FUNERAL OF MRS. DODGE

From Saturday's Daily—
This afternoon at 2:30 at the Trinity cathedral at Omaha was held the funeral services of the late Mrs. George A. Dodge, well known Plattsmouth lady, and the services were attended by a very large number of the old friends here who gathered to pay their last tributes of love and respect to the departed lady.

The Very Rev. Stephen McGinley, dean of the cathedral, celebrated the impressive and beautiful Episcopal ritual and the choir of the church assisting in the services.

At the conclusion of the service the cortege moved to Forest Lawn cemetery where the interment was held.

Jennie Zeel Dodge was born in Machanicburg, Pennsylvania, March 5, 1855 and in this state she was reared to womanhood, and was married on July 15, 1876 to George A. Dodge at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For more than forty years the family resided at Plattsmouth, where the deceased lady was loved by a very large and affectionate circle of friends who are sharing with the family the sorrow that has come to them. Mrs. Dodge passed away at the Lord Lister hospital in Omaha on April 29, 1926. Surviving are the husband and two children, Dr. Roy A. Dodge and Miss Violet Dodge, both of Omaha.

FUNERAL OF JOHN KROEHLER

From Saturday's Daily—
This morning at Oak Hill cemetery was held the last scene in the life of John Kroehler, former well known resident of this community, the life of the departed having been closed in the dreamless sleep of the dead to rest until the summons of the angel on the last day of judgment.

The funeral services were held this morning at the Brewer chapel at South Omaha and the Presbyterian service was held by the pastor of the Wheeler Memorial church, with a large number of the old friends and fellow workmen of the deceased in attendance. At the service a number of the old hymns were given by the choir of the church.

After the services at Omaha, the funeral cortege made its way to Plattsmouth, where the burial service was held at the Oak Hill cemetery, I. O. O. F. lodge No. 10, of Omaha, of which the departed was a member for a great many years, conducted their ritualistic services at the grave.

Physical Training Exhibition is Much Enjoyed

Large Audience Witnesses the Showing of Pupils of the Public Schools Last Night.

From Saturday's Daily—
The large audience that filled the gym of the high school building last evening to witness the exhibition of the physical training department of the city schools, enjoyed a real treat and one that certainly showed a fine progress in the year of instruction that the pupils have had in the various forms of physical exercise.

The department has been under the direction of B. E. Woodward and his handling of the boys and girls has resulted in their receiving a beneficial training that has developed grace and skill and the physical bodies of the boys and girls to a remarkable degree.

It was the first opportunity that the large majority of the people had of seeing the finished product of this department and there was no one who witnessed this showing that did not feel that it must certainly be of a great benefit to all of the scholars of the city school system in giving them fully in every sense of the word by giving them a good, live and active body to sustain their mental faculties and to learn them through the exercises to be graceful and quick in action.

Every department of the physical training course was shown both by the boys and girls and the excellent manner in which the various exercises were carried out and was a treat and a revelation to the auditors.

Basketball games for both boys and girls were played for a short interval with an indoor baseball game by the boys as well as a volley ball game, showing the instruction in these healthy sports that the scholars receive.

The relay races were also much enjoyed, a part of these being played with the hurdles that showed the speed and quickness of the boys and the fine exercise that they receive in these sports.

The girls of the school also gave several drills that were excellent and in which the members of the various classes carried out their parts in a machine like precision that drew hearty applause from the audience. The dancing exercises that are a great aid to grace and ease of action were also very well given.

The calisthenics, presented by several classes of both boys and girls were one of the big features of the extensive program and the skill in which the classes carried out these movements showed grace and ease of action that indicated the progress that the boys and girls have made in this line of their physical training.

The closing feature of the evening was the ladder pyramids formed by the boys of the high school and which was given with the skill of veterans and which the boys deserve a great deal of credit for presenting in the manner that they did.

A specialty of the exhibition was the sailor's hornpipe given by Jean Caldwell and Maxine Clويد and reflected the greatest of credit on these two clever little ladies.

Those who witnessed the exhibition last evening felt well satisfied with the work that this department of the school has done and the progress that the young people have made in the past year under the guidance of Mr. Woodward.

OLD RESIDENTS LEAVING CITY

From Friday's Daily—
This afternoon Fred W. Mann departed for his home at Graybull, Wyoming, taking with him his mother, Mrs. W. H. Mann and his sister Miss Ada, who are to make their home at Graybull in the future, having disposed of their property interests here and decided to join the son and brother who has been located in the west for the past several years. The Mann family have been old residents here for many years and both Mrs. Mann and Miss Ada have been very active in the work of the First Presbyterian church and their departure will bring a great regret to the many old time friends who will miss their pleasant association. Fred has been located at Graybull for a number of years as foreman of the Burlington "rip track" at that place and has grown to be a real lover of the mountain country and the climate of that section of Wyoming.

AGED LADY INJURED IN FALL

On Tuesday evening Grandma Bailey, who is 85 years old and makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. B. I. Clements, was seriously injured in a fall about 8 o'clock. She was in her own room when she fell breaking one of her hips and an arm. A year or so ago she fell breaking the other hip but had somewhat recovered from this. Previous to this fall she had been getting around quite well for one of her age. She is also the mother of C. G. Bailey.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

Plattsmouth Students Show Well in Contest

George Swatek Wins First in Algebra and Local Students Show Well in Agriculture.

