Suit of Elmwood Parties a Headliner

Draws Large Crowd and Provides Most Sensational Testimony of Any This Court Term.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The $10,000 suit for alienation of affections which was filed by Jacob Sterner of Elmwood against Lance Clites of near Alvo, was the headliner in the district court today before Judge James T. Begley and the jury, and was one of the spiciest and most sensational of the cases that have been tried this term, the basis of the suit being the eternal triangle that has formed the basis of many dramatic stories and plays, furnishing the group of auditors in the court room a sensation far different from the usual dry and uninteresting proceedings of the courts of law.

This case has attracted a great deal of attention in the western portion of Cass county, where the parties reside, the plaintiff in the case running a restaurant at Elmwood while the defendant is a well known farmer in the vicinity of Alvo. The interest in the case out where the parties are best known, is evidenced by the number of parties from that vicinity in attendance at the trial to hear the domestic affairs of the Sterner family aired to the public.

There was a good deal of testimony offered, the chief witness for the prosecution being the plaintiff himself who related several occasions when he claimed he had seen the defendant in company with his wife on the streets at Elmwood, Lincoln and other places. The plaintiff stated he had several times remonstrated with Mr. Clites, but without success.

The witness on cross examination acknowledged that prior to the time he had known Mr. Clites, he had had trouble with a man named Clines on charges that he had been writing to Mrs. Sterner, and that they had had more or less domestic trouble at that time. The witness in response to the inquiries of Claude Wilson, of Lincoln, counsel for the defense, stated that he had not struck his wife, but on further questioning stated that he had been thrashed by a brother of Mrs. Sterner at one time for alleged beating of the wife.

The wife of the plaintiff was on the stand for some little time, but did not answer a great many of the questions, as she availed herself of her rights not to testify concerning any alleged relations with the defendant, Clites. On the cross examination by Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Sterner stated that she had been struck at times by Mr. Clites.

At the noon hour recess was had and further witnesses will be summoned from Elmwood to testify in the case for the plaintiff.

Enjoyed Fine Visit on Ranch Near Bayard

Mr. and Mrs. William Osenkop Spend Month on Schlatter Ranch in Morrill County, Nebr.

Mr. and Mrs. William Osenkop returned Monday from a month's visit in Morrill county, near Bayard, where they visited on the $500 acre ranch of their brother-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schlatter. They enjoyed every day of their stay and found many things of great interest to them.

Mr. Schlatter is making a great success of his ranch and recently sold several carloads of cattle, realizing a nice profit on them. There is excellent hunting on these large western ranches and Mr. Osenkop reports all the game they could see and really more. They say that the chickens are very plentiful and Mr. Osenkop states that he did not know there were so many Mallard ducks in the world as he saw and heard out there. When the ducks come in at night, he says it is like sweet music in the world to a hunter, although it almost deafening.

He also spent many hours in the saddle, riding over the vast estate and says it would take more than a day to ride over it all. It is 15 miles across the place. The ranches are very picturesque and beautiful and are so high that when one is on the top of them and looks down, it might well make one dizzy. They are covered with pine trees, many of which are 30 feet in height.

Mr. Schlatter employs several men and one meets up with regular cowboys on t there who thoroughly understand the game. It is a fine, wild, free life and appealed very much both to Mr. Osenkop and to his wife who state that they will live thru the coming year in anticipation of another visit out there next fall.—Louisville Courier.

A GREAT FOOTBALL GAME

From Tuesday's Daily—
The Bellevue Athletics walloped the American Business College gridsters Sunday afternoon 7-0. It was a breath taking game for the fans; each team losing the ball on downs when within sight of the goal.

In the final period, Bellevue marched straight down the field and Pavelka plunged 5 yards for the touchdown and kicked the point. Mike Pavelka and Felix Habertine starred on offense for Bellevue while Probasco at center was the nemesis of the collegians' backs.

Finds Many Uses for an Automobile

Eddie Todd of This City Has Found Car Useful in Farm Work as Well as for Pleasure.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Eddie Todd of Plattsmouth is quite an enthusiast for auto traveling and usually drives to California each winter spending the season in the vicinity of Long Beach and Los Angeles. Eddie rode on a trip in Oregon on a certain place on a mountain road the engine was much overheated and at last coming to a sort of tavern he enquired about water and was told that water was scarce but he could have what was needed at 50c a gallon.

Eddie thought this pretty high priced and decided to go on, and just around the corner (about 50 yards further on) he came on a natural spring from where the man was piping the water which he was selling at a nice profit.

