McMullen Nomination Proves a Big Landslide

Marsh, McLaughlin, Shallenberger, Nesbit, Andrews, Osborne Lead in Congressional Race.

Governor Adam McMullen easily won the republican nomination for governor in yesterday's statewide primary, incomplete, unofficial returns from all but 20 of the state's 93 counties indicated tonight.

Only one county, Adams, gave the governor second place, but it is the home of his nearest rival, Fred G. Johnson, Hastings attorney. Returns from 790 precincts out of 1,968 gave: McMullen, 26,335; Johnson, 16,339; Robert Ross, Lexington farmer, 5,147.

Incomplete returns showed these men ahead for the various congressional nominations:

Congressional Leaders.

First district, republican, Geo. W. Marsh, Lincoln.

Second district, republican, Congressman Willis G. Sears, Omaha.

Third district, republican, John F. Nesbit, Tehamah.

Fourth district, republican, Congressman M. O. McLaughlin, York.

Fifth district, democratic: Congressman A. C. Shallenberger.

Sixth district, democratic: Thomas C. Osborne, Bayard.

Democratic Leaders

Lieutenant governor, Frank A. Dutton, Beatrice.

State auditor, William H. Smith, Seward.

State treasurer, Philip L. Hall, Greenwood.

Attorney general, Andy Olson, Wisner.

Nonpartisan Leaders.

Chief justice supreme court, two leaders, Judge Charles A. Goss, Omaha, high; second, Andrew Morrissey, Lincoln, incumbent.

Superintendent of public instruction, John A. Matzen, Fremont, incumbent, first; Charles W. Taylor, Lincoln, second.

Regent state university, Fifth district, John P. Cordell, McCook, first; Stanley Long, Cowles, second.

Regent state university, Sixth district, Frank J. Taylor, St. Paul, first; G. F. Davison, Stapleton, second.

Governor Confident.

Apprised of his margin, Governor McMullen said the vote "bore out his opinion that the people wanted a business administration conducted along sound economic lines."

He said he was confident of re-nomination, and that, "I am confident they (the voters) will endorse the conservative work of our administration at the general election next fall."

Fred Johnson, at his home at Hastings, told The Associated Press: "While I do not yet concede the nomination to the governor in the absence of more complete returns, I wish to say, that no matter whether successful or not, I appreciate very much the support given by my friends during the campaign."

Rain Over the State

Lightning and heavy wind storms over scattered portions of Nebraska impeded election returns. Several counties in southeastern Nebraska were without wire service, while in northeastern Nebraska many wires were reported down.

Florence Allen Lagging Badly in Senate Race

Willis Ahead in Ohio G. O. P. Contest; John Martinson Leads for Governor of Arkansas.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—On the basis of returns from 734 precincts out of 8,534 for the democratic nomination for United States senator at Tuesday's primary, Allice Pomerene, former United States senator, had a lead of 2,212 over Florence E. Allen, supreme court justice.

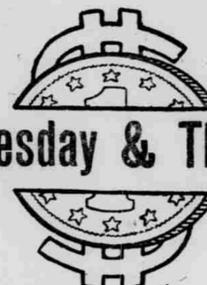

The totals were: Pomerene 6,568; Allen, 4,356.

Senator Frank B. Willis, with a total of 9,876, in 597 precincts, had a big lead over his nearest opponent, C. O. Hebebrandt, who had a total of 3,047 in the race for the republican senatorial nomination. Former United States Senator Charles Dick, Arkon, was third, with 2,380.

Returns from 1,112 precincts for the republican nomination for governor gave Thad Brown, secretary of state, 14,382, with Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, running second, with 10,681.

Governor Vic A. Donahey, on the basis of returns from 867 precincts, was believed to be a sure winner of the democratic gubernatorial nomination with a total of 11,923, more than 10,000 votes ahead of his nearest opponent.

Flyers to Scan Great Antarctic Plateau at Pole

Land at "Bottom of Earth" Is Believed to Be 10,000 Feet Above Sea.

Buenos Aires—Organization of a new South Pole air expedition to be initiated next October, has been announced here by Anton Pauly, Austrian engineer and explorer, whose intention is to conduct the first airplane trip to the bottom of the earth.

Pauly plans to start from Buenos Aires in a sailing ship near the end of October in order to make the coast of Graham land about the middle of November. According to plan, the ship will land the expedition on Wandel island at 65 degrees south latitude, where the primary base of operations will be established.

The next step will be the establishment of another base 10 degrees farther south. Eight trips by airplane are calculated to be sufficient to transfer food and fuel supplies to this point, which will be 300 miles nearer the pole.

To Seek Scott's Message.

Following establishment of this last base the party will digress temporarily from its prime goal to make explorations in the Weddell sea and to Charcot land.

Following these explorations a final preparatory move will be made to a point at 80 degrees south latitude, 600 miles nearer the pole than the previous base. This point is calculated to have an altitude of 6,000 feet above sea level, and from here the flyers will make their dash to the South pole, a flight of 600 miles.

According to Pauly's statement the pole is a plateau 10,000 feet high. He states:

"We will sitop at the pole long enough to make necessary observations and to try to find messages left there by Captain Scott in 1922. We shall then continue the flight to Wales bay, where he hopes to find the deposit left by Amundsen. This distance is about 650 miles, making the whole flight from our 80 degree base nearly 1,300 miles."

Two-Month Food Supply.

In the actual flight across the polar region Pauly plans to carry two passengers besides himself, a pilot, observer and mechanic. Two months' food supplies and equipment for a sledge expedition, to be used in case of accident to the plane, will complete the cargo carried on the flight.

No time limit has been set for the expedition which is expected to end at Melbourne, Australia. Pauly is confident of his success and is laying careful plans to insure against mistakes in preparation. He has

Nothing Very Bad in the Weather

Scientists at Washington Office Say It Is Always Doing Unusual if Not Remarkable Things.

Washington—Those who have been asking what's wrong with the weather this year are not likely to have their curiosity satisfied by the weather bureau.

In the first place, the scientists there say there is scarcely a more abused expression in the language than the term "unusual weather." Weather always is doing unusual things, they say, and if it were not, it wouldn't be usual.

Pressed further, they concede that the spring and early summer of 1926 may have been a bit freakish, but they refuse to admit that, taken as a whole the country over, the first half of the year could really be called very remarkable.

The observers summed up the situation in about this way:

Spring was retarded in the northeast. Cool temperatures prevailed with few exceptions, until July, when normal heat set in. Moisture was deficient. Conditions improved, however, early in the summer.

The Pacific northwest, in June and early July, suffered one of the most torrid spells in its history. This region, usually temperate throughout the summer, sweltered under a low-pressure area. All records were broken at Portland Ore., with a temperature of 104.

Parts of North Carolina and Georgia were held in the grip of an almost unprecedented drought until the middle of June. Otherwise, the south had seasonal weather. Conditions also were approximately normal in the huge area between the Mississippi and Rocky mountains.

While the South Atlantic seaboard and central west lacked sufficient rain during the spring, it came in un-worried torrents in southern California.

The weather bureau officials are reluctant to generalize, but one condition they have noted so often that it has come to be axiomatic. When extreme heat prevails in the western half of the country, the eastern half is cooler, and vice versa. The same divergence applies to cold.

There is no slack business period for the merchant who advertises his goods the year 'round.