From Saturday's Daily—
The Plattsmouth high school students who participated in the state high school day held at the Wesleyan university yesterday, made a very pleasing showing and won many prizes and honors for the schools by the excellence of their work. Thirty-nine towns and 950 students participated in the exercises of the day.

The winners of first place will receive a gold medal, the second place winners silver and the third place winners a bronze medal.

In the Plattsmouth contestants George Swatek received the first prize for his work in algebra out of a very large class.

The agriculture awards were practically all secured by the Plattsmouth representatives, Joe Hartford, second; Roland Thomas, third and Irene Pfoutz, honorable mention in their work in this department.

In the bookkeeping contests Edith Bullin of this city secured honorable mention while Emily Stone of this city secured honorable mention in the expression tests. In the geography contests Emily Stava secured third place in this line of work.

Outside of the Plattsmouth schools Alvo was the only other school of the county that secured place in the contests, Helen Hardnock, receiving honorable mention in the home economics department while Sterling Coatman was given second prize in the manual training tests.

RETURNING TO CALIFORNIA

From Friday's Daily—
James Higley, Jr., who was called here from Los Angeles the first of the week by the death of his father, James B. Higley, is expecting to leave in the next few days for his home in the west, having been here for over the funeral services.

Mr. Higley has for the past twelve years been a resident of the west coast and is a very enthusiastic booster of the western country, climate and people. He has been successful in his efforts in that country altho just a mere boy when going there to start his battle of life. He has for the past eight years been with the Southern Pacific in their train service and has been a conductor on that railroad for some years. In addition to his railroad work Jim has taken part in several of the moving pictures made at Hollywood and enjoys a large acquaintance around the studios and his service has several times been secured by the companies in some of their large productions.

While here visiting his relatives Mr. Higley was a pleasant caller at the Journal and reports that his sister, Mrs. Mattie Campbell, a former resident here, was in very critical condition at her home in Los Angeles and her serious illness prevented her being here to attend the funeral of their father. The many friends are regretting very much to learn of the illness of Mrs. Campbell.

MEET UP WITH SNAKE

From Friday's Daily—
This morning, just before the noon hour, when Mrs. Edward Maurer went into her cellar at the home on West Chicago avenue, to place some milk to cool, her attention was attracted by the rattle of a rattle snake, and as she turned around she found his snakeship between her and the stairway. Reserving her presence of mind for immediate use, though with many forebodings, she awaited while the snake crawled onto a ledge of the wall and finally getting far enough away to allow Mrs. Maurer to make a dash for liberty. She immediately called a neighbor and upon investigating they discovered that the snake had crawled into a hole, a number of holes being there. Lonnie Maurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurer, then set a number of steel traps at the holes in hopes of catching the mauler.

NORTH HIGH WINS DEBATE

From Thursday's Daily—
Last evening the members of the Plattsmouth high school debating team, comprising Stuart Egenberger, Connie Allen and George Thacker, were at Omaha where they participated in the debate there with the members of the team representing North high. The judge of the contest gave the decision to the team of North high who had the affirmative on the question that is used this season, "That the members of the President's cabinet should have the right of the floor of congress."

RECEIVES NEW BOOKS

The Plattsmouth public library has just received two very valuable additions to their reference works and travel literature in a partial set of the works of Luther Burbank, plant wizard, who has given the world some of the greatest contributions to tree and plant life. These works are some of them prepared at the plant of Mr. Burbank and are pieces of art from a typographical standpoint and in the binding and illustrating. These books have been much in demand by the public interested in fruit and cultivation.

Another of the works just recently placed at the library is that of a complete set of eighteen volumes of the travels of Frank G. Carpenter, newspaper writer and world traveler and which is one of the sets of which the library is justly proud and which is fast becoming one of the sets in the greatest demand.

Rural Electrification a Very Live Subject

Experiments Made Warrant Electric Men in Making Predictions of Early Solution of Problem

The problem of rural electrification occupied the major portion of the time of the Nebraska Electric Light association Friday morning. Dean Furgason, Prof. E. E. Brackett and Miss Greta Gray of the university, Railway Commissioner Taylor and others took part in the discussion.

The report of the committee which has been making tests for the past year reported by W. J. McGeachin, chairman. He said that while the companies are willing to cooperate with their own electric districts that own their own distribution system, the situation does not warrant promoting such projects. Rates, he said, are tending to standard, which are from $3 to $8 a month fixed charge, with current costs ranging from 6 cents to 3 cents a kilowatt hour dependent upon amount used.

It was agreed that before the farmer can get the city rate he must use a larger amount of current, and it was suggested by several that the use of labor-saving devices in the home will free the farm wife so that she can raise more poultry and in that way pay the electrification cost. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Brackett urged that the companies get away from the practice of making the farmer pay any part of the installation cost, suggesting it would be better to secure the use of more devices as to make the revenue take care of interest and maintenance on extension lines. The presence of tenants on 48 per cent of farms complicates the problem of securing the adoption of electrification. Dean Furgason said that just now rural electrification is a subject to be observed and studies so as to ascertain what new processes are necessary, which always precedes the inventive period, when the problem is conquered.
