THE BETTER RAILROAD ERA

A railroad authority, in discussing the changed attitude of the public toward the railroads, says:

"Recognition of an obligation to the public has grown upon, and has been accepted by the railroads. Recognition has grown upon, and has been eccepted by the public of the truth that an exercise of power carries with it a correlative obligation of justice, and that aside from justice to the carriers, the highest and most essential interest to the public which will enable the carriers to provide adequate and efficient transportation. "The ownership of the railroads has passed from the few to the many. Stockholders of steam railroads in 1910 totaled 416,508. On Dec. 31, 1925, it is estimated that there were 190,000. It would be conservative to say the total number of railroad securiy holders, bond and stock, is today practically 2,000,000.

"This better public understanding marks a new era in the field of trans-
