FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Profitable Sideline
Harry Leesley, of Greenwood, has several small incubators in which he hatched a total of 2,000 baby chicks in one hatch. He sells baby chicks and hatches these incubators several times each, during the spring months. Besides this, he has a hired man, he farms 160 acres. Every one cannot take this up, or we would be over supplied with baby chicks, but one might take a sideline with his farming and receive a little better profit.

Almost Ten Pigs Per Sow
Gus Siekman, of Eagle, has twelve Duroc sows which have farrowed during the last two weeks and he still has living from 110 to 115 pigs. The smallest number in the litter living with the sow today is 8 and the largest 12. The pigs are all uniform in size. Mr. Siekman says this wonderful success is due to three things—good sows, an excellent boar and proper feeding.

Seed Corn in Cass County
From testing the corn brought to the Farm Bureau office, we have come to the conclusion that Cass county has plenty of seed corn of its own. If you cannot pick it out of your own crib, you can find it in some of your neighbors' cribs. If you are having trouble locating good seed corn, write or phone us, and maybe we can tell you of some close neighbor who can furnish you seed corn.

Eagle Baby Beef Club
Visited nine baby beeves which are owned by the boys around Eagle and found these baby beeves to be in good condition to be fattened. Mr. Posson of the Extension Service, that as a whole the boys' baby beeves were mighty good and if they put the fat on them in the next 150 days, some of them will show up well by state fair time. There will be a better class of baby beeves at the state fair this year than ever before, but our boys have a chance to win with the rest of them.

Manley Fans Start Baseball Season Early

Team is Organized and Dates Being Scheduled for Coming Season Within the County.

The vicinity of Manley, where the baseball fans are real enthusiasts and give their team strong and consistent support, the 1926 baseball season has been given a start by the election of an organization to conduct the business affairs of the team and also to sign up the various players who will make up the personnel of the Manley team this season.

In the past the Manley team has been one of the up and coming organizations of the county and each season has seen a strong playing team in the field for this enterprising little city and judging from the prospects for the season the team will be as good or better than any that has been on the diamond in a number of years.

At the meeting of the fans held on Friday evening it was voted that R. Coon, who so successfully handled the management last season be again selected for this position and which started the proceedings out in fine shape and the selection of William J. Rau as the secretary of the club assures a business combination that will give the very best results for the Manley fans.

The team this season will be practically that of last season, with a few exceptions and being largely an organization of veterans of the game they will be seasoned shock troops when the first call of play ball comes in the field for this enterprising little city.

The players who are in prospect for the season include a pitching staff composed of Ted Hartman, of Louisville, Grover Hopkins and "Tip" Reator, of Weeping Water, Hopkins also appearing at the keystone sack when not pitching. Walt O'Brien will do the backstopping for the Manley team, as he has for a number of seasons. The second base position will be held down by P. Girard, while at short Roy West will again do his stuff and Eddie Sheehan, the first base sacker, will be back on the job again. The outfield of the Manley team will comprise H. Ash, Merritt Russell and John Sheehan, a fast and aggressive line up.

Those wishing games can write or call R. L. Coon, at Manley.

Rates No Higher Than the Others

Omaha Livestock Exchange Secretary Testifies on Readjusted Schedule of Railroad Rates.

Omaha, Neb., March 26.—The readjusted schedule only makes Omaha rates the same as those of competing markets. A. F. Stryker, secretary of the Omaha Livestock exchange, testified today at a hearing before J. C. Brooke of Washington, examiner of the packers and stockyards administration, to consider the new readjusted schedule of commission rates here.

"Spread over the entire receipts at the yards," Stryker said, "the revised schedule means no increase in commission rates on sheep and only a light increase on cattle and hogs, equal to about 35 cents on an average car in a year."

In answer to the question whether commission men will be required to pay increased rental for office space in the new exchange building, W. R. Shelberg, general manager of the Union Stockyards, said "I understand this is the case."

Robert Graham, president of the Nebraska stockgrowers' association, declared stockmen in the state made a little money last year, but had been losing money for some time up to 1925. He said he did not like to see an increase in commission rates but would interpose no serious objections. Fewer commission men would improve the character of the service, he believed.

Ninety-five per cent of the men engaged in the range cattle industry in the state are now in debt, said S. P. Delatour of Lewellen, Neb., member of the executive committee of the Nebraska stockgrowers' association.

