Try Damage Suits in County Court Today

Action of Fred Rutherford vs. C. L. Stull Yesterday and John Elliott vs. Stull Today.

From Friday's Daily—
The time of the county court has for the past two days been occupied in trying damage cases arising from the alleged damage that was inflicted on the growing crops of a number of farmers living on and near the Platte bottom road north of this city, by cattle belonging to C. Lawrence Stull, the well known farmer and stock feeder.

The first case brought to trial was yesterday when the action of Frank E. Vallery and Fred Rutherford vs. C. L. Stull was called for trial. In the action Mr. Vallery filed his withdrawal as he had made a settlement of the case and was not a party thereto. Mr. Rutherford was the plaintiff in the case and the allegations of the plaintiff was that the growing crops of the plaintiff had been damaged and destroyed by some 150 head of cattle belonging to the defendant. The damages asked were in the neighborhood of $206. After hearing the evidence in the case Judge Duxbury found for the plaintiff and assessed the amount of damages at $117.81. There was a very large number of witnesses and the trial of the case consumed the entire day.

This morning the case of John Elliott vs. C. L. Stull was called and covered practically the same issues as the case of Thursday. There was much evidence offered both for the plaintiff and the defendant.

HENPECKED HUSBAND IS AFRAD EVEN TO SUE

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 2.—George J. Freisinger believes he is the most "henpecked" husband in the world, and he cites a few of his reasons for thinking so, in an injunction suit filed in district court Thursday. Freisinger says his wife is so jealous of him that she won't let him leave the house without her, except to go to work and that she scolds and abuses him because she thinks he keeps company with other women.

He says he wants a divorce but fears to file suit, believing it would cause her to visit his place of employment and nag him, thereby causing him to lose his job.

He wants to get his clothing from the house, but she won't let him have it, so he asks for an injunction to prevent her from molesting him and to force her to give up his clothes. The couple were married at Rock Island two months ago.

VAN SWERGENS PLAN NEW MERGER PROPOSAL

New York, June 30.—After working for several months on a revision of the Nickel plate merger plan, rejected last spring by the interstate commerce commission, the Van Swergens interests are preparing to ask a rehearing on the proposal, modified to give better terms to the Chesapeake & Ohio, Hocking Valley, Erie and Pere Marquette stockholders.

An attempt will be made to place the application before the commission prior to its summer recess, beginning in August.

Drys Spent in Excess of Seven Million Dollars

Washington, July 3.—"Absolute" false and probably a deliberate misstatement," was the way Representative John Philip Hill, republican, Maryland, Friday branded in the house a statement by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, that Hill had received fees for making speeches against prohibition.

Hill said he wrote a letter to Senator James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, chairman of the senate "slush" committee, asking an opportunity to refute the falsehood issued by Wheeler before the committee Friday morning.

Admission was made by Hill that railroad expenses had been paid to speak before meetings on prohibition, but never had he received "honorariums" such as those paid to dry members of congress, he said.

Representative Edgar Howard, of Nebraska (democrat) said that he offered Hill a fee for his speech before the Midwest Nebraska exposition at Columbus, Neb., last October, on behalf of the exposition, but that Hill had refused to accept the money.

On two occasions when Hill debated the prohibition situation with Wheeler, he was offered money, but refused it, the Marylander told the house.

He is chairman of the unofficial committee on modification of the Volstead act in congress. This group numbers 60 members pledged to work for modification of the Volstead law.

Total of $7,000,000
Washington, July 3.—Expenditures of more than $7,000,000 by the Anti-Saloon league in 20 states during the past six years were disclosed by departmental reports filed Friday with the senate campaign funds committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the national dry organization.

The 22 states include New York, Maryland and Rhode Island which alone have no local dry enforcement statutes, as well as Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Kentucky.

While the state organizations contribute a certain part of their income to the national Anti-Saloon league, it was learned from Mr. Wheeler, who occupied the stand for nearly five hours, that both the national and state organizations do their own collecting independent of each other.

