Mothers and Daughters Meet at Fine Feast

Catholic Daughters of America Enjoy Very Fine Social Gathering Last Evening.

From Thursday's Daily—
The spirit of Mother and Daughter week found a very pleasing expression last evening when the members of the local court of the Catholic Daughters of America met in their annual Mother and Daughter banquet, the event being staged at the Lewis cafe and which had been most fittingly arranged for the event.

Throughout the dining room of the restaurant the colors of the order, purple and gold, were in evidence, this being borne out in the table decorations as well as the decorations of the room itself. On the walls was the large banner in the C. D. of A. colors, "Mother and Daughters," streamers of purple and gold being used in profusion in the decorations of the room. The long table was a scene of beauty with the purple and gold, the yellow candles adding their touch to the scene while snowballs and bridal wreath were also used in the decorations of the tables and the room.

The cuisine of the banquet was all that could be desired and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis and their assistants provided a real feast for the ladies that they will long very pleasantly remember and which was one that would tempt the most jaded appetite with its deliciousness and was served most admirably.

The menu was as follows:
Fruit Cocktail
Vegetable Soup
T-Bone Steak Relish
Mashed Potatoes Brown Gravy
Asparagus a la Anglaise
Lettuce Salad
Frozen Sweets
Coffee
Wafers

As the feast was disposed of by the members of the banquet party the evening program was turned over to Miss May Murphy, regent of the local court of the Catholic Daughters of America, who presided very cleverly over the feast and her introductions of the various speakers and their toasts was most most cleverly handled.

The ladies all joined in singing "There's a Long, Long Trail," this song being dedicated to the mothers of the party and was very finely given by the members of the party.

The first toast was that of Mrs. Frank M. Bestor, "Your Mother and Mine" and very finely given by the speaker.

Mrs. P. J. Flynn, for the mothers present, responded to the toast "I Enjoy Being a Mother," which was presented in the usual ably manner of this eloquent and able speaker.

The ladies then joined in singing "Smile a While," this song being dedicated by the mothers to the daughters.

Mrs. W. A. Swatek gave her toast, "To Our Daughters" and in which she expressed the sentiments of the mothers toward their dear ones.

One of the most enjoyed numbers on the toast list was that of Miss Nellie Mullen who gave "The Tie That Binds," a short address filled with sentiment and beauty that everyone fully appreciated.

The main address of the evening was by the Hon. George F. North of Omaha, democratic candidate for congress in the second district, who for a few moments talked very earnestly on the subject of "The Catholic Mother." The address of Mr. North was on the responsibilities of the mother of Catholic faith, her advantages and the responsibilities that came in the proper rearing of the children to be fitting representatives of the nation, the church and the home.

The banquet was closed with the singing of "America" by the members of the party and which was a fitting climax to the very pleasant evening.

Following the banquet the members of the party adjourned to the Knights of Columbus hall where a very pleasant evening of sociability was spent by the ladies. The latter part of the evening was devoted to a musical program of the greatest interest.

Piano numbers were given by Miss Irma Pittman, who favored the members with a delightful solo, while a piano duet by Misses Aurelia and Edward Reichstadt and another equally pleasing duet by Misses Emily Lorenz and Nadine Cloldt all of which reflected the greatest of credit upon the young ladies.

Mrs. P. J. Flynn gave a very charming number, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," in response to the encore Misses Catharine and Patricia Flynn responded with "Behind the Clouds," both numbers being very pleasant and artistically given.

Mrs. William Woolcott gave a very pleasing address on a subject that was filled with the greatest of interest to all of the members of the party and this was on the matter of the organization of a Junior C. D. of A. in this city and the remarks of the speaker were followed with the closest attention by all of the members of the party.

The C. D. of A. quartet made its initial appearance and gave two numbers, "Ave Marie," and "Whispering Hope" and to the enthusiastic encore they responded with a very original and clever little number that was very much enjoyed by all of the members of the party.

After the close of the program the remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing that added very much to the pleasantness of the occasion and which lasted until a late hour.

The members of the order are very appreciative of the splendid efforts of the committee composed of Mrs. William Woolcott, Mrs. Frank Muller, Mrs. F. L. Rea and Mrs. Charles Peterson in making the banquet and the social evening a real success in every way.

