A successful son makes every day "Mother's Day" for mother!

Every Day is Mother's Day—Especially this Day!

On the lips and in the hearts of little children the names "Mother" and "God" are often confused with each other as meaning much the same.

We older ones know their childish impressions are not without reason and their analysis of character not so far wrong.

To all Mothers—everywhere—we uncover our heads.

Death of Henry C. Long Occurs at Murray, Neb.

Old and Well Known Citizen Dropped Dead at His Home at Murray Yesterday Afternoon.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The death of Henry C. Long, old and highly respected resident of Murray, occurred yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock and came very suddenly as Mr. Long was engaged in working around the yard at his home.

While Mr. Long has not been in the most robust health for several months his condition was no thought dangerous and he has been able to be around and looking after his activities as usual and the death came as a very great shock to the members of the family circle and the host of friends over this section of Cass county.

Mr. Long was born in Wisconsin on May 14, 1850 and was a son of John and Elizabeth Long who had been early residents of the state of Wisconsin. He came to Cass county a long period of years ago and has been numbered among the leading and active farmers of his locality up until the last few years when he has enjoyed the rest that he so well deserved at the home in Murray.

He is survived by the wife and two daughters, Mrs. George Nickles of Murray and Mrs. Robert Shrader, Jr., of Omaha.

HENRY C. LONG

Henry C. Long, the next to the youngest child in a family of eleven children was born May 14th, 1859 at Allens Grove, Wisconsin. When nine years of age he moved with his parents to Fremont county, Iowa, where he spent his boyhood and young manhood day on his father's farm. He went to California when about 25 years of age and spent about two years there, engaging in such occupations as offered opportunities to young men at that time.

In 1877 he was married at Farrington, Iowa to Miss Elsie Torrent who survives him after a companionship of 48 years. Mr. and Mrs. Long began married life near Shamondah and afterward moved into Iowa, where Mr. Long was engaged in the livery business for several years. They moved to a farm west of Murray in 1882, where two daughters were born to them. Soon after moving to Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. Long became members of the Otterbein United Brethren church where his membership continued until his death.

On May 3rd Mr. Long passed away after a long period of declining health. His wife, his two daughters, Mrs. R. M. Shrader of Omaha, and Mrs. G. E. Nickles of Murray, a granddaughter, Mrs. Joe White of Kansas City, Mo., a sister, Mrs. Julia Adams, of Traer, Kansas, a brother, Jacob J. Long of Blair, Nebraska, several nephews and nieces and many friends mourn his loss. Mr. Long's youngest sister preceded him in death on the 13th of March, 1926.

Mother's Day will soon be here, and you should remember her with a beautiful motto or greeting card. You will find a large line of both at the Bates Book and Stationery Store.

Henry F. Geos was a visitor in Omaha today, going to that city on the early morning Burlington train and where he was called on some matters of business.

Elam was a province towards the high plains of Abraham and was ruled over by a king, known as Chedorlaomer, who with a number of other kings came to the country where Lot had chosen and fought against the Sodomites, and put them under tribute. This condition lasted for twelve years when the Sodomites and the other provinces there rebelled and a very serious war was had, in which the Sodomites and their allies which defected and many carried away as prisoners, especially their wives and their goods. One escaped, who ran and told Abraham, who immediately gathered his fighting men together numbering three hundred well trained warriors and with these he pursued Chedorlaomer, and overtook them near Damascus, where they surprised and routed them, recovering all that had been carried off, as well as taking a large amount of spoil. There were two brothers of Abraham and his nephew Lot and all that they possessed.

On the return of the army, the kings of the country near the home of Abraham came out to meet him, and among them was Melchizedek, the king of Salem, who afterwards became Jerusalem, who was a priest of the most high God, and he also blessed Abraham. Then said the ruler of the province of Sodom to Abraham, "Give me the persons (that is the kings) who have been taken prisoner, and keep the goods to thyself."

This Abraham refused to do, for said he, "If I keep anything, it might be said you have made Abraham rich," and he would not take anything, but said that those who went with him, the young man, he said, let them have what they have eaten, and you may give unto Mamre, Eschol and Aner, you may let them take their portions, but as for me, I will not take as much even as which as a thread of a shoe string, which

Abraham and the Kings

Abraham, the great, who became Father of Nations, and who is counted as one of the greatest of Biblical characters, and who had one of the most varied experiences, but was always true to the God whom he worshipped and who he trusted. Abraham was his first name, and under which he lived for many years, being born in Ur, which is near the mouth of the Euphrates, and where he lived for 75 years and was married to his sister, who spelled her name Sarai for a number of years and was later spelled Sarah. With his father, Terah and mother, they journeyed from Chaldee to Canaan, at the command of God and under the promise that he would make him the head of a great nation and that his descendants would be as many as the sands by the sea shore. Abraham was a man well to do and with the blessings which the Great Jehovah showered upon him he continually because of his faith and adherence to the things which God commanded him.

