Any way, they said it was because he was the homeliest man in the city. We know better, for we saw a number of others who had him discounted.

Had a Severe Jolt

Last Sunday evening as Lloyd H. Jefferys was starting home from the church services, at the Christian church, in his coupe, just as he was turning onto the D. L. D. highway, a car coming along driven by a traveling man from Omaha, who was en route home and was traveling some thirty-five miles an hour tangled up with his, the result being that both were considerably damaged. The man from Omaha was accompanied by his wife and two small children. In an effort to divert his car to avoid striking Mr. Jefferys' coupe, and further momentum in that direction gained by a sideways impact the Omaha car was headed straight for a telephone pole and the result was that it was almost torn to pieces. The wife of the driver had one arm cut by broken glass, but the children escaped uninjured.

Passing of F. G. A. Peglow

Ferdinand Gotthard Albert Peglow was born November 13, 1859, in Todenhausen, Germany. He was married to Ulrike Marie Boesel, November 23rd, 1885. He came to America in 1888 with his wife, two children and his wife's parents. They came to Ithaca, Saunders county, where they lived on their farm until 1915. Since then they have made their home in Wahoo, where he peacefully passed away Monday, October 23, 1925, at 11 p. m., aged 66 years and 10 days, his wife and daughters being with him to the last. This union was blessed with seven children, two sons dying in infancy. In 1913 they lost their youngest daughter, Emma, aged 18 years, and in 1919 they lost their oldest daughter, Lena, at the age of thirty-three years. She was the wife of Paul Jahn, of Aurora, Illinois.

Mr. Peglow leaves to mourn his death, his beloved wife and three daughters, namely, Mrs. Anna Wright, of Wahoo; Mrs. Ida Raden, of Ashland; and Mrs. Elsie Boesel, of Greenwood. He also leaves seven grandchildren.

He was a patient sufferer, always bright and cheerful, never complaining. He was a hard working and prosperous farmer, a loving husband and a kind father. Everything he could do for his family for their comfort, he would do. He was the youngest and last of nine children.

Funeral services were held Friday November 27th, at the Evangelist church of Wahoo, the services being conducted by the Rev. Matzner, of Lincoln. Burial was in the Indian Mound cemetery by the side of his daughter, Emma.—Ashland Gazette.

Mrs. Farmer, who is a nurse, received a call to come to where she was told she was to act as nurse, and it being night, she departed and it was supposed she had arrived there until later when it was discovered that she was not wanted at the place at all. A search was instituted and the body was found with the head entirely severed. Many of the people in the western part of Cass county will well remember this excellent woman for her kindly acts and winning ways. Mr. Scheffer, who is a very close friend of the family, was down to attend the funeral.

ENJOY A FINE MEETING

From Saturday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon the C. S. I. club of the First Christian church was very pleasantly entertained at the hospitable home of Mrs. Walter Steinkamp, the attendance of the members being quite large despite the disagreeable weather conditions that prevailed. After the regular business session of the club the ladies spent the time in sewing, preparing many dainty articles for their Christmas work and which served to pass the time very delightfully for all of the members of the party. At an appropriate hour dainty and delicious refreshments were served that added to the completion of a very pleasurable event.

HAS CLOSE CALL

Albert Anderson had quite an experience Wednesday morning that got him quite badly excited at the time and makes the cold shivers race up and down his spinal column every time he thinks of it. He was about his duties in the Steffens store and when he went to the stock of bananas he saw something that appeared to be a large spider. He had heard stories of what had been found in bunches of this fruit and decided to take no chances. He took the stalk of banana to the ware house at the rear of the store and after some trouble dislodged the wooly looking creature from its resting place. He ran a wire through its body which killed it almost instantly and he put it in a fruit jar. It proved to be a tarantula, one of the most poisonous species of the spider family and found only in the south.—Nehawka Enterprise.

Tells Incidents Connected with Lloyd Babyhood

Dr. D. J. Reynish of the Masonic Home Writes of Incidents of Babyhood of Film Star.

From Saturday's Daily—

Plattsmouth, Neb., Dec. 4.

In the article appearing in the Journal a few days ago relative to Harold Lloyd, there was an error in regard to the place of his birth, which I wish to correct. He was born in Burchard, Pawnee county, not in Edgar. You who saw the pictures will remember the twinkle in his eyes. I think he had that from the very beginning, for instead of making a howl about it he soon began to smile as though he were perpetrating a joke on the world. He did not show his teeth, however, till later. Those glasses, without glass, too are a joke. I am sure he was welcome, though Lizzie, his mother, did complain of his being so small. I assured her, however, that the would be a man before his mother. Darsie, the father, pointed out certain features that "looked just like his dad." I told him he should not blame the child for that either, for he could not help it. Now I wish in this connection to tell the school boys of Plattsmouth not to despise a small town as a place to be born. It was the school boys of a few ago who placed the little town of Burchard on the map. Harold Lloyd is not the only boy from that little town who has made good. His cousin, Lloyd Dort, is now assistant Attorney General of Nebraska. Lee Buita, the first graduate of the village high school, after taking his degree of LL.D. at the state university, has become a very successful minister in the Christian church. Frank Horon Smith, after graduating at the Kansas state university and Evanston Theological Seminary has been many years a missionary in Japan and Korea. Guy McCoy has recently returned from China where he had a five years engagement with the Singer Sewing Machine Co. There are only a few of the many I might mention who went out in the world from the small town and made good. Harold Lloyd has demonstrated that it pays to look pleasant—to be funny.

