Spuds Going to Market at a Rapid Rate

High Price Incentive Keeps Them Moving—Bring Three Times the 1924 Price.

Nebraska potato shipments to date have exceeded last year's total movement, according to information received by the state and federal division of agriculture statistics. This year's commercial potato crop is expected to exceed 4,000 cars.

Potato shipments to date from Nebraska's commercial potato center total 2,939 cars, compared to 1,735 cars shipped to date last year and a total movement last season of 2,918 cars.

The movement started about August 1 and has continued heavy since that date. The potato shipment season dates from August 1 to June 10, beginning when the early crop first starts to market.

With potato production in Nebraska falling 1,443,000 bushels below production a year ago it might at first seem unreasonable that the shipments at this early date are in excess of the total movement for last season. However, when it is remembered that the present crop is largely commercial and was produced in western Nebraska's commercial potato center, and that the farm crop in the eastern part of the state was much below the average, it is only to be expected that the results should show up in increased shipments. The farm price as of December 1, 1925, averaged $1.80 per bushel, while the December 1 price a year ago was 62 cents. This factor has caused a much larger percentage of the potatoes produced to seek the market, while as a result of the low market price a year ago many potatoes were allowed to rot in the field, or were fed to livestock and did not reach the market.

The quality of the present crop is not as good as that of the crop produced last year, but it is commanding a price nearly three times that of a year ago.

The total value of the present crop of 6,300,000 bushels is $11,340,000 compared to a total value of 7,743,000 bushel crop produced a year ago of $4,801,000. In short a crop 1,443,000 bushels below last year's production is worth two and one-third times as much. The decrease of 1,443,000 bushels in production or 19 per cent may be accounted for by a 6 per cent reduction in acreage and a decline in average production per acre of from 87 bushels in 1924 to 75 bushels in 1925.

Potatoes in the United States with a 7 per cent cut in acreage and a 24 per cent smaller production have a gross value about two and one-half times that of the 1924 crop.

North High Wins a Hard Fought Game

By Score of 10 to 8, Locals Lose to Omaha North Siders—Lack Their Usual Punch.

From Saturday's Daily—Last evening North High of Omaha took a heart-breaking game from the Blue and White, the first game the home floor. The game was one in which the locals lacked their usual fight and failed to attack with their speed, Rehal, right forward, being in poor form for the game and lacking his usual shooting eye, due to a severe cold. During the latter part of the game, he was relieved by Perry, substitute player, but returned to finish the last quarter.

Despite the handicap, the fact that Plattsmouth failed to make any of their six chances at free throws contributed to their downfall, while North High was able to snag four of their eight chances or enough to put them across.

In field goals, Plattsmouth scored one more than North, but this was not sufficient to give them the win. In the first quarter Sterling Hatt made the first field goal while Johnson, Omaha center, secured a free throw, making the score at the end of the quarter 2 to 1 for Plattsmouth.

The second quarter opened with Buttery and Wescott each securing a field goal apiece and brought the fans to their feet with the lead of six to one, but Hart of the North Siders was able to secure three free throws out of four chances that cut down the lead. Brown scored two and Towles one field goal and the quarter closed with the visitors leading eight to six.

At the opening of the second half of the game Rehal for Plattsmouth tied the score with a shot from the side of the court that tied the score, but this was broken in the next few seconds when Towles slipped one into the basket and the quarter closed with the score 10 to 8 for the visitors.

Plattsmouth opened a hard attack in the last quarter and repeated tries for goal failed by very narrow margin with the North Siders playing largely on the defensive and taking little chances on opening up.

The last floor work of Sterling Hatt, Wescott and Buttery for the locals featured the game, while the work of Towles for the visitors was the most brilliant of the visitors.

George Parrish, well known Omaha basketball player, was the referee of the game.

The tabulated score of the game was as follows:

Plattsmouth—

Rehal, rf	0	0	0	2

Hatt, j. c.	0	0	1	0
