

Greenwood Department!

Prepared in the Interest of the People of Greenwood and Surrounding Vicinity

Dudley Claus was shelling and delivering corn to the Peters elevator during the past week.

Carl Brockmuller of near Waverly was looking after some business matters in Greenwood last Wednesday.

Mrs. W. C. Boucher has been kept to her home with an attack of flu for the past week, but is feeling better now.

Phil L. Hall and wife were enjoying a visit with friends in Omaha on last Wednesday, they making the trip on the train.

E. L. McDonald and wife were visiting in Omaha last Monday, where Mr. McDonald was also purchasing some Christmas goods.

Frank Stackaus and wife were guests on last Sunday at the home of G. W. Swacker, where all enjoyed the occasion very much.

W. E. Palling was a visitor in Lincoln on last Tuesday, where he was called to look after some business matters for a short time.

John Wedeman, of Lincoln, was a business visitor in Greenwood on last Wednesday, he driving over from the capital city in his car.

Henry Hanson was under the weather during a good deal of last week, but is again all right and able to get about and do his stunt.

The Greenwood state bank has the issuance of hunting licenses and also for fishing, but few are desirous of fishing at this time of the year.

Mrs. E. A. Landon was visiting with friends in Ashland on Wednesday of last week and was a guest of Mrs. Ellen Marshall while there.

Mrs. P. A. Sanborn was a visitor in Greenwood for over the week end and was accompanied by her granddaughter, who is attending school in Omaha.

George Bucknell and Wesley Miller were in Omaha on last Monday, where they went to purchase the heating plant for the new home of Mr. Miller.

Nelson W. Emelund was out getting used to the chilly winds of winter when he was clerking the sale of C. W. Campbell & Sons, which was held on Wednesday.

Judge W. E. Hand and William Coleman were visiting and looking after some business matters in Plattsmouth on Tuesday of last week, they making the trip via train.

We visited the store of White & Bucknell last Wednesday and found these genial gentlemen digging into the work like beavers, they being just about as busy as they could be.

Fred Ethrege was a visitor in Omaha, where his trip combined both business and pleasure, for he was visiting with his friends and was also getting some attachments put on his teeth.

P. A. Moeckenhaupt was in town on last Wednesday and in conversation stated that he had concluded the picking of his corn and while not a heavy yield, it was better than he had looked for.

At the meeting of the Owl club last week a very enjoyable time was had and in the contest for prizes, the consolation went to Mrs. E. F. Smith and the first prize was gathered in by Mrs. Lena Schrader.

Frank Hart and the family were guests at the home of John Scheel, of Murdock, for over the week end, going on Saturday evening and remaining until Sunday evening, where they enjoyed a nice visit.

E. J. Miller departed for Scottsbluff, the home of his parents, last Saturday and will remain for the week and for Christmas and the holidays, being back here for work the beginning of the coming year.

Wayne Landon, who has some excellent corn even for this year, has eight people in the field picking the corn and is endeavoring to get the crop in the crib before the next storm strikes this portion of the state.

C. W. Williams was shelling and delivering corn during the past week to the Peters elevator, Henry Ackerman also shelled and delivered corn at the same place, they believing it time to deliver the corn while the weather is cold.

George Mick and wife and Mrs. Arthur Stadley with John V. Stardkey and wife were over to Alvo on last Wednesday, where they were attending the funeral of a sister, Mrs. D. E. Sheelsley, which occurred Wednesday afternoon.

Wayne Landon and wife, Mrs. E. A. Landon and Miss Catherine Coleman were all over to Lincoln early last week, where they spent the day visiting with friends, as well as looking after some Christmas shopping while there.

W. G. Renwanz, Sr., who will move to Greenwood from the farm will hold a sale on February 10th, when he will close out his farming implements and other things used on the farm. Look for later announcements of the sale.

Watson Howard was a visitor at the poultry show of the three counties held at Ashland and made a most appreciative address on the breeding and growing of chickens and their care for profit. Mr. Howard is well qualified to speak on the subject.

E. G. Laughlin and wife, of LaCrosse, Kansas, who have been making their home there for some time, but who formerly lived here, were guests of old time friends and relatives in Greenwood and vicinity for a greater portion of the past week.

J. M. Wells, the new manager of the Standard Oil company, who comes from Kansas, received his household goods last week and will make his home in one of the residences of Martin Mahar, the one in which George Trunkenbolz, the manager of the Greenwood water plant formerly lived.