BRINGING IN CHICKENS

From Thursday's Daily—

The residents of the county and the nearby territory are fast appreciating the fact that Plattsmouth at this time is one of the best chicken markets in this section of Nebraska, the prices being higher here than at other points and the shipping facilities being much better for the merchants. The chickens who can get the chickens enroute to the market in a few hours after their purchase and secure any advantage in the price that may be possible by a speedy delivery to the markets of New York, Chicago or Kansas City. Yesterday there were several cars with loads of poultry, some coming from the extreme western part of the county with their loads of fowls and as the result of their bringing them to Plattsmouth they returned home richer by several dollars than they had when they left. The market has gone to other points to sell the chickens, ducks and geese.

A great deal of the credit for the development of Plattsmouth as a poultry shipping center can be given to the Keeney & Keller Co. of Clarinda, Iowa, who opened the market to the extent of a great extent so that at the present time there are a number of live wire local dealers engaged in this business who maintain the high prices and each of these secure their share of the business that comes to the city.

A GOOD ACCIDENT POLICY

No driver of a vehicle and more especially no driver of an automobile, should ever cross a railroad or interurban track without first looking in both directions to determine whether a train is approaching. Where there are two or more tracks, never start across after a train has passed without waiting to see whether another train is approaching on another track. Let the first train get by at least 500 feet. If necessary to shift gears, do so not less than 50 feet before reaching the track, lest auto stalls on the track.

At crossings protected by flagmen, gates, bell or wig-wags, never attempt to cross while flagman is on the crossing or gates are lowered or bells or wig-wags are in action, for this means that a train is closely approaching.

These are a few suggestions to drivers that occasion no inconvenience and which if observed will prevent accidents at grade crossings, for a grade crossing is only dangerous when made so by careless driving. In fact, the danger is in the driving not in the crossing.

Millions Coming to Farmers on Wheat Rise

Tens of Millions of Dollars Benefit by Sensational Rise of Grain on the Board of Trade.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Farmers have benefited to the extent of tens of millions of dollars by the sensational rise of wheat on the Chicago board of trade during the last three weeks. Agricultural authorities told newspaper correspondents here today.

Wheat prices have advanced approximately 35 cents in that period on reports that Europe needs more American grain than anticipated.

Farmers have not sold out their grain and consequently are in position to cash in at higher prices. H. W. Moorehouse, former research expert of the American Farm Bureau Federation declared.

LaSalle street expects to see a repetition of the 1924 speculative boom when wheat prices soared to a top of $2.05 3/4 a bushel.

Public buying is increasing and professional traders are increasing their scope of operations. Yesterday the various wheat issues gained up to 6 1/2 cents per bushel over the preceding close.

Speculators talk excitedly of $2.25 wheat, just as they did last year when the market reached its peak and then slumped. Young fortunes had been made on a shoestring with stenographers, bell boys, clerks and others of the so-called "small fry" profiting along with the professional traders. When the slump came in December, nearly all of the small speculators and some of the professional traders were crippled or wiped out. Arthur Cutten and James Patton, two of the sensational figures of the wheat pits, piled up profits estimated all the way from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000. They retained most of their gains, and are said to be in the present market.

Moorehouse declared that the farmers anticipated the present rise and held on to their wheat. Estimates are for a much smaller European crop than anticipated with the result that America will be called on to export an unusually large amount of wheat, he said.

"The upward swing one year ago started just as the wheat crop was being harvested and the farmer rushed into the market to dispose of it before a relapse," Moorehouse explained. "Prices shot up higher, but the farmer had sold out. The speculator got the profits.

"The farmer was sagacious this year. Like others, he expected the market to bulge and he kept his wheat out of the market. This enabled great hardship for most wheat growers. Their pocketbooks had flattened and some were forced to go against their inclinations and sell out, but most of them obtained credit to tide them over.

"The farmer reaped little benefit on the rise of November wheat for most of it had gone into the market at good figures—but spring wheat has yet to reach the buyer. Every day is spelling more dollars for the farmers who hold spring wheat."

"The large percentage that stood pat are richer today because of its determination. I would not say by how much, but there is no doubt that the farmer's return on wheat will be much larger proportionately than last year, even if 1924's record high figure is not reached.

PERU WILL ASCQUISCE IN ARBITRAL AWARD

Washington, Dec. 3.—Peru has given a new turn to the Tacna-Arica situation by circularizing its embassies and legations throughout the world, taking cognizance of reports that the foreign office has been approached with proposals for settlement of the dispute without further recourse to President Coolidge's arbitral decision.

Formal denial that such proposals had been or would be entertained was made in the circular, which stated that in view of the existing situation at Arica, where the plebiscitary commission set up by President Coolidge and headed by General Pershing is sitting, Peru had no other course than to comply honorably and strictly with the arbitral award, and was determined not to modify this obligation in any particular.
