New Entry in the Republican Race for Sheriff

Bert Reed of Weeping Water Gets Into the Race for Republican Nomination for Sheriff.

The race for the republican nomination for sheriff which has been a twosome so far between Sheriff E. P. Stewart and former chief of police Henriksen, was stretched into a triangle today with the entry of Bert Reed, well known Weeping Water auto dealer as the third candidate for the republican nomination.

Mr. Reed is well known in this county where he has resided for a great many years in and near Weeping Water and has for some years been engaged in the conduct of the automobile business at Weeping Water. Mr. Reed has a large acquaintance in the localities where he has made his home and is very highly esteemed by those who have the pleasure of knowing him.

This is not the first venture of Mr. Reed into the political game however, as he was a candidate for the nomination of sheriff several years ago against Carrol D. Quinton, who was then at the height of his power as one of the political leaders of the county, and while defeated Mr. Reed made a very favorable showing and made the acquaintance of a large number over all sections of Cass county.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Nebraska 10 Acre Contest

Cass county farmers should win this $2,500 prize in each region. We are in the first region. I wish to enter fields which have been in sweet clover, for the spring and fall plowed red clover field just being broken up, and alfalfa fields for the first and second year crops. If you have a field of 10 acres or more, let me know.

Control for Grape Flea Beetle

The grape flea beetle has caused considerable damage in Nebraska vineyards during recent years by destroying the swelling or newly opened buds. It is a small, shiny, bluish-green beetle which usually drops to the ground if the plant on which it is feeding is disturbed. A spray of two pounds of lead arsenate to fifty gallons of water, or two tablespoons per gallon will control these beetles if it is applied when the buds are beginning to swell and then again about ten days later.

Rate of Planting for Corn

When planting seed corn which has a germination of less than 85% allowance for this should be made by planting somewhat thicker than usual. Tests conducted at the Nebraska Experiment station indicate that practically as good yields are obtained from uniform stands as from uniform ones, providing there are no large gaps, and that the same number of stalks are produced per acre in either case. At the Lincoln station 10,668 plants per acre, or three plants per hill have given the highest yield as an average for a number of years. Westward from Lincoln, progressively lower rates give better results. At the North Platte station, 6,600 plants per acre, or a stalk every two feet, in rows 3 1/2 feet apart have given the highest yield on the average.

Owing to the fact that much of the seed corn is planted in the spring, it is important to know what the germination is, so that the planting rate may be adjusted accordingly.

Give Chicks Direct Sunshine

Little chickens need the direct rays of sunshine instead of those that come through window glass. The direct rays help them assimilate calcium and phosphorus which build strong bones. Chicks that get sunlight only thru window glass will suffer from leg weakness or rickets. They should be gotten out into the open and on the ground as soon as they are hatched as the weather will permit. During long periods of cloudy weather, three per cent of cod liver oil mixed with their mash will prevent leg weakness. Three per cent is about the proportion of a tablespoonful to a pound.

CASE WILL BE TRIED

From Tuesday's Daily—
A hearing was had in the state supreme court at Lincoln yesterday on a motion filed by the defendant in the case of the King of Trails Bridge Co. vs. the Plattsburgh Auto and Wagon Bridge Co., the motion of the defendant being to dismiss the appeal of the plaintiff company. In the motion the defendants contended that the plaintiff company had lowered their rates as well as the defendant company to a figure below that set by the district court and therefore had not grounds on which to seek to have the case reversed as tried in the district court here as they had failed to comply with the rates as set by the court. The motion was overruled and the case set for trial Thursday.

This is the action in which the King of Trails Bridge company sought to have the Plattsburgh Auto and Wagon Bridge Co., restrained from lowering their rates and which was tried here before Judge John B. Raper and who held that the bridge company had the right to lower the rates to a figure below that set by the district court but could not name a higher rate than that fixed by the court. The case is being appealed by the King of Trails Bridge Co., to have the former rates placed in force. Since the appeal was filed the state of Nebraska has paid over the full share of the money to purchase the K. of T. bridge.

