Postal Department is Aiding Farm Research

Rural Route Carriers are Helping in the Work of Gathering Data for the Department.

Since there is misunderstanding on the part of some farmers in this locality as to the usefulness of the information as to hog production and crop acreages, obtained from the cards distributed by the rural mail carriers, Postmaster J. W. Holmes has requested the Journal to publish the following statement furnished him by the United States Department of Agriculture:

"These surveys are made with the help of the rural carriers, who either distribute the cards to a certain number of farmers along their routes, with the request that these be filled out, or the carrier fills out the card himself by interviewing the farmer. The carrier is instructed to get information from farms which will give a good average picture or sample of farms on his route, preferably by taking all of the farms along a part of his route, big and little, good and poor, owned and rented. "If a fair sample of all farms is returned in each state, figures for these farms should show the same changes as all farms. It is impossible to take an actual census enumeration of all farms each year, so changes in production and acreage each year must be estimated from samples. The nearer these samples are to being exact, the more correct will be the estimates. "The need and value of such information for individual farmers and agriculture in general hardly need be stressed. Without dependable information as to actual production and trends of production both of live-stock and crops more balanced production and better market distribution are impossible. "The Department of Agriculture is the best qualified agency to undertake such work, but the accuracy of its estimates depends upon the accuracy of the returns made by farmers. "The beneficial effects that such information may have upon price is shown by the level of hog prices during the winter of 1924-25 compared to the previous winter. The pig surveys of June and December, 1924, showed a decided decrease in hog production in 1924 compared to the year 1923. Marketings, however, during the winter from the 1924 crop were almost as large as the previous winter and in December and January were the highest on record. In spite of these heavy marketings, hog prices were from $2.00 to $3.00 per hundred higher than during the winter before. The heavy marketings were rightly interpreted as being an early marketing of a smaller number of hogs caused by a short corn crop and not as indicating a correspondingly large number of hogs. "But unless these estimates can be kept dependable the trade will disregard them and will be guided either by private estimates or by actual marketings as these take place. Therefore, every farmer should help to make these reports accurate by making the report for his own farm complete and accurate."

TURKISH GIRLS ARE UP TO DATE
Constantinople.—Though Turkish girls have only within the past few years entered the industrial and business world, they already have learned how to go on strike. The telephone operators of Constantinople organized a union some three months ago and have laid before the directors of the company an English concern, a demand for a 50 per cent increase in salaries. The present average wage for a "hello-girl" is 25 liras a month, about $15. The chief operators receive less than $18 per month while some of the girls receive only $11.

As the company has failed to grant the request for an increase, the girls have announced their intention to walk out. The leaders in the movement are Turkish, but the Greek and Jewish employees will join them "in perfect unanimity," as their ultimatum reads, "without distinction of race or religion."

WOMAN LEADER OF REDS IS HONORED
Berlin, Nov. 25.—A monster bouquet of red carnations was presented to Clara Zetkin, 68, the "mother of German communism," when she appeared in the Reichstag yesterday for the first time in two years. She has just returned from Moscow.

Her appearance completely put in the shade the communist leader, Thaelmann, who at the moment was voicing the party objections to the Locarno pact, and nearly disorganized the session of the Reichstag. It is expected she will speak in opposition to the laws for ratifying the Locarno pact.

FORD AIRPLANES TO SPEED MAILS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—Award of the contract for carrying air mail between Detroit and Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland, to the Ford Motor company Friday, will bring the western coast 41 hours nearer the east and shorten the time for transportation of California mail to Detroit by 50 hours. Detroit mail to and from Chicago and Cleveland will also be considerably expedited, according to figures announced by Postmaster C. C. Kellogg.

The Ford contract calls for transportation of mail on its regular Chicago and Cleveland air express lines under 1,000 miles in length.

The date of the inauguration of the service has not been set, but the postmaster said Friday night he believed it would start after the holidays. Mail will be carried at first on the planes now used to transport light express packages and factory mail between the Ford plants, but if the increased traffic warrants, other planes will be installed by the company.