Among the out of town guests here were the following: Mr. and Mrs. George P. North, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Murphy, Mrs. Theresa Connors, Mrs. James H. Carter, Miss Jeanette Weber, Omaha; Mrs. G. I. Taylor and Mrs. Ludwig Halas, Murray; Mrs. Ann Heafey and daughter, Miss Esther Ann of Nebraska City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sattler Married Forty Years Ago

Relatives Join in Very Pleasant Reminder of the Happy Event at Their Home.

From Thursday's Daily—
The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sattler was very pleasantly observed at their home on North 11th street Tuesday evening when a party of the relatives and very close friends gathered to assist them in seeing that the occasion was most fittingly marked and which will remain with each of the members of the party as a delightful memory in the years that are to come.

The wedding life of Mr. and Mrs. Sattler has been passed in this city and here they have enjoyed life to the utmost and reared their large and estimable family of children to be young men and women and contributed to the fullest to the advancement of the community in which they had made their home. That they have enjoyed the opportunity of celebrating their 40th anniversary is the subject of congratulations from the host of friends in this community.

The anniversary observance was planned very carefully by the relatives and came as a surprise and a very pleasant one to the guests of honor of the event. The evening was spent in card games and other entertaining features that served to pass the time most delightfully and with the gracious presence of the bride and groom of forty years ago made the event one of the rarest pleasure to all of the party.

At a suitable hour in the evening a dainty luncheon was served by the Misses Elizabeth Sitzmann and Dorothy Sattler that added to the enjoyment of the members of the party.

The members of the party that enjoyed the event were: Messers and Mesdames John Meisinger, John Kopp, Joseph Warka, Sr., H. E. Becker, Arthur Hartley of Omaha, W. H. Mason, Lawrence Sprecher, William Kroskiow, H. E. Burdick, Charles Lohmann of Omaha, Misses Anna Warka, Katie Sattler of Omaha, Gladys Doper of Omaha, Elizabeth Sitzmann, Dorothy Sattler, Messrs Harlow Meyers, Fred Harvester, Albert and John Sattler.

Legion Convention a Notable Event in City

Parade One of Best Ever Seen Here and the Convention Received Warm Words of Praise

From Friday's Daily—
The convention of the First district of the American Legion held in this city Thursday was one of the most successful of any that have been held so far and the colorful gathering of the service men was one that left nothing more to be desired except for the weather man might have been more kindly in the evening, but the downpour of rain failed to check the enthusiasm of the Legionnaires and their friends who gathered at the K. S. hall on west Locust street for the business session and the social features of the evening.

The Shubert delegation was the first to appear on the scene early in the morning and was busy for the remainder of the day in greeting the visiting members of the Legion and boosting their town for the 1927 convention, distributing large numbers of the luscious red apples that have made that portion of the state famous.

The registration booth for the convention was located in the First National bank court and from noon on the committee in charge, under direction of Otto Keck, was kept busy receiving the arriving delegates and providing them with the buttons that were to be their credentials for the day, admitting them to the different entertainment features and courtesies of the afternoon and evening.

Almost 300 out-of-town Legionnaires and some 80 of the members of the local post were registered, and a large number of late arrivals in the evening failed to get their names on the registration list, making a considerably larger number in attendance than the record shows.

All of the local committees were functioning throughout the day and their work was very effective in every way, the chairman of the various groups being on the job constantly and seeing that the visitors were given real Plattsmouth hospitality all during the day and evening.

A goodly number of the distinguished guests arrived by noon and were able to occupy a place at the head of the parade up until the time they entered the reviewing stand at Fifth and Main streets.

Parade a Great Success
The big feature of the afternoon was the parade of the various posts of the First district and the number of floats that were shown was larger than at any previous event ever held here, making a parade nearly half a mile in length and one that would have been a credit to a state gathering of the Legion instead of merely the district convention and impressed the hundreds who lined the streets and the visiting officials of the Legion with the fact that the First district convention is in a class by itself for interest and surprises anything in any other part of the state.

The parade was headed by Captain Harrison L. Gayer, commander of Co. F, 35th Infantry, National Army, whose military bearing and skill in handling the parade made it a great success. Right behind him came the state department colors and color guard composed of members of the Plattsmouth post.

