. W. A. Taylor spent last Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Hoback.

Joe Banning was called to Plattsmouth, where he had some business matters to look after.

Mrs. Charles W. Hoback, who has been sick for some time past, is again so she can be up and around and is showing good improvement.

Tony Sudduth was looking after some business matters in Plattsmouth last Monday morning, driving over to the county seat in his car.

F. H. McCarthey shelled his crib of corn which he has been accumulating from car deliveries for some time past. Henry H. Becker did the shelling.

R. M. Taylor is showing good improvement at this time and he and his friends are hoping this is the beginning of his return to his former good health.

Daniel Sudduth and wife of Weeping Water were visiting last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Sudduth of Union, where all enjoyed the visit very much.

E. A. Sacks was a visitor in Plattsmouth on Tuesday evening of this week, where he went to enjoy one of the excellent shows which that city is putting on the boards.

Walter L. Havenridge shipped a car of hogs to Nebraska City on last Monday for which he received a very good figure. John Becker did the hauling in his truck.

Mont Robb was among those selected for jury service at the November term of the district court and went to Plattsmouth on the early morning train last Monday to begin his work.

Roy Vonker has been picking corn for Joe Banning while a Mr. McNutt has been looking after the care of the engine waiting here for the passenger trains for the Missouri Pacific.

Miss Virginia Copenhaver was a visitor at Plattsmouth on Monday evening of this week, where she went to attend a play which was given by the Christian church at the Parmelee theatre.

W. C. Dillinger of Fort Wayne, Indiana, was in Union last Monday and Wednesday purchasing poultry which is to be shipped to New York, and was offering extra good prices for the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis LaRue were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Garrett at Omaha on last Sunday, they driving over to the big city in their Dodge coupe and enjoying the day most pleasantly.

Simon Gruber, who has been firing for the Missouri Pacific for some time past, while the regular fireman was taking a vacation is again at the station doing his ordinary work.

E. A. Harding, of the Farmers Elevator company, of Union, was a visitor in Bethany, where he spent Sunday with the folks at home and returned to look after the business at Union on the early Monday morning train.

Frank and Anna Bauer were enjoying a visit last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nickles, they driving over to the home near Greenwood on last Sunday morning in their car, and report the roads very fair.

Sheriff E. P. Stewart was a visitor in Union last Sunday night, coming to extend an invitation to some law breakers to come and boat at the expense of the county for their delinquencies, a portion of whom had flown when he arrived.

Mrs. Wm. Craig is getting along nicely at this time and is able to be up and to go to the dining room for her meals, which is a very pleasing thing for the lady who has suffered so much with her late illness, and will be pleasing news for her many friends.

Clifford B. Smith, who is employed as the cashier of the Bank of Union, was subpoenaed for jury service at the November term of the district court, and has been spending part of the present week at Plattsmouth fulfilling his duties as a citizen of this great commonwealth.

There were a very greatly interested and good sized congregation at the services which were held at the Baptist church last Sunday. The subject for the coming Sunday will be "Thanksgiving," and all not worshipping elsewhere are cordially invited to come and worship with this congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Van Peten and Miss Pauline Wood, accompanied by Miss Bessie Copenhaver, who is employed in Lincoln, were visiting last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Copenhaver, of Union, and family and a most enjoyable day was had. Mrs. Copenhaver and Mrs. Van Peten are sisters.

The bridge over the south branch of the Weeping Water was completed last week and the grading of the approaches has been completed so that travel could pass over the structure, but those in charge thought it best to allow the cement to ripen some more before the opening of the structure to the public for use.

Bruce Wolfe, who is a genius and a workman who will tackle any kind of a job is making a spur for Ray

Becker, which is very unique in its design, the pricking point being the toe of the foot of a well road left, which does not look like it belonged to the sterner sex, but looks like it would be a persuader for a fractious horse when the kick was applied from the end of the toe and the spur, and when on the heel of the rider.

At noon an elaborate cafeteria style dinner was served. The afternoon was enjoyed socially during the course of which the bride was presented with many beautiful and silver teaspoons from the members of the Aid. There were some twenty-three present to enjoy the day.

On Sunday morning at the close of the Sunday school hour, she was presented with two beautiful hand-painted plates from the Young People's class of the Christian church.

Each of the many gifts was highly appreciated by Mrs. Kidwell and will long be cherished and remembered with many pleasant memories in her new home.

Methodist Pastor Gives Outline of the Work of the Great Anti-Saloon Meet in Chicago.

From Monday's Daily—At the Methodist church last evening Rev. Frank Emory Pfoutz gave a very interesting address along the lines of the work of the anti-saloon league meeting at Chicago, which he attended last week. There was a very large number present to enjoy the service and which was a very complete story of the convention.

