The secret of popularity is always to remember what to forget.

It keeps a lot of people moving to get enough money to pay rent.

A man isn't really old until his mother stops worrying about him.

A woman always has a tender feeling for a man who pays her a compliment.

There is no "idle rich." All are kept busy dodging people who want some of it.

These days it is a wise father who can tell which is his son and which is his daughter.

The average man's life is devoted to making three things—love, money, and a fool of himself.

Evidently Kansas City will have enough to do this week, with Queen Marie and Coolidge both there.

Vice President Dawes won't have much time for fiddling when he gets that unruly senate on his hands.

A close friend is all right—until he declines to lend you money.

Many a woman's idea of being neighborly is to borrow an ounce of butter and pay it back with a pound of gossip.

Thirteen children perished when a twister struck a school house with fifty children occupants. This was in Maryland.

A scientist told the American Academy of Surgeons at Montreal that the value of chemicals constituting the human body was 98 cents. The value of the average brain however, would bring it up to a dollar.

Now for him and our own firesides.

A splendid picture at the Parmele tonight.

Bryan was defeated and then coal went up $2 on the ton.

When coal goes up it seems that everything else goes with it.

The poor man is the one that suffers most when coal goes up.

It is a bet that Smith and Vore will be kicked out of the senate.

A hard winter is predicted. But that is nothing. They are all hard enough.

One important item in being famous is to sign your name so no one can read it.

Climb a little higher than the crowd and you will be a target for the knockers.

Consider China. They're having a war there and no bootlegging problem, either.

Gloria Swanson's husband is seeking a job—not in his wife's company. Now, what's the matter?

The brain of an elephant is larger than that of a man, but his trunk is smaller than that of a woman.

Queen Marie just as well bundle up and go home, any time now. She has seen America, and should be satisfied.

A British auctioneer says Americans are the best customers for old suits of armor. Quite a few Americans own no cars.

One of the quaint customs of ancient weddings was for the bridegroom to strike the bride with a shoe. His last chance?

Will Maupin get put off of Queen Marie's train some place in Wyoming. Why so? Because he was a reporter for the Omaha Bee?

Football players are experimenting with silk as a material for uniforms, and Vassar and Wellesley are thinking of organizing teams at once.

Chief Andrews of the prohibition service, says the Detroit rum traffic situation is "very bad." And, to tell the truth, the rum probably is, also.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is dead at 90 years. We knew him when he first was elected to congress in 1872. He was at that time a prosecuting attorney and living at Tuscola, Douglas county, Illinois, and comparatively young man, full of vim and get-up-and-get. Peace to his ashes.

SOME POLITICS

People forget their political pets, political issues and political results. This is patent by stories that are immediately sent forth following the result of election.

For instance, the majority of newspapers in Nebraska have been carrying articles to the effect that the recent gubernatorial election was the closest within the history of the state. Of course, such articles are erroneous. For the benefit of those who do not recall the "days of real sport" in political campaigns, we give the following figures showing the results of a few gubernatorial campaigns.

Following 1890 elections John M. Thayer, governor, refused to surrender office to Boyd and stationed troops about the capitol. Thayer disputed Boyd's citizenship holding office until Boyd won on appeal to the U. S. supreme court. Boyd had first papers but had not completed citizenship. His right to hold office was upheld by supreme court on the ground of his declaration of intention together with oath taken when he enlisted in the union army in the civil war.

THE ONLY ONE OF HIM
Harry Houdini is dead. There is no need to tell who Harry Houdini was; no more than there would be to follow the headlining of the passing of Calvin Coolidge with a paragraph explaining that he was president of this nation. There was only one Houdini. Imitators hook guinea pigs from the coat pockets of "gen-men in the audience." Others extracted roses from rabbits ears. Others burned up dollar bills, only to take them from the flame uninjured. But there was only one magician such as Harry Houdini, and that one was himself. Houdini was more than a magician. He was a dramatist, a scholar, a preacher, and a fighter. Those who knew Houdini best are positive that his fight against charlatans was utterly sincere. It had publicity value, yes, but Houdini campaigned, says his friends, not for headlines, but for protection of the supercredulous. Houdini never denied the possibility of life after death. He never denied the possibility of spiritual manifestation from the other side. He warned only upon fakery. Houdini, who played for the world and fought for the world, is dead. He doubtless had a lot of fun, and did a lot of good. After all these years it is with pleasure that we inform you that it finally has happened—a woman tried to mail a letter in a fire-alarm box of Warren, Pa.

