Last of the Vanishing Host of Civil War

John A. McConahie Post of the Grand Army Here to Decide on Dis-solution This Afternoon.

From Saturday's Daily—
There is but one foe that the brave soldiers who served in the Civil war in this nation have learned is unconquerable, that fears no host however courageous and knows that inevitably the greatest of armies and the most daring of men must succumb to his assaults and this is the grim and always advancing foe—Time.

To this grim messenger of passing years, McConahie post of the Grand Army of the Republic is bowing its head and this afternoon is holding what is expected to be the last meeting of the post. The membership of this once large and active organization has shrunk to mere handful, the members who reside here being so few in number that they can almost be counted on the fingers of the hand and several of these are stricken by the advance of time so that they are deprived of attending the meetings of the post, thus hastening the disbandment of the organization and the surrender of its charter.

To many in the community the time seems short when this little group of grey haired men, now stooped by the weight of years, were strong and vigorous in their manhood and active in the affairs of the county and state, but now in the fast nearing twilight of life they have laid aside the cares of civic leadership and in the sunset of life are calmly awaiting the last call, their duties well done and their tasks fulfilled.

It is hard to realize the great part in the history of the nation that the members of this post and of all other Grand Army organizations have played in the drama of their youthful days, the bravery that they showed in the revolution, the duty that they performed in their daring that knew no fear, their love of country that carried them through four years of hell that the nation that our forefathers founded might live and that the union of states founded on the sacrifices of the colonists and the heroes of the revolution might not be broken and scattered by the seeds of discord. There has been a wonderful contribution to the United States and to the world.

To those of us who have lived in the present, what they have endured we can only glimpse from the pages of history that have been written. A thousand tales of bravery and sacrifice that they have performed. In the last great war that involved practically all of the civilized world, this nation sent forth an army whose average age was twenty-four years, while in the Civil war the average age of the men of the Union army was seventeen. Sixty years ago the great conflict closed and the boys of that day are now the venerable sages of the nation, their journey's end a little way ahead, but to those who are here today the day is giving us the opportunity of seeing their nation united, grow to the greatest in the world.

At the present time the officers of John McConahie post of the Grand Army of the Republic are T. W. Glenn, commander; John Fight, senior vice commander; Thomas Wiles, quartermaster; Ashbury Jacks, officer of the day; John McCarty, chaplain. Commander Glenn has removed to Hamburg, Iowa, and at the present time the post of adjutant and also junior vice commander are vacant.

Among the members of the post at the present time there is still enrolled one of the charter members, R. W. Hyers, all of those associated with him in the organizing of the post here having answered the last call to arms. Mr. Hyers, in his eighty-second year and although retaining his membership here has long resided in Lincoln and Havelock. The oldest member of the post is D. W. Foster, now living in Omaha, who is in his ninety-second year of life.

The other members of the post here are Thomas Wiles, Ashbury Jacks, John Fight, Col. M. A. Bates, John McCarty, William Burke, William Gilmour, W. H. Verner of Mynard, E. A. Kirkpatrick of Nehawka, Robert Troop, I. N. Barrows and Samuel Latta of Murray. The failing health of the members here and the inability of the members at other points attending the meetings has led to the movement for the surrender of the charter and the disbandment of the post.

John McConahie post of the Grand Army of the Republic was organized in this city April 26, 1880, fifteen years after the close of the great war in which the members had participated and at the time of the organization the post was named in honor of one of the leaders in the Union army who had perished on the battle field, the rule being with this great order as with the American Legion of today, that posts might be named only after individuals who had paid the supreme sacrifice in the war.

The charter members of the post numbered leaders then in the life of the city and state and from the records of the order it has been possible to secure the names of those who first launched the post on its long years of service to this community. The charter members of the post were:

- Alpha Wright, age 67, chaplain, 25th Missouri infantry.
- Robert R. Livingston, captain, Co. A, 1st Nebraska infantry.
- Samuel M. Chapman, age 38, private, Co. E, 14th Iowa infantry.
- J. A. McCarty, age 41, sergeant, Co. B, 5th New Jersey infantry.
- Jesse B. Strode, age 35, private, Co. G, 50th Illinois infantry.
- William H. Newell, age 42, private, Co. F, 91st Ohio infantry.

Truck Line Loses Goods by Theft Tuesday

Higgins Company of Nebraska City Has Truck Raided While En Route to Nebraska City

The Frank H. Higgins truck line that operates between Nebraska City and Omaha was the sufferer Tuesday night of the robbery of several packages of candy that had been on the truck for delivery at Nebraska City from the Omaha wholesale houses.

The truck was driven by O. Pierce and the goods were not missed until the truck arrived at Nebraska City and the check of the goods revealed a shortage of several boxes and packages of candy that had been on the truck when it had left Omaha.

The driver of the truck states that he noticed a large closed car pass the truck while it was traveling along the K-T highway between Plattsmouth and Murray and that two miles further south the truck had passed this same car parked along the roadway. The driver believes that the thief had gotten on the truck, threw off the boxes and then dropped off the truck and was later picked up by the occupants of the closed car who had then made their getaway before the loss was discovered by the truck driver.

The truck driver rides in an enclosed cab and therefore failed to hear the man on the truck. This morning Sheriff Stewart, who has been investigating the matter, learned that a car answering the number of the plate found near the scene of the supposed truck robbery was from Omaha and that it was that of an Elcar that had been stolen there some time Tuesday.

