POVERTY AND SHAME

Poverty and shame shall be to him that refuseth instruction; but he that regardeth reproth shall be honored.

Hurricane grips Pacific coast.

Experience cannot be bought on credit.

Women appear natural only when they don't try to.

Senator Norris attacks Mellon banking firms' tax levy.

Golfers will go to a great deal of exertion to get into a hole.

The absent-minded man forgets everything but his troubles.

Tramways of the east demand dollar a day increase by March 2nd.

Gasoline taxes for eight months in Kansas amounted to $3,000,253.17.

A public utility is a company which is engaged in digging up the streets.

Mount Etna is active, but Mussolini will no doubt suppress it at the proper time.

Democrats in congress, confer on campaign. Leaders of both houses meet to fix party policy.

If you think women are cowards just blow your auto horn to make one get out of your way.

The coal strike is a lockout, says Lewis. Parley breaks up for the third time. Peace offer voted down.

If you are honest, you won't strike a match to look at the gas until you have finished paying for the car.

Additional charges were made against the Internal Revenue bureau by a senate investigating committee.

When you drop a dollar lots of people will help you look for it, but nobody will help you work for another one.

There's a lot of psychology in radio. If you think you got Paris, you're about as well off as if you actually did.

The way they get in and out of cabinets, you'd think the French politicians learned their statesmanship from Houdini.

President Coolidge has raised by $10,000,000 the original appropriation requested for rivers and harbors, making a total of $50,000,000.

This year, 1926, is bound to be unlucky; it began on Friday and will end on Friday. Still, this is better than not beginning or ending at all.

President Coolidge regards American adherence to the World Court, not as a step toward the league of nations, but, if anything, in the other direction. Aint that funny he looks upon the court and the league as separate propositions entirely?

FLORIDA PAPERS PLEASE COPY

Florida may boast of its balmy gulf stream, and prolong its real estate riot indefinitely, but California still has its climate and a willingness to tell the world. From Newark, a village in the Golden State, comes word that the hamlet is so healthful that it has no need of doctors, drug stores or undertakers, and an intimation that Ponce De Leon searched on the wrong coast in his search for the fountain of perpetual youth.

Out where the "Native Sons" are stronger, that's where the west begins, as the poet almost said, and California insists, and so they may live happily ever after at Newark, Cal., as well as in the fairy stores. At any rate, there Newark stands without benefit of Materia Medica or need of moticians, and Florida, the fair, should go out and get a reputation, before setting up as a health resort.

But there would be handicaps, even in such a robust region and Newark isn't exactly Utopia Center with the red corpses working regularly, civilized man might live without doctors happily and indefinitely and thus eliminate the undertakers by the simple process of sticking around. If one is feeling fit, he doesn't think much of doctors anyhow nor hold their skill in high esteem. And sick or well, it always seems the undertakers are too cheerful, considering their occupation; almost giddy, some of them are, and there is wonderment that Pollyanne didn't grow up to be a hearse driver. Neither is needed to round out that perfect party.

Drug stores, however, are different. They are, in fact, so much more than apothecary's shops in this complicated era, that healthful patrons predominate, and it is hard to keep house without them. What does Newark do for a drink (soft of course) or bathing suit quick lunches, cosmetics and razor blades? The answer might be "without" but that would be no way to compete with Florida, which boasts of having pretty much everything but John Roach Stratton.

Those wicked founders Rupert Hughes started something! Mrs. Harry Atwood Coleman, in a speech at Washington before the Susan B. Anthony Foundation, says Dolly Madison was a flapper. The charming wife of the fourth president "used rouge, was frivolous, dipped snuff and played cards for high stakes." It looks as though the "Founding Mothers," as well as the "Founding Fathers," were erring, peccant human beings after all, rather than gods and goddesses. A dancing, drinking and swearing George Washington. A painted, snuff dipping frivolous Dolly Madison. Dear, dear! What are our ancestors coming to!

The delicate status of relations between the United States and Mexico became plain a few days ago with the disclosure that Ambassador Sheffield has filed protest with the Mexican foreign office against retroactive provisions of the two new Mexican laws known as the petroleum and anti-alien land acts. Estimates of the aggregate value of American investments in Mexico jeopardized by these enactments taken at their face value runs as high as $500,000,000.

Vice-President Dawes wants to reform the senate and the anti-tobacco people want to reform him. It gets a fellow in lots of trouble to try to do as he would be done by.

HOOVER "HET UP"

Secretary Hoover is all steamed up and threatening to get completely beyond control at any minute, just because the British decided to change the market quotations on raw rubber. Mr. Hoover is a patriot. He ought to induce George Cohan to star him in his next Hall Hooray for the U. S. A.

It doesn't pain him in the slightest to read that the aluminum trust seems to have failed to comply with certain regulations which the federal government was so inconsiderate as to impose on our loyal home monopolies. The papers and the air are full of charges that the aluminum trust is no slouch, even if the rubber trust is a trifle broader. We would like to know what Mr. Hoover thinks about the harsh things they are saying about the aluminum trust. Perhaps he thinks that Andy Mellon, who chums with him in the same cabinet is being persecuted. Perhaps he feels that the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice are entirely right in believing that all aluminum ought to be treated to a nice coat of whitewash.

Mr. Hoover probably has wired his congratulations to the big tire company—a loyal American industry—which has just declared the largest dividend in its history.

Our motto should be that gouging is all right, just so it is done by the home boys. Personally, we shall adopt that motto. If we must suffer from profiteers, we'd rather have them as far away as possible. Then, too, we like the frank manly way the British have of dipping into the customer's pocket. They do not deign to dissemble. We told them they must pay us the war debt. They said cheerio, old thing, we'll make it easy and comfortable by easing the price of rubber up a couple of notches, that all who ride may have the satisfaction of having a hand in it.

Then Mr. Hoover, protector of the poor, starts throwing fits all over the premises. He reminds us of the editor of revered memory who was giving a new assistant instructions. "Say nice things about those around you," he counseled. "Commend the town council, congratulate the legislature, applaud congress, if it is a Democrat year. There will be times when you will feel a compelling, an irresistible urge to cuss something or somebody. On those days write about the Balkins."

COWS AND CARS

D. T. Simmons, secretary of the Texas Jersey Cattle club, claims that the cow is more valuable than the automobile. In our opinion this all depends upon circumstances. Suppose you want to take a ride through the country, what good would a cow do you then?

And it seems to us that an automobile has more improvements. For instance, a machine has a self-starter, but you still have to crank a cow. On the other hand, a cow gets very good mileage from it fuel.

Of course some cows are better than others. Some give a good rich mixture of milk and cream and others don't. It all depends upon the mixture of the bovine carburetter.

In our opinion the cow's generosity is overrated. We are always hearing about how much milk this and that cow gives, but we have never yet seen a cow give any milk. You always have to go and take it.

And she won't even let you take any unless you are on the right side of her.

The time will come, says Prof. Dibble of the Carnegie Institute, when it will be possible to broadcast sound waves. Then the weather man will come to something more than a figure-head. In winter he will alternate Florida and California climate and in summer he will arrange cooling programs from Alaska and Medicine Hat.

A farmer tells the recent winter weather has been fine, as well as useful. "It's equally good," he says, "for butchering hogs and for the radio."

Perhaps owls are considered wise because they stay in bed all day.