THE UNHAPPIEST LAND

Man's inhumanity to man has long made Armenia the unhappiest land of all the world, and the Armenians, the most sorrowful race of humankind.

Tortured, oppressed, ruthlessly persecuted, the Armenians have in vain looked for more than verbal encouragement to the great Christian powers of Europe. While the other submerged nations mostly benefited from the World War, Armenia emerged even more wretched than before. Now partitioned, partly subject to shaggy bolshevist emissaries and partly left under the iron heckle of Ottoman domination, Armenia has ceased to be even geographical entity when the Armenians are starving America sends clothes and food which save a few, but aid of this kind is ephemeral. Never was the outlook for Armenians freedom and happiness more hopeless. And then, to add to the already indescribable wretchedness with one of its manifestations of elemental terror. A major earthquake has devastated a large part of Armenian land, many hundreds have been killed and many thousands are ill and homeless. Armenia today is as miserable as it has been many times when the Kurds and Turks have spread desolation. But today, it is unkind nature that has added the final horror. That Armenians survive as a race and still maintain their spark of hope is a glorious commentary on the unconquerable spirit of the people. In their distress the American Near East Relief is doing what it can, but the best it can do is insufficient. Surely a rugged land that nature never smiled upon and which man has repeatedly devastated should be spared such an agony. America should respond most generously to any call that may be made for help.

WEATHER PROFITS
The Washington solar expert who sees the possibility of a "summerless summer in 1927, now also predicts a long and especially severe winter for 1926-27. . . . He reads his forecast in the sun-spots. Meanwhile, those who dine on goose are finding breastbones of varying color and flexibility, depending on what sort of a diet the bird has enjoyed. Meanwhile, mushrums are constructing thick-walled houses on the sloughs that furnish abundant building material and thin-walled houses where the supply is scant. Meanwhile, the squirrels are laying up heavy stores where nuts are plentiful, and light stores where they are scarce. Meanwhile, animals that are well fed and in good health are putting on heavy coats of fur, while less fortunate beasts are putting on thin coats. Perhaps the sunspots observed by Mr. Browne are no more reliable as indicators than gander-bones, muskrat architecture, and squirrel pantries. At any rate, let us hope so.

WEATHER PROFITS

William Allen White, famous Kansas editor, is right when he says there are three kicks in every dollar. The first is when you make it. The second is when you have it. The third is when you give it away. And he says the third kick is the big one. Too bad so many seemingly smart men, in search of happiness as we all are, never find out that the biggest kick is the last one—when you give it away.

Dressed Poultry Plant is Source of Greatest Income

Plants of This Kind in the West Prove a Splendid Success Where Tried.

E. H. Douglas, stopped at the office this morning to advise us the snow on trail No. 1 has been cleaned off so as to make it easy for cars to get to the Legion carnival. That is co-operation. Thanks Douglas. Mr. Lanchester, who is making such a phenomenal success at Elmwood in the poultry, live and dressed business; also dairy products—the "by-products of the farm"—butter, and eggs, was in yesterday. Mr. Lanchester stated "The speculative part of farming is gone. With the present hi-price of farm lands the farmer will turn more and more to developing by-products of his business." Also a farmer's wife near Elmwood paid $85 for pullets. Sold the first year $257 worth of eggs and poultry counting what eggs and poultry consumed on the farm. Bought all her feed; and netted $110 the first year, and has 120 pullets to start this year with. "That can be increased by increasing the flock, and duplicated all over butter fat game, is right now in its infancy. The dressed poultry proposition offers a more profitable and safer investment than live poultry. To place a car of poultry into New York, the freight rate on live and dressed poultry is the same. However, here are average charges in handling live poultry, not necessary in dressed poultry. For coops at destination ---- $ 79.65 For cartage ----- 46.00 For unloading ----- 53.00 For attendant ----- 90.00 For feed in transit ----- 125.00 For use of poultry car ----- 65.00

A dressed poultry plant in Plattsmouth would necessarily require a creamery in connection with a with in the near future. Also it would be used as a produce house for selling to merchants direct, for its poultry trucks in picking up poultry would also return with cabbage, vegetables, etc. The food-stuffs of the world, like this, in the hands of an experienced man, offer a safe and splendid investment. Now, Mr. City Council, can you eliminate the "kicks" this office is receiving, by pushing the graveling of the new fill in the south part of this city on trail 75? Douglas says he hopes to get it gravelled in two weeks—perhaps this time can be shortened.