A BIT OF OLD HISTORY

From Saturday's Daily—

In discussing with one of the members of the G. A. R. here the possibilities of the disbanding of the organization, a bit of old time Plattsmouth history was touched upon and is rather interesting as it is a little known chapter of what was one time a great movement in this country—the Fenian outbreak that had as its purpose the invasion and conquest of Canada by a faction of the Irish residents of the United States who were then bitterly opposed to the English government on account of the oppressive measures that were carried out against the residents of Ireland.

At this time, in the early seventies, John Fitzgerald, pioneer railroad contractor, was a resident of this city and leader of the nationalist aspirations of his people in this section. Mr. Fitzgerald furnished the funds for the securing of arms that were destined to be used by a company of the fighting Irish of this locality in invading Canada and our informant states that this company was drilled for months in the building now known as the Cotes block and which was then owned by Mr. Fitzgerald.

John O'Rourke, then assistant cashier of the First National bank served as drillmaster of the company, but ere the Plattsmouth warriors were able to get started for Canada the rebellion was nipped in the bud and the Fenian movement discouraged by the United States government. The guns were later turned over to the G. A. R. and were in the possession for years until they were given away or lost in the passage of time.

ENTERTAIN FOR FRIENDS

From Saturday's Daily—

Yesterday Mrs. D. C. Morgan and daughter, Miss Gertrude, were hostesses at a most charming 6 o'clock tea at their home on north 6th street, the event being in the nature of a farewell for Mrs. James W. Burnie and Miss Eleanor Burnie, soon to leave for New England to make their home there.

The rooms of the home were festive with the bright red and green and touches of white that carried the note of the Christmas season and was a very pretty addition to the pleasant afternoon.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. W. F. Wagon and Mrs. G. W.

Goodman in entertaining and serving.

After the close of the tea the ladies whiled away the hours in playing bridge, prizes being won by Mrs. Edna Shannon for the high score and Mrs. J. W. Holmes consolation while guest prizes were presented to Mrs. Burnie and Miss Eleanor.

The following guests were in attendance: Mrs. James W. Burnie, Miss Eleanor Burnie, Mesdames Edna Shannon, H. A. Schneider, J. W. Holmes, William Jorgenson, E. J. Richey, Evi Spier, James Mauzy, Willis Holmes, Ed Wilcox, Waldemar Soenichsen.

OMAHA LADY SURPRISED

Mrs. Mary Bohison, who makes her home with her father, August Thingahn, in Omaha, was given a pleasant surprise party last Sunday when a number of her Louisville relatives drove up to spend the day with her, bringing baskets of roast chicken, cakes and other fine delicacies. The affair was arranged in honor of Mrs. Bohison's 53rd birthday anniversary and she received many good wishes and congratulations.

The dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Bohison's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heil, who live across the street from Mr. Thingahn, and the meal was surely a bountiful feast and much merriment and good cheer attended the partaking of it.

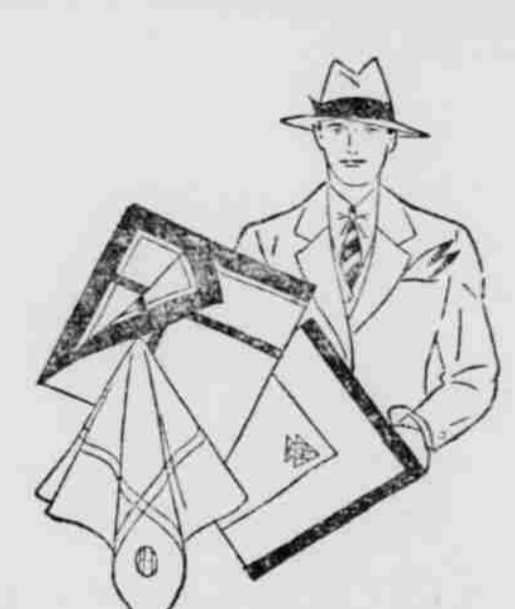

Those from this vicinity who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Ferd. Brunckow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stohman and family, William Stohman, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thingahn and family. — Louisville Courier.

MRS. OZBUN IMPROVING

From Saturday's Daily—
This morning word was received from Mrs. M. S. Briggs at Milton, Iowa, stating that her mother, Mrs. Elvira Ozburn, who has been quite poorly for the past several weeks from bronchitis, is now taking a decided change for the better and her improvement has been most encouraging to the relatives and friends as it is hope that in the next few weeks "Granna" may be well on the way to recovery.

ARRIVAL OF LITTLE DAUGHTER

From Saturday's Daily—
This morning word was received here by Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hall of the fact that they were again happy grandparents, a fine little daughter having arrived yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McKenzie at Aurora, Nebraska. The mother and little one are doing fine and the occasion is a most happy one to the members of the family. Mrs. McKenzie was formerly Miss Myrtle Hall of this city.

THE BEST thing you can give for Christmas is yourself. The more of yourself you can crowd into each gift, the more will be the joy of giving; the greater the pleasure of receiving.

With a little thought on your part and the careful guidance of those from whom he buys his own things the year around, you'll find the things here that will express your individuality and be "the very thing he wants"—whether for Father, Husband, Brother—or for "Him."

See the selection of handkerchiefs—colored borders, initials, plain—the far famed ties we have, the proverbial defamed ones we have none.