Abraham and his wife went via Damascus, where he stopped for some time and there picked his way, for he must needs travel slowly, as he had with him his wife and nephew Lot and all that they had, which consisted of many herds and flocks, and the servants and slaves which he possessed, numbered as many as a thousand people. After a stay at Damascus for some time he continued on southward and finally halted at Shechem, where at the foot of Mt. Gerezim, in a valley between this mountain and Ebal they stopped for a time. As the country was suffering from a drought, they could not find pasture for their herds, and all went to Bethel, which is slightly east. Here Abraham builded an altar at which place he worshiped God and here again the Lord promised that he would make his seed as the sands of the sea. The pasturage being short, he with all his herds and all that he had moved on into Egypt, where he remained for a short time. When Abraham was married, he married his own sister, and withal, she was a most beautiful woman, and he instructed her to say that she was his sister, when any one should ask her.

Abraham was afraid that if the Egyptians should know that she was his wife that they would kill him for her and thought also that if they knew she was his sister, they would be friendly to him on that account. This came nearly being his undoing, and as the house of Pharaoh took her into the king's palace, they were given with presents, and when the king knew it he sent her out of the house and with Abraham out of the country. While Abraham was in Egypt, he was growing richer all the time and came out of that country much more wealthy than he had entered for he had camels, cattle, sheep, silver, gold, servants, and much more gold and silver. Lot his nephew also had much property, and when they returned to Canaan they found the drought broken and much water and pasture, but they had grown so great that the herdsmen of the two chief towns quarreled over the ground and the watering places.

The situation became so tense that Abraham said to Lot, "Choose where you want to go and I will go somewhere else." Lot looked on the valley of Jordan, well watered, and said he would take that and pitched his tents toward Sodom, which was a wicked city. Abraham then took the hill country and moved his headquarters to near Hebron, and made his home at Mamre. Here he prospered and it was said of him that he had flocks and herds on a thousand hills.

The audience was treated to the first opportunity of hearing one of the talented young musicians of the city and one who has a promise of a very bright future in his musical work. Charles Newasek, his piano number being played in a brilliant and finished manner.

Mrs. Ed Roman and Mrs. Harry Leosis were heard in a vocal duet that gave a real opportunity to enjoy the fine voices of these two ladies in their offering.

Mrs. J. A. Capwell, graduate of the University School of Music and for some years a well known artist of Lincoln was heard in a very attractive piano selection, the March and 60c at all drug stores.

was called a shoe latchet. This was most generous of Abraham.

Abraham cast his all on God and trusted and served him and was blessed full measure, heaped up, pressed together and running over. For the generosity of this great patriarch was blessed a thousand fold. And in the spiritual sense he being blessed by countless followers, for all Christians are his descendants spiritually. God said to Abraham, those whom you shall bless, I will bless and those whom you shall curse, those will I curse, and it was even so.

Abraham was a tither and gave one-tenth of all he had for the cause of the Lord, but it came back to him a thousand fold. This matter of giving a tenth of one's possession to the cause of Christianity is a very fine thing, just the same as giving one-seventh of one's time to the service of the Great Jehovah, when we keep the Sabbath day. One-tenth of all our possessions and one-seventh of our time would work a wonderful revolution in the world, and make it well worth the living in it.

As we are partners of the Lord in the making of a living and making a financial success in life, why should we not settle up square in all things. We would look on any one who did not do so with his fellow man as a moocher and taboo him from honest society. Why not the same with our relations with the Father?

Music Week Feature Pleases Large Audience

First Methodist Church Is Filled to Capacity by Well Pleased Audience of Music Lovers.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Last evening the second feature of the Music Week observance was held in the city in the form of the musical held at the First Methodist church and before an audience that filled the church to its utmost capacity and left not an empty seat.

The program was in charge of Mrs. John F. Gorder, local chairman of the Music Week program and her splendid efforts in getting the really wonderful array of talent together for the event is to be commended.

Mrs. Gorder presided at the musical and announced the various offerings of the musical talent of the city on the program and for an hour and a half the audience was most pleasingly entertained by the artists on the program.

The evening of music was fittingly opened by the organ prelude by E. H. Wescott, organist at the First Methodist church and his number was artistically given and enjoyed to the utmost by all of the audience.

The program was varied in instrumental and vocal numbers and among the instrumental selections the trumpet solo of Mr. B. E. Woodward, was a real feature of the evening.

Raymond C. Cook, well known tenor of the Masonic quartet was heard in a very pleasing vocal number, the accompaniment being played by Mrs. Roy O. Cole in the usual pleasing manner of these two artists.

The audience was treated to the first opportunity of hearing one of the talented young musicians of the city and one who has a promise of a very bright future in his musical work. Charles Newasek, his piano number being played in a brilliant and finished manner.

Mrs. Ed Roman and Mrs. Harry Leosis were heard in a vocal duet that gave a real opportunity to enjoy the fine voices of these two ladies in their offering.

Mrs. J. A. Capwell, graduate of the University School of Music and for some years a well known artist of Lincoln was heard in a very attractive piano selection, the March and 60c at all drug stores.

Muskego, Okla., May 1.—Shade E. Wellen, superintendent of the five civilized tribes, and nine other persons were indicted Friday by a federal grand jury investigating administration of the Indians' affairs.

The nature of the charges will not be revealed until the remainder of the defendants are under arrest, officials said. The names of the others were not made public.