A drastic and concerted, and persistent campaign should be waged to get the Louisville road gravelled. It is of vital importance to Plattsmouth from a business standpoint to have these east and west trails put in apple-pie order. They reach out into our trade territory. There is being a splendid response to patronizing our home bakeries. Money is a queer thing. A city of the size of Plattsmouth, by inter-trading, restaurants with our bakery products; bakeries with our flour mill; merchants among themselves; a loyal home patronage by the retail buyers, or consuming public; can expand and grow in a marvelous way.

The smaller city is today being used as the location of many factory establishments. The main reason being cheaper overhead. Plattsmouth thru this office, and its alert business men, is contacting every prospect daily to prospects, mercantile establishments, shops, factories, hundreds of inquiries having been sent out endeavoring to place firms here.

How could a city have expert machine shops without machine shops? How can our own recognized surgeons carry on their work successfully without a hospital? A hospital here would increase the business of every physician in Plattsmouth; also our drug stores for supplies; to say nothing of its necessity for our home citizens.

The Boy Scout meeting at the high school was a great success. When parents realize this is a non-military organization, that it develops the latent talents in their boys; builds a high degree of self confidence and honor in their sons; and that first degree Scouts are never found in the juvenile courts; that they make our best men and citizens—there will be no parent who will not line her twelve year old son up in this splendid international organization. Misdirected play, idle hands, and bad company are problems it meets for your son. How much is your son worth to you?

Every one is looking forward to the Legion carnival. They are the boys who made "America safe" and are today in every community directing their energies in a broad civic way to the development of their home cities.

At the Nebraska good roads meeting October 13th in Omaha just fitted to extend that organization an invitation to hold their next convention in Plattsmouth, but was stopped by the fact we had no place to take care of that many. These items are not "lectures." They are merely statements of "hard-boiled" facts for earnest Plattsmouth citizens, and our own farmers written from the heart, in a constant effort for fairness, and without discrimination.

Trout Eggs are Ordered

Chief Game Warden O'Connell has ordered one and a half million trout eggs from private hatcheries in Montana and Wisconsin for hatching at Benkelman, Valentine and Gretna. The eggs will be delivered December 12. They include rainbow, brown and brook trout. The cost was from $1.25 to $1.50 a thousand, which is the lowest price obtainable in many years. The state department is expending between $5,000 and $6,000 on improvements at the Benkelman hatchery, which is considered one of the best in the country for trout. Four new ponds have been built, three ponds are in course of construction and several small holding ponds and an ice house are being built.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

In the matter of the application of Wm. Hunter, administrator of the estate of Cecilia D. Jahrig, deceased, for license to sell real estate to pay debts.
Now on this 23rd day of October, 1926, comes Wm. Hunter, administrator of the estate of Cecilia D. Jahrig, deceased, and presents his petition for license to sell the real estate of the deceased, to pay the claims filed and allowed against said estate; it appearing from said petition that there is an insufficient amount of personal property in the hands of the administrator to pay the claims presented and allowed by the County Court, the expense of administration and that it is necessary to sell the whole of said real estate of said deceased for the payment of claims and costs of administration—

It is therefore, considered, ordered and adjudged that all persons interested in the estate of Cecilia D. Jahrig, deceased, appear before me, James T. Begley, Judge of the District Court, at the office of the Clerk of the District Court at the Court House in the City of Plattsmouth, Cass County, Nebraska, on the 13th day of December, 1926, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon to show cause, if any there be, why such license should not be granted to Wm. Hunter, administrator of said estate, to sell all of said real estate of said deceased so as to pay claims presented and allowed with the costs of administration and the costs of this proceedings—

It is therefore further considered, ordered and adjudged that notice be given to all persons interested by publication of this Order to Show Cause for four successive weeks in The Plattsmouth Journal, a legal newspaper published and of general circulation in said County of Cass, Nebraska.
By the Court, JAMES T. BEGLEY, District Judge.
By W. C. Schaus, Deputy.