A number of the views of the leading speakers at the convention were given at the service last evening and which were kindly supplied to the Journal for publication, a brief resume of the address being given below:

"The great convention revealed to me the seriousness of our congress and that they intend to do the wishes of the great majority of the people of the United States and support the 18th amendment to the constitution. It is very clear that Congress is dry and getting drier all the time."

"It is also clear that those who are saying 'Prohibition doesn't prohibit' and that there is a 'Prohibition breakdown' have an ax to grind and are not in favor of the Volstead act themselves."

"And that while there is altogether too much violation of law and too much boot-legging, the country is better off socially, economically and morally than any country has ever been in all the history of nations."

"The people who addressed the convention were the countries' greatest men and women, senators, representatives, lawyers, judges, ministers, business men, prominent women, and Washington officials, together with Rear Admiral Billard of the coast defense. Some of their statements follow:

"Bishop Hughes: 'My great grandfather was taught that alcohol was food by my grandfather who was taught that it was a beverage, my father was taught that it was a stimulant, I was taught that it was a poison. We should keep up the education of our youth.'

"Robert E. Speer: 'There is too much being said about the drinker's right and not enough about the right of sober society.'

"Scott McBride: 'We should back up officials who are doing their duty and back out those who are not.'

"Bishop Joseph Cannon Jr.: 'The Johnson report in the Council of Churches was unfortunate, unwarranted, amazing and without authority.' Bishop Cannon is an executive in this organization."

"Ben Spence of Manitoba: 'Canada suffered a financial loss by recalling the war-time prohibitory measures.' "C. C. Callahan: 'Why doesn't the press tell us that the 'smart set' who get the headlines are without education, culture, refinement or accomplishment.'

"Judge Gimml: 'The only person opposed to the Volstead Act was opposed to law enforcement before it was enacted. The liquor crowd never has obeyed the law until they had to, and I am not unwilling that they shall now ask for its modification so they can keep it.'

"Wayne B. Wheeler: 'We must divorce law enforcement and politics. The last word is not said on law enforcement until the U. S. government has used every agency at its command.'

"Mr. Volstead: 'A foreigner guilty of violating the constitution should have his property confiscated and returned to his native land.'

"Senator Willis: 'It is time we know where people line up. One who doesn't go to the polls and vote is a party to law violation for the violators all vote.'

"Lincoln C. Andrews: 'It is time we tell the 'booze gang' that the prohibition movement is backed by more than a few reformers.'

"Senator Sheppard: 'Nothing is further from the truth than the cry that the prohibitory amendment was put over while our citizenship was over seas defending our liberties.'

"Pat Neff, Ex-Governor of Texas: 'If we can't get people to obey the law by education, I, for one, am in favor of making them obey it at the point of the bayonet.'

"Mr. Olson: 'It is time that we inquire where a lawer's responsibility to his client ends and his duty to society begins.'

"Dr. Evans: 'As a cure of disease any alcoholic drug is without value. Alcohol is a drug and should be regulated by law just as other drugs.'

"Congressman Cooper: 'The brotherhood of Engineers of the Pennsylvania Rail Road had a temperance measure in their articles of organization long before the 18th amendment.'

"Governor Pinchot: 'I warn you that before the winter is over you will hear loud claims that since the strongest possible federal effort to enforce law has been made (which is a false statement), and since the alleged effort has failed the time has come for law and order to yield to the criminal, to repeal the law of which the criminal does not approve, and replace it by another with which you may hope the underworld to comply. If this is not treason I have no other name for it.'

"Rear Admiral Billard: 'Rum Row is successfully scattered. Whenever a command is issued the coast guard has no answer but 'Aye, Aye, Sir,' and act. It is so effective in its operation that England has curtailed her manufacture of liquor 20 per cent.'

"Congressman Upshaw: 'The solid south will never allow the Democratic party to nominate a wet candidate.'

"Rev. Sam Small: 'The constitution, may she ever be right, but the constitution, right or wrong.'

Bishop Nicholson, president of the Anti-Saloon League: 'If the 18th amendment is modified, it will be done over the dead bodies of some of us.'

SHOWER FOR MRS. KIDWELL

Thursday, November 12th, the Ladies Aid society of the Lewiston church and friends gave for an all day meeting which was the last meeting at the church for the year. This was also in the form of a shower for Mrs. Herbert Kidwell, of Auburn, formerly Miss Willa Park, who was an October bride.

The morning was spent in finishing tying a handsome quilt for the bride.

At noon an elaborate cafeteria style dinner was served. The afternoon was enjoyed socially during the course of which the bride was presented with many beautiful and silver teaspoons from the members of the Aid. There were some twenty-three present to enjoy the day.