Next in line were two cars bearing distinguished state officers, who entered the reviewing stand to watch the rest of the parade pass in review. The three lady Legionnaires of the district were also in a car behind the department officers.

Then came the crack band of the 17th Infantry, from Fort Crook, that set the marching pace for the posts that followed.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the few survivors of the Civil war, and the Woman's Relief Corps followed the band in cars. Then came the posts and floats.

The floats offered by the local business houses and organizations were very beautiful and unique and all deserve a real word of praise as they proved that the live wire city was on the job to show the visiting Legionnaires that they were up and going.

The M. D. A. of the local Burlington shops had prepared a very elaborate float and the Home Economics and Manual Training departments of the high school also had very attractive floats in the line of march. The others that attracted a great deal of attention included that of the Ruby Trio broadcasting for the H.M.S. Co. stores, the Ofe Oil Co., with its spontaneous well, the Campfire Girls, W. T. Craig, Plattsmouth Motor Co., C. E. Wescott's Sons, Krejci garage, M. D. Brown, John Bauer & Co., Lorenz Bros., Bates Book and Gift Shop, the Missouri River Ferry, August Bach, Maury Drug Co., H. M. Soennichsen, Christ & Ghrst, Fetzer Shoe Co., the Popular Variety Store, Plattsmouth Fire Department and the James Toultry company, of Falls City.

Two visiting posts, Shubert and Syracuse, entered attractive floats in the parade that won them first and second prizes respectively for the most distinctively represented posts at the convention.

Rain Last Night Caused a Lot of Overflow Water

North Sixth Street a Miniature River for Some Time But Sewers Able to Carry Off the Water.

From Friday's Daily—
Following the very intense rainfall last evening between 7 and 8 o'clock the sewer that drains the territory along Washington avenue was overflowed and for a few moments caused the residents of the main business section of the city to anticipate a repetition of the flood conditions that have prevailed at different times in the past but fortunately the high water passed off rapidly without serious damage.

The water from the overflowed sewer swept down Washington avenue and Vine street to North Sixth street where it reached to almost the top of the curbing on the east side of the street and for a short time seemed certain to overflow onto the sidewalks.

The fact that the gratings that had formerly been on the sewer inlets had been removed gave the water a much greater chance at getting into the box sewers and which carried off the greater part of the water as that overflowing into Main street was nothing near the volume that had passed there in the past cases of heavy rains.

The members of the fire department and police were out early when the first reports of the overflowing of the sewers came and were able to keep the sewer inlets open so that practically all of the flood water was taken into the box sewers on Sixth street and without any damage to property.

Several autos that were parked along the street were extricated with more or less difficulty and removed to a place of safety by the owners and the city firemen.

The display of water was a feature of the American Legion convention that was not on the program and was not desired by the community but that it was not more severe than it was in the matter of the greatest congratulations to everyone.

Philathea Class Meets

From Thursday's Daily—

The Philathea class of the Methodist Sunday school held a very pleasant meeting on Wednesday evening at the pleasant home of Mrs. Ray McMaken and with a very large number of the members in attendance and who enjoyed to the utmost the interesting business and social session of the class. Mrs. McMaken was assisted in the serving and entertaining by Mrs. J. T. Marshall.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Helen Heinrich, president of the class and the ladies of the class voted to have the social meetings continued over the summer season.

The members of the class elected Mrs. A. F. Moore as the delegate to the Philathea Baraca convention which is to meet at Cincinnati during the month of June and which will place the local organization in close touch with the national organization.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way with games of various kinds that proved a very pleasing part of the program and was very much enjoyed by all of the party.

At an appropriate hour dainty and delicious refreshments were served that added very much to the enjoyment of all of the members of the party.

Heavy Hail Storm Causes Some Damage

From Friday's Daily—

The farming community northwest of this city and in the vicinity of Cullom is reported to have suffered very much from the effects of the storm that broke here last evening about 7:30 and which left in its wake a great deal of wreckage in the way of shattered trees and crops beaten down by the heavy hail storm.

In a number of cases the hail stripped the trees of their leaves and small limbs were broken off over a wide area of country and the hail also stripped potatoes and other vegetation of their leaves and will make a very heavy loss to the farmers in this line.