Winter the Time to Read
Many farmers who in the summer are too busy to even look at a paper, are now finding hours of idle time on their hands and will naturally desire an abundance of reading matter for perusal. First in importance comes the home paper and in Cass county that paper is the Journal. It filled to overflowing twice a week with news from the different towns in the county and reaches its readers twice a week instead of once as do practically all the small town papers in the state. In addition it carries all the news of Plattsmouth and vicinity, the official proceedings of the county commissioners, extensive district and county court reports and all the worth-while news. If you are not now a subscriber hand us $2 and have your name placed on our list for an entire year; if you are a subscriber, hand us the same amount to have your subscription boosted up another year.

W. J. Rau was a visitor in Omaha a number of times last week, going to see Mrs. Rau, who is at this time convalescing at the Lord Lister hospital, where she underwent an operation some time since for appendicitis, and from which she is recovering very nicely. Miss Mary Anna Murphy went to Omaha last Wednesday, where she visited with relatives and friends for the remainder of the week and was a visitor at the hospital with her cousin, Mrs. Mary Cowen, who has been very ill there for some time, and whose recovery was almost despaired of, but she seems slightly improved at this time. The many friends of this excellent woman are hoping she may soon be on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Praseh and the children, of Minnesota, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vogler and other relatives had their visit rather depressed on account of the very serious illness of their daughter, Miss Wilma, who was taken with a very severe attack of tonsillitis, which was attendant with convulsions, making the case a very bad one to handle. However, Mr. Munson, after a night of careful watching and administering of medicine brought the patient out of the serious part of the illness, and she is now getting along nicely.

Places in the Movies for the Song Sliders

Oldtime Artists See Opportunity for Resurrection of Present Day Motion Picture Industry.

Hollywood, Cal.—Where are the song-slides of yesteryear, and where are the earliest American picture actors who posed for these quaint, sentimental stereopticon views? Most of the song-slides no doubt have been thrown away long ago, save for a few still hoarded as souvenirs by the theatre folk of a passing generation; but as for the "picture actors" who posed for them, some are just where one would expect to find them—in the movies.

For instance, a search of the Famous Players-Lasky lot here revealed Tom Fortune, who was headlined in the nineties as a singer of popular songs. Fortune claims to have been the first entertainer to sing song hits to the accompaniment of stereopticon slides.

It was in 1896, in the American theatre on Chicago's north side, that he was engaged to introduce this startling innovation to the playgoing public. Between the acts of a comedy being presented at the American, he sang "After the Ball" and other compositions of the day. The lantern slides illustrating his songs were a big hit. Soon the making of song-slides became a small industry.

Fortune posed for many slides. Usually a slide had to be made for each line of the song. First one posed with one's partner for "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," and then snapped into the tableau for "Where the Love in Your Eyes I Could See," and so on through the sentimental itinerary of the ballad.

From this posing for song-slides to acting in motion pictures was a natural transition. When Edison produced "The Great Train Robbery," Tom Fortune was in the cast, and by the time the song-slide as an illustration had slipped into oblivion, Fortune and most of the other song-sliders had slipped safely into the films.

Thanksgiving is Very Quiet in Plattsmouth

Family Dinners Are the Chief Features of Celebration and Many Journey to Lincoln for Game

From Friday's Daily—
The Thanksgiving holiday in this city was very quietly observed, the day being largely devoted to the family gatherings and general household things such as the holiday season always brings.

The business houses of the city were open until the noon hour when the stores were all closed, remaining closed for the rest of the day and permitting the general onslaught on the good things that had been prepared for Thanksgiving dinner.

A very large number of the residents here drove to Lincoln where they enjoyed the big football classic between Nebraska and Notre Dame and those who were unable to go had almost as much fun in hearing the game over the air as Monte Munn announced in his own pleasing manner the details of the game as it was played out on the memorial stadium, and the best part of hearing the game via Monte, was the fact that there was no need of missing any of the toothsome dinners that had been prepared for the occasion.