The Todd family arrived back in Cass county in July, 1925, and after arranging his farming affairs, Eddie and Mrs. Todd and son, Albert, left for a 3 weeks tour of the North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Canada.

They found many miles of fine graveled roads particularly in Minnesota and the trip was much enjoyed, also the visits with relatives in North Dakota.

Eddie believes in getting other service from his car than travel, and has rigged a stump pulling apparatus with which he can pull stumps as well as being a great aid in getting out trees.

Any farmer who would like to get some pointers on the stump pulling apparatus would do well to call on Eddie and see his stump puller work. During his trip back from California, which was made during the month of June, and to the North, which was made in late August, Eddie says oats being harvested in June and soy beans to be cut in September.

Another Popular Banquet at Gering Home

St. Mary's Guild Ladies Again Entertained at Sumptuous Dinner to Aid Church Cause.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Last evening the second of a series of banquets was held at the handsome Gering home on North Sixth street, being given by the ladies of the St. Mary's Guild of the Episcopal church, the proceeds of the banquets being devoted to the church work.

As on Monday evening, the beautiful surroundings of the banquet party were appreciated very much by the guests and the ladies in their serving proved real artists, their ability in this line only being excelled by the deliciousness of the repast that had been prepared for the party of forty of the leading men of the community.

The menu of the banquet as on Monday was exquisitely prepared and embraced a large array of the viands that would tempt the jaded appetite, the following being the menu:

- Fruit Cocktail
- Quenellas au Consomme
- Fish a la Creole with Pommes de Terre en Boulettes
- Chilled Fromage Salade Frozen Punch
- Filet of Beef aux Champignons Spatche Cauliflower a la Sauce
- Frozen a la Creme Poudings Confret
- Cafe Noir

After the banquet had been partaken of the occasion was turned over to R. W. Clement as the toastmaster of the evening, who in turn called upon a number of the guests present for a few informal remarks and as each of the speakers gave their clever and well chosen responses it was evident that they had enjoyed to the utmost the feast that the ladies had served them. Those who were called upon to respond to toasts were W. G. Kisek, L. L. Farnin, Allen J. Benson, William A. Robertson and Father George D. Pierce, the banquet being closed by the benediction by Father Pierce.

During the course of the evening a trio composed of Mrs. James T. Begley, Miss Eleanor McCarty and Miss Violetta Begley gave a program of the late popular music, singing several of the selections which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Aged Elmwood Resident Passes to Her Reward

Mrs. Rumelin Was the Oldest Resident of That Community. Following is Her Biography.

Anna Barbara Rumelin was born Jan. 24, 1834, at Uewhausen, Wuerntenburg, Germany, and passed triumphantly to her reward on Nov. 13, 1925, near Elmwood, Neb., leaving her age 91 years, 9 months and 17 days.

In the year 1892, Father and Mother Rumelin came to America with their two youngest children, Hannah and Daniel, and settled on a farm three miles west of Elmwood. The three older children Gottfried, Jacob and Marie came to America a few years before the parents.

During the same year 1892, Father and Mother Rumelin came in touch with the Evangelical church of which their son, Rev. G. Streicher, was a minister, and during a camp meeting on what was then known as Louisville circuit, was then Murdock circuit, and that under the preaching of their own son, Rev. Streicher they were happily converted, and joined the Evangelical church.

In the year 1896 on Jan. 29, death entered the home and took from Mother Rumelin her beloved companion, which left her to carry the responsibilities of the home, and rearing of her two youngest children.

Mother Rumelin was a loving mother always greatly concerned not only in material, but also in Spiritual well being of her family. She was a faithful member of the Evangelical church of which she was a member 33 years always taking an active part, and especially in Women's Missionary Society, and was always ready to support according to her ability. She spent the last 19 years with her youngest son, Daniel, and his family, who spared no time nor means to make the evening of her life pleasant. Four years ago she was stricken with paralysis, and bed-fast ever since, never-the-less Bro. and Sister Dan Rumelin did what they could to make it comfortable and pleasant for her. Although she did not suffer much, only at certain times, she was satisfied in her lot. She often expressed her confidence and trust in God believing that God would do all things well. Mother Rumelin had a wonderful memory and since she could no more read the Bible she would quote many scripture passages and Hymns, which were a great comfort to her soul upon her bed of affliction.