The telephone lines were also badly damaged by the storm and service on the farm lines this morning was badly interfered with in this section as the result of poles that were blown down and wires that were ripped off by the force of the wind and hail.

There was also a very heavy rain reported and creeks and watercourses were filled in a few moments by the flood water and which will cause some damage in places where the creeks overflowed.

The heavy rain also washed the farm lands to some extent and which will make a delay in the farm work in this section.

SHUBERT EDITOR HERE

From Friday's Daily—

Among the large and enthusiastic crowd of boosters here from Shubert yesterday was J. F. Peebles, editor and publisher of the "Citizen," one of the five weekly papers of southeastern Nebraska and who was here to boost for the securing of the next district convention of the American Legion and Mr. Peebles, with other boosters returned home last night happy in the knowledge of their success and will start planning for the entertainment of the Legionnaires next year in the Richardson county city.

While in the city Mr. Peebles was a very pleasant caller at the Journal office and enjoyed a short stay here visiting socially with the members of the force.

Cedar Creek Wins Legion Day Game Thursday

By Score of 5 to 3 the Cass County Leaguers Carry Home the Bacon—Home Run by Meisinger.

From Friday's Daily—
The baseball game that was featured as a part of the entertainment of the American Legion convention, staged between Cedar Creek and the local baseball aggregation resulted in a victory for the visitors by the score of 5 to 3 and in a game that was played under rather disagreeable conditions for both teams with a bad wind and dust storm to contend with from the outset of the game.

In the opening inning Rudolph Meisinger, the Cedar Creek hurler and the first man at bat proceeded to take a liking to the slants of "Swanny" and laid it over the left garden wall for a home run and was followed by the second scoring in the same inning on a bobble and two hits.

Cedar Creek scored again in the second frame when with a runner on third Klauschie heaved the ball to third base that was wide and allowed the runner to reach home safely with the third tally of the game.

The remainder of the scores of the visitors was scored in the third frame of the conflict and resulted in their taking a lead that the locals could not overcome.

Plattsmouth scored one in the second frame with bunched hits that resulted in the tally being brought over the bag for their first run of the game. They later secured their two additional runs on bunched hits off the delivery of Rudy.

Burkhart, the hurling ace of the locals was called into the game in the third inning and was effective against the Cedar Creekers and able to hold them down to a few hits but the locals seemed unable to solve effectively the slants of Meisinger and the Cedar Creek team also showed a very effective line of fielding.

For Plattsmouth the fielding of Mason featured the game.

STEALING FLOWERS STARTS

From Thursday's Daily—

It has been reported that vandals have been operating at the Oak Hill cemetery in the last few days and lots there have been despoiled of plants and flowers that have been placed there by the lot owners in memory of their loved ones. This is a condition that merits the severest punishment as there is no place more dear to the residents of the community than the last resting place of their dead and those who have tried to beautify the cemetery with plants and flowers should be assured that their efforts will not be despoiled by the hands of some persons or person stealing the plants and flowers. If the parties are caught they will be given a very severe punishment and the sexton as well as the lot owners are on the watch to see if the thief can be apprehended and given the proper punishment.

DOINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

From Friday's Daily—
In the office of the clerk of the district court an appeal has been filed in the matter of the estate of Andrew Hendrickson, deceased, from the decision of the county court where the probate of the estate was allowed. The case is from the vicinity of Eagle and attracted much attention at the time the trial of the case in the district court. W. A. Robertson and A. L. Tidd are appearing for the contestants.

A suit in quiet title, William Balance vs. John J. Worley, et al., has been filed in the district court by A. L. Tidd representing the plaintiff and seeks to have title settled to certain real estate in this city.

MERRY WORKERS CLUB

From Thursday's Daily—
The Merry Workers club of near Myard, held their style show at Mrs. Joe Martin's home. Two models were selected for the style show at Weeping Water. Mrs. R. G. Kiser and Mrs. Ed Meisinger were the ones chosen. This meeting finished the work from the extension department for this season.

The members decided to hold their meetings thru the summer, however.

The style show at Weeping Water was one of the features of the Achievement Day program. The program was largely attended by the members of this club, and those interested in this work thruout the county.

School supplies at the Bates Book Store.