Odd Fellows Observe 107th Anniversary

Members of the Order With the Rebekahs Enjoy Fine Time Arranged by Committee.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Last evening Platte Lodge No. 7, I. O. O. F., of this city very fittingly observed the 107th anniversary of the Odd Fellows in the United States and also the 64th anniversary of Platte lodge No. 7. The attendance was large and the keenest interest shown in the splendid program that had been arranged.

The Odd Fellows which is one of the largest fraternities in the world was organized in this country, April 26, 1815 by a few of the fraters from England that had located in Baltimore and who had been drawn together by the fraternal ties and decided that they would establish here an American branch of the order and today this order exists in all parts of the North American continent and carrying out the great principles of the order.

The establishment of Platte lodge in this city was on August 29, 1862, and this was the second fraternal order to spring up in this city, the first being the Masons that had established a lodge here in 1858 and shortly after the Odd Fellows were established here, they joined with the Masons in the erection of the building on lower Main street that is now used by the I. O. O. F., as their meeting place altho the Masons have long since disposed of their building share. The first noble grand of the Odd Fellows here was R. M. Clark, while the first secretary was Burwell Spurlock, who is still living at York, Nebraska.

The meeting last evening was one of the most successful and of the greatest interest to all of the members and many of the old time leaders and times were recalled by the older members of the lodge in their reviews of the past which featured the meeting.

A. R. Johnson, Vice Grand, at the opening of the meeting favored the audience with a few appropriate remarks on the history of the Odd Fellows and particularly that of the local lodge which has for so long existed in this community and played an important part in the history of the city.

Mrs. Millie Bullin favored the large sized audience with several very clever numbers on the piano accordion that was most entertaining and pleasing to all of those who were in attendance.

LOUISVILLE PEOPLE HERE

From Tuesday's Daily—
This morning a delegation of Louisville citizens comprising W. F. Diers, well known merchant, Lee J. Mayfield, editor of the Courier, Fred H. Ossenkop, Frank Nichols, one of the progressive business men of that place, Dr. Worthman, and J. M. Hooper, the veteran assessor of Louisville precinct, were here to interview the board of county commissioners. The Louisville delegation are seeking to have the baseball park and tourist park made a part of the city of Louisville and also were taking up the matter of the taxation of the land owned and used by the stone quarries near the town of Louisville and which they wish to have placed on the same ratio as other taxable property in the precinct.

A Big Drop{?}

Speaking about $20 "Bill," a customer said to us the other day, "how does it come you can sell these clothes so cheap—has there been a big drop in clothing prices?" Here's what we told him, "no there has not been a big drop in clothing prices. Generally speaking clothing is about the same it has been for the past 3 or 4 years. The big drop was in 1920 & 21, when prices tumbled from a war basis of $50 to $75 to the present basis of $25 to $50. But that does not explain $20 "Bill." He is the product of a big national chain store buying organization of which we are a part. Our savings are passed on to you. You can just figure you are saving $5 to $10 over present standard prices with $20 "Bill."

W. C. T. U. MEETING

From Tuesday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon the members of the W. C. T. U. were most delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. J. M. Leyda on west Elm street with a very large number of the ladies in attendance at the session. The meeting was opened with the singing of "America, the eBautiful" and was followed by the devotional session led by Mrs. J. E. Wiles and which fittingly opened the services of the afternoon.

The meeting was in the nature of a Mother's day program and this was carried out in the very delightful program that had been arranged, Mrs. George Goodman giving a reading, "Mother," Mrs. W. E. Rosenkrans giving a reading, "Queer How Mothers Are," Mrs. Robert Troop, two numbers, "Rock Me to Sleep Mother" and one that she gave in response to the entores of the members of the party. Mrs. Jessie Hall gave a reading, "None Like Mother." In the musical portion of the program Mrs. Ed Roman sang sweetly, "Mother of Mine," the accompaniment being by Mrs. John F. Gorder while all of the members of the party joined in singing "The Trumpet Call." Mrs. Ed Roman closed the meeting with a short discussion of the light wine and beer agitation that has been made over the nation in the past few months.

There are a large number of the local W. C. T. U. ladies planning to attend the county institute at Weeping Water on Friday, May 7th and which will be featured by the presence of the state president, Mrs. Clayton of Lincoln.