On Sunday morning at the close of the Sunday school hour, she was presented with two beautiful hand-painted plates from the Young People's class of the Christian church.

Each of the many gifts was highly appreciated by Mrs. Kidwell and will long be cherished and remembered with many pleasant memories in her new home.

Union Stirred by Sensational Case Sunday

Vicinity of Southern Cass County Town Has Real Sensation on Last Sunday Evening.

The village of Union and immediate vicinity has been stirred in the last few days by the reports of a "wild" party that was "thrown" there on Sunday by a young man of that community, a man from Falls City and a lady who hails from the near vicinity of Union.

It seems from the stories that have come from our neighboring town that the revels of the party has stirred the residents there with their greatest sensation since Charley Graves cleared the old settlers reunion some thirty-seven years ago.

The case it seems originated when a young man of Union secured some liquor and which with a friend he decided to enjoy an excursion into a Volstead joy ride with the corn juice as the power producer. The two men hastened to the residence where one of the men was boarding and where they had enjoyed a few quaffs of the corn juice while the owners of the property and his wife were both absent from the home, being down in the business part of Union. Here is where the scene was enacted, or being called to the home, there being varying stories as to how she arrived there, the lady proceeded to join in the orgies and in a few moments was lit up not unlike the lighthouse that shines from the top of the tower on the sailor on the high seas. The party continued until all of the participants reached a stage where they were very much under the weather and was only abated when the owner of the house returned and was stricken with surprise and indignation.

He smote on the door and demanded admittance as the door had been locked, but was admitted not to a neighbor's house and called upon Sheriff E. P. Stewart to hasten to the scene and the sheriff burnt up the gravel in getting to the scene of action.

In the period that the house owner was calling the law one of the men who was suffering the least from the effects of the liquor had the foresight to remove the lady in the case and hasten with her to a dwelling out in the country where she suffered the effects of the overindulgence in the flowing cup while the man made his departure and is still departing as far as can be learned.

When the sheriff arrived he found only one of the participants on the scene of action and he was too much all in to make any effort to make a getaway. He was brought to Plattsmouth and booked under the name of "Boob" McNutt and gave his residence as Falls City. He was given a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication and allowed to go on his way while the other members of the party are still being sought.

ASK DISMISSAL OF SHOOTING CHARGE

Wahoo, Neb., Nov. 17.—Andrew G. Bloom appeared before District Judge Hastings here Monday afternoon and asked that the charges of assault against Al Phelps, W. R. Murray, Ed Dagget and Ken Phillips, deputy game wardens, for shooting his daughter, Esther Bloom, early last spring, be dismissed. Judge Hastings complied with the request after Bloom had agreed to pay the court costs.

"I do not believe the wardens willfully shot at my daughter," Bloom told the court.

Evidence in the case went to show that the deputy wardens were searching for poachers in the vicinity of Ashland and that the girl, who was said to have been dressed as a boy or man, was seen running from the scene of the alleged poaching. Shots were fired in her direction, some of them striking her. It is said she has since recovered.

No Hope Held for Men on Ill-fated Vessel

Sunken British Craft Located in 225 Feet of Water, Too Deep for Divers to Explore With Success

Plymouth, England, Nov. 13.—All hope of rescuing the sixty-eight officers and men of the submarine Monitor M-1, which disappeared off the Devon coast, has been ended. The sunken craft has been located in 225 feet of water off Start Point and a last effort will be made early tomorrow morning by a mine-sweeper to get in definite contact with the boat. Divers, however, are unable to work at such depths, and the possibility of bringing up any of the crew alive is regarded as hopeless. Two divers, however, have agreed to make the attempt.

Arrangements have been made for a memorial service at Portland dockyard church Sunday morning.

While it is determined that there was no collision, officials believe the M-1 may have been struck submerged wreckage, which punctured her side.

Paris, Nov. 16.—General Sarrial, sulkily arriving in Paris from Damascus Sunday, publicly insulted Henry de Jouvenel, his successor as governor of Syria under the mandate, who was a member of the reception committee on the station platform.

Sarrial in the presence of the crowd informed Jouvenel that he need not have bothered about coming to the station. He then declined Jouvenel's request for an appointment to secure information regarding the Syrian situation, declaring the new governor could get the information better from others.

Jouvenel's energetic protests, however, caused Sarrial to receive him Sunday afternoon.

At the office of Premier Painleve it was announced that the Sarrial bearing will begin as soon as the finance law has been passed.

Job Printing at Journal Office.

In this case there is small chance that any of the crew is alive. This, however, is but a matter of speculation.

The tragedy is one of the greatest in the history of the British submarine service. So far as can be recalled the crew of the M-1, sixty-eight officers and men—is the largest ever involved in an accident aboard an English submarine.