Plattsmouth Post at Rear

The Plattsmouth post brought up the rear of the marching units, being represented by its Drum and Bugle Corps in white attire wearing American Legion caps. "Doc" Taylor, of Murray, drum major, lead the corps and Charlestung his way down Washington avenue and past the reviewing stand in a manner that won hearty applause. The playing of the local organization was par-excellent and their appearance in the parade received much favorable comment.

Although many of the members of the home post were assigned to detailed duties in connection with the promotion of the convention, a dozen or more found time to get in the line of march behind the Drum and Bugle corps.

A string of non-decorated cars followed the Plattsmouth post and behind them came the Krug park callope, an object of interest to the children and grown-ups as well.

The parade disbanded near the Burlington station just before the Plattsmouth-Cedar Creek ball game, and many of the visiting Legionnaires took advantage of the opportunity to witness the game, while others staged impromptu parades and otherwise entered into the fun of the afternoon.

During the course of the ball game the 17th Infantry band played a most pleasing public concert from the reviewing stand at 5th and Main, and the Physical Training department of the Plattsmouth High school engaged in a number of exhibitions, including their popular ladder pyramid.

Following this came the boxing events, lasting until 6:20, when mess call was sounded and there was a grand rush for the K. S. park where the splendid feed prepared under direction of Henry Soennichsen was served by members of the American Legion Auxiliary. It is conservative-ly estimated that 375 were fed at the park pavilion, as out of 99 pies only about a dozen were left when the last hungry man had partaken.

The post officers' conference that was scheduled for the afternoon at the public library was carried over until the evening session on account of lack of attendance, the post officials preferring to mingle with the crowd and enjoy themselves, rather than listen to the speeches and routine outline of their specific duties.

Evening Business Session

The evening business session of the convention was held at the K. S. hall and was largely attended. "Gloomy Gus," popular radio announcer of KFAB, Lincoln, was present and provided entertainment for the visiting Legionnaires as they were gathering in the hall following the completion of their supper, singing and playing a number of his more popular radio songs, including the Nebraska Legion song, "We're from Neb-brass-kae," a composition of Mr. Grubb himself.

The business meeting was presided over by Harry R. Ball, of Lincoln, senior district Executive Committee-member, who handled this part of the convention in splendid manner.

Department Commander J. R. Kinder was first on the speakers' list and covered a wide field, including membership, Legion policies, etc., in fine shape, without extending his remarks unduly, and held the attention of his hearers throughout the twenty or thirty minutes he spoke. Kinder is a forceful and energetic worker and is completely wrapped up in his work as department commander of keeping the Nebraska Legion at a place near the head of the procession at the national convention in Philadelphia this fall, a position awarded on membership standings as of June 15th.

Following Kinder's address, Department Adjutant C. W. Conkila was heard in a few pointed remarks directed especially to the post officials present at the meeting.

Col. R. G. Douglas next spoke at considerable length on the workings of the State Relief fund, he being

CANDIDATES IN EVIDENCE

From Friday's Daily—
Yesterday was a very active day for the political candidates in this city and the occasion of the American Legion district convention marked the advent of a number of the candidates for state offices who were busy meeting the local people as well as the visiting delegates and impressing on the elusive voter their various claims for the support of the voter. George W. Marsh, state auditor and now candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the first district was among the visitors and interview the voters and getting lined up for the primary battle. Howard E. Crandall, present deputy auditor and who is a candidate to succeed Mr. Marsh in his office was also here to attend the convention as a former service man and incidentally to press his political claims. Col. Phil L. Hall of Greenwood was here to take in the convention and did very little campaigning during the day altho a candidate for the democratic nomination for state treasurer, the mission of the general Greenwood banker being to join his war time associates in a real good time and in which he was successful.

Two Kinds of Trouble

(Copyrighted)

A man was standing beside his auto beside the road. He looked troubled and disgusted. What was the trouble?

He had a sudden call to drive into the country to look after some important business. But his gas tank was nearly empty—ran out of gas before he could accomplish his purpose.

Another man came to the bank. He was troubled too. He had an important business deal on hand but his checking account was too low to handle the deal.

He had a habit of keeping a very small sum on deposit so he was like the man with the auto—stuck just when opportunity was waiting for him.

A good bank account—and plenty of gas—give you ability to do things.