Mother Rumelin leaves to mourn her departure three sons.—Rev. G. Streicher of Council Bluffs, Iowa; Jacob Rumelin of Brownville, Neb.; Daniel Rumelin of Elmwood, Neb.; two daughters.—Mrs. George Oehlerking of Elmwood, and Mrs. August

Tom Walling Named at Head of Legion Post

Elmer Hallstrom and R. G. Reed Vice Commanders—Adjutant and Treasurer are Retained

From Wednesday's Daily—
The meeting of Hugh J. Kearns Post of the American Legion last evening at the M. W. A. hall was one that was quite largely attended by the membership of the organization for the purpose of the selection of the officers for the ensuing year and also to enjoy the lunch that had been arranged for the evening. The yearly meeting resulted in the naming of the following officers:

- Commander—Thomas Walling.
- Vice Commanders—Elmer Hallstrom, Avoca, and Robert G. Reed.
- Executive Committee—Emil Hild, Otto E. Lutz, Henry G. Soennichsen, William R. Holly, Raymond J. Larson, Frank H. Smith, M. D. Brown, Garold Holcomb, Leslie L. Niel.

At the conclusion of the evening's business the new executive committee was called into session by the new commander, Mr. Walling, and the remainder of the appointive officers selected as follows:

- Adjutant—Elmer A. Webb.
- Finance Officer—Emil J. Hild.
- Chaplain—Father George Pierce.
- Service Officer—A. H. Duxbury.
- Publicity Officer—R. J. Larson.
- Historian—Mrs. Kathryn Lugsch.
- Sergeant-at-Arms—Roy Stewart.

The new commander will name the chairmen and members of important standing committees a little later and notice will be sent to each member so appointed.

The meeting was filled with enthusiasm for the year's program which has as its features the completion of the building task, the attainment of the first congressional district convention and the intensive membership campaign that will be made this year over the nation by the Legion.

At the conclusion of the business of the evening short and very pleasing remarks were given by Gary Judge A. H. Duxbury and City Attorney Joe Capwell, the latter a recent benedict and this being his first meeting to be attended, gave his comrades opportunity to shower him with congratulations.

The refreshment committee, after their labors in securing the basis of the luncheon, blew the "mess call" at near the hour of 10:30 and sandwiches, coffee and potato salad, just like mother used to make were served to the members of the party and added very much to the completion of the evening of greatest interest to all members of the Legion.

The Legion post has had the services of William R. Holly as commander for the past two years and during his term the proposition of the community building has been the project of the greatest success assured and will be completed within the coming year. Mr. Holly has given the Legion a splendid business administration and his work and interest personally in the organization has been a great asset to the various enterprises that the Legion has undertaken. For his services he has the heartiest thanks of the membership.

The newly elected commander of the Hugh J. Kearns post is a native Plattsmouth young man, and was one of the youngest in years to enlist from this city at the outbreak of the world war, joining Co. D, 5th Nebraska, then stationed at Auburn, in April, 1917, and with this organization he was sent to Camp Cody, New Mexico, in the late summer of 1917 for training. In 1918 Mr. Walling with a large number of his comrades in the 134th Infantry, to which the old 5th had been changed, were sent overseas. In France Mr. Walling was assigned to service with the 101st Ammunition train of the 25th or Yankee division and with this organization saw service in the entire series of the defensive and offensive operations of the summer and fall of 1918, serving at Chateau-Thierry and the other operations of the summer of 1918 and later in the great offensives of the fall that culminated in the forcing of the signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918. The new commander is an employe of the Burlington at the shops here.

Future State Champion
While attending the state husking contest I stopped at the home of Harry Bricker near Ashland and saw what looks like the future state champion Perchon Stallion. The colt was sired by St. Joseph, once owned by the State Agriculture College and now owned by Conant Wolph near Nehawka. The colt certainly has a great future and if you are interested in a stallion see him.

Burn Your Fence Rows
Farmers burning their chinch bug harbors need pay little attention to the average meadow, pasture or stalk field because the bugs that were so foolish as to set up their winter homes in these places will freeze if the winter is average, according to Professor Swenck's research about control of chinch bugs. Moisture and cold will kill 90 per cent of the bugs wintering in no more protection than these places afford.

Fence rows of clump and matted grass, trash heaps, ravines of this and clump grass, and such heavily covered places are the ones to be burned. The fire should be slow, not a wind whipped blaze that only takes off the tops of the grass clumps. Complete burning of these places will rid the neighborhood of 98 per cent of the bugs, the circular states.

The burning campaign, if it is to get results must be community wide. While one can do some good by burning his grass and trash, his neighbors' bug harbors will furnish enough bugs for him again next year.

No county-wide of pre-incident burning day will be set because the weather is not dependable and the fires should be set on a quiet, dry day if best results are to be expected. Neighbors are being urged to cooperate, however, and whole communities to burn up the bugs this winter as crop insurance for next year.