"I don't think the commission rates should be increased," he said. "I believe the present schedule is high enough, and raisers seem pretty well satisfied as a whole."

"The livestock industry in Wyoming is in very bad condition," J. L. Gordon of Cheyenne, rancher-president of the Wyoming stockgrowers' association, testified. "I think I'm safe in saying that 80 per cent of the stock raisers are bankrupt. This has been the condition since 1921. It is slightly improved now, some of the mchaving made a little money last year."

"Wyoming stock raisers were not satisfied with the rates when we met officials of this exchange in 1922, but we made no particular fight against them. If this increase goes into effect now, they won't like it any better. We don't feel as though we are getting any better commission service than we were forty years ago and I think that, should the increase become effective, commission men will be charging more than their service requires or demands."

J. C. Brooke, the examiner, explained that he had been instructed not to include any testimony that has any bearing on the case, but to allow counsel to object, in order that when the case is heard by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, he may have all the evidence as the secretary will make the decision in the case.

GETTING READY FOR SEASON

While the prospects for a town baseball team this season does not seem so rosy with many of the old time players gone here and there, others having played for a great many years demanding a rest, the Bohemian Sluggers, the organization of young men residing in the west section of the city are preparing to start in on the spring training as soon as the weather decides to moderate.

This team had a large number of games with neighboring towns the last season and this year hope to take on a little faster company and may have several new players to assist them on the diamond for the season. Practically all of the players of last year's team are now available and in addition there may be several new ones that will make the team one that will be up and going.

Senator Charges Torres Was Sent to Certain Death

Immigration Director Tells How General Torres' Permit to Stay in U. S. Was Revoked.

Washington, March 26.—Bit by bit the senate immigration committee today drew from William Hanson, immigration director at San Antonio, the story of how he surrendered General Manuel Torres, rebel leader, to Mexican authorities to be shot, in spite of the fact that the general, fleeing from the wrath of the Calles government had been granted 60 days by the department of labor here, to make good his escape to Canada or Cuba.

Friends of General Torres have charged that he was deported—in the face of warnings that he would certainly be killed—in accord with an agreement between the immigration and prohibition enforcement units and the Mexican government, under which Mexican political refugees are to be sent back to Mexico in return for President Calles' signature on a border run-running treaty.

Under questioning by Senator King today, Mr. Hanson, as well as Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband, admitted that the order permitting Torres his freedom for 60 days on his own recognizance was revoked without notice to his counsel, H. G. Hopkins of Washington, and that the release was then conditioned on his ability to produce a thousand-dollar bond. Senator King asserted Torres had been sent to his "certain death."

When it appeared that Torres would be unable to give such a bond a deportation order was issued and the general surrendered to a Mexican consul. A few days later, General Torres was shot, according to the story told by Hanson. Mr. Husband admitted an error was made by the labor department in failing to notify Attorney Hopkins of the revocation of the stay given to Torres. Secretary Kellogg of the state department, after deportation of Torres, cautioned Secretary Davis of the labor department, saying that in cases involving deportation of Mexican political refugees, the state department hoped these would be deported to some country other than Mexico.

Denies Property Returned. Hanson contended that he was justified in turning Torres over in view of assurances from President Calles and the secretary of state of Mexico that the general would not be tried as a rebel, but as a bandit. Senator King attempted to compel Hanson to admit that through his years of experience in Mexico and on the border he knew that it is the custom in Mexico to try all political prisoners and rebels as bandits and inflict the death penalty.

Hanson heatedly denied that his property in Mexico had been returned to him since the surrender of Torres, and asserted that it is still held by the Mexican government.

STATE'S HUNTERS GIVE BIG REVENUE

Washington, March 26.—One hundred and forty-three thousand, eight hundred and one hunting and fishing licenses were taken out during the season 1924-25 by sportsmen and anglers in Nebraska, a report by the state cultural department Thursday showed. The returns to the state treasury amounted to $161,129.00.

Detailed figures for the season, just compiled by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, show more than 5,000,000 such licenses numbered 4,341,498 and the returns amounted to more than $6,400,000. The figures show increases in the numbers of licenses issued and fees received over the two years preceding. Two years before such licenses numbered 4,341,498 and the fees paid were $5,385,489. One year later 4,395,038 hunters paid for their licenses a total of $5,039,834 and the fees totaled $6,423,276.87. Pennsylvania, with 504,130 licenses and fees of $613,939.30, headed the list both in licenses and returns to the state treasury.