Wheeler Protects Donors
Accountants who audited the books of the national association at Westerville, Ohio, and Rhode Island which alone have no local dry enforcement statutes, as well as Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Kentucky.

While the state organizations contribute a certain part of their income to the national Anti-Saloon league, it was learned from Mr. Wheeler, who occupied the stand for nearly five hours, that both the national and state organizations do their own collecting independent of each other.

Wheeler presented a number of other reports, including one from Andrew Wilson, treasurer of the league's campaign committee, showing expenditures of $8,678 in general elections since October 8, 1925. This did not include expenditures in primaries, the report stating that these "are not required to be reported under the old federal corrupt practices act or the new act passed last year."

After concluding his examination of Wheeler, Senator Reed announced that the committee would seek further light on the activities of the dry organization Saturday from Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, its general secretary, and meantime would inquire Friday night into the "campaign chests" raised by the republican and democratic national committees for the senatorial and congressional fights this year.

Wheeler, Reed Show Anger
Armed with reports brought back by the committee agents sent to Westerville, Senator Reed subjected Mr. Wheeler to a long and rigid examination. Both made a display of temper at times, and the crowd that jammed the committee room frequently broke into laughter at the exchanges.

The chairman several times lost patience at the length of the replies and finally exclaimed: "Now listen, here, doctor, when a man puts a flat statement in front of your nose and you quibble about it, it's time for even as patient a man as I had had patience. You are going to answer questions and answer them without making speeches if we have to stay here, until the snow flies."

Picnic season is here. Bates Book and Gift Shop has complete line of Dennison's picnic goods, including napkins, paper plates (all sizes) and knife, fork and spoon sets.

"GLAD HAND" OFFERED PRINCE

Billings, Mont., July 2.—A typical western welcome punctuated with shouts of "powder river," was accorded Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, on their arrival here Thursday. A "ten gallon" hat was presented to the prince, who donned it with a smile amid the cheers of the crowds which jammed the city and caused the prince's train to be delayed more than half an hour.

Among the gifts showered upon the royal couple were a war club and a colored picture of himself, presented by Chief Plenty Coos of the Crow tribe; a creel of Montana trout and a huge basket of flowers.

In response to the welcome, the prince expressed pleasure over the number of people of Swedish descent in this section and also over the fact that they have become "good American citizens."

Hog Prices to Remain Strong, Report States

Government Indicates Pig Survey Shows Fewer Animals in the Corn Belt.

Washington.—"This year may well prove to be another season of improvement in agricultural conditions," the department of agriculture announced today in its July report on the farm situation.

"The stage is set for strong hog prices well into next year, prospects for wheat growers are moderately good, cattle are coming back in the west, and the dairy industry is picking up in the east."

Cotton, corn, potatoes, and even wheat, are largely a speculation at this date, the department said, because of backward weather. Abundant fruit crops were declared in prospect, with hay apparently a short crop, except in the far west, and low stocks of old hay.

The wheat harvest, now in full swing, was described as having turned out unexpectedly heavy yields over parts of the southwest, though hurt by dry weather in sections from Kansas northward.

Spring wheat, after a very poor start, was said to have benefited from recent rains throughout the northern belt, while general indications suggested less spring wheat than last year, but a substantially larger total wheat crop.

World stock of wheat, however, were estimated on June 1 as about 30 million bushels below wheat last year, with stocks in this country unusually low.

The pig survey, showing one-half per cent fewer pigs in the corn belt this spring than last, the department commented, means no increase in the supply of hogs for slaughter before next spring, and presumably well-sustained prices for a year yet to come.

Concerning agriculture prices, the report declared the crop season is along now where production reports will have a greater influence on prices, with cotton, wheat and potatoes showing a tendency to lose a few points in unit exchange value while corn and hay have gained a point or two.