Miss Mamie Mahar, who has been with her friend, Mrs. E. L. Jones, of Denton, during her stay at the Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, returned home on last Saturday. Mrs. Jones went to her home at Denton, where she is resting after the trip and is showing much improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Landon entertained at a six o'clock dinner at their home in Greenwood on last Tuesday and had for their guests on the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Laughlin, of LaCrosse, Kansas; Clyde Landon and wife of Ashland, all enjoying the visit and the excellent dinner which Mrs. Landon provided.

Among the numerous places which were frozen during the past cold snap, the water at the home of Jacob Witt was among the others, and new plumbing had to be installed to some extent. This is the first real winter to experience since the installation of the city water and there were a number of places which suffered from frozen pipes.

The team of Miller Sherman which was waiting for the loading of coal, that they might pull it to the home and thus warm themselves and also provide a way of warming the members of the family, got tired of waiting and took a circle around the filling station and barber shop and again down the alley to the place of starting, thus warming themselves up a bit, with no damage done.

Death of Mrs. Evans
Mrs. M. L. Evans, 60, of Ashland, died at the home there on last Tuesday, the funeral being held Thursday. The deceased lady was a member of the Methodist church and was held in very high regard by a host of admiring friends. Mrs. Evans leaves the husband and three children to mourn her death, they being Elsie, a son who resides at David City, Raymond and Mary, who were still at home. Mrs. Evans was smitten with ulcers of the stomach, and had been sick for about two weeks, although she had been poorly for some time. A. F. Smith was in attendance at the funeral. Mrs. Evans being an aunt of Mr. Smith.

Will Give Programs
At both the Christian and Methodist churches on the evening of December 23rd there will be give programs with Christmas trees and treats for the children of their respective Bible schools. All are expected to have a most enjoyable time.

BANKER-FARMER MAKES NICE PROFIT ON CATTLE
T. H. Pollock on Oct. 6th, bought on the South Omaha Market a car load of 33 good quality light white-face spayed heifers total weight 20,670 pounds, an average of 626 pounds per heifer paying $6.75 for same.

These heifers were kept on full feed 54 days and on December 6th were shipped to Chicago Market and weighed there 24,130 pounds an average of 731 pounds per head and sold for $10.50.

Ground snapped corn and some alfalfa hay was fed and allowing one peck of ground corn per day per heifer, which is more than was fed, 445 bushel of corn was charged to feed account at 60 cents per bushel left a net profit on the 33 heifers after paying all expenses including freight, feed and all handling charges of $716.48.

There were 75 hogs in the feed lot with the heifers so no deduction of charge was made for the alfalfa. Very little alfalfa is used where ground snapped corn is fed.

These heifers were fed on the Pollock farm two miles east of Murray by George Martin. Mr. Pollock's partner and the splendid profit made speaks well for Mr. Martin's ability as a stock feeder.

Let Rumors Go and Await Facts Before Judgment

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Urges the Awaiting of the Uncovering of Truth.

Will M. Maupin in last night's Bee takes a hot shot at the Iowa Roads. Isn't it just grand to see the her feller get "his" once in a while?

In yesterday's column we remarked that there had been two cars of poultry "brought" in Plattsmouth the last week. We meant "bought"—not "brung".

Dame Rumor is a most flippant flirtation critter you ever met! Right now wouldn't it be fine if we did not pass along all the rumors afloat about our banking institutions? It's so easy to say "I heard this" and "I heard that" and "I knew this" and "I knew that," but, say boys, let's just forget all about this thing and wait until the real facts are brought out. A man is killed a hundred time over by the things that never come to pass. This is a hard blow, we know to many of us, and especially coming at this time of the year, but things may be far better than they look like are, if we'll just quit talking about it.

Plattsmouth, and you and I and the rest of us are going to go along just the same. Plattsmouth is on the up-hill and can't be stopped by this misfortune. And right here, is a good place and a good time to realize, that co-operation is more necessary today than ever; that we can boost so hard, and work so hard for our city we can forget this unfortunate incident.

If any of our good friends and merchants have been so unfortunate as to suffer in this misfortune, the time to help them is right now when help is most urgent, that way, is by giving them your business.

And talking about rumors, we ran down one which reflected on the grade of flour being used in a certain bakery. Investigation shows this same flour is used by Peterson, Omaha; Griffin Lincoln, and Tip Top Bakery, same city—also the Columbus, North Platte Bakes—bakeries of such established repute as to laugh this rumor to scorn. This is a free country, excepting for "licker," and teaching of "everution," and is a free country for "licker" if you happen to be rich. Therefore we can eat the bread we prefer. Personally, having always found the bread of our local bakeries clean, wholesome and good after three months trial, shall continue to patronize home industries.

This is a pretty darn'd good world after all, and we don't have to be a fool about it either. It's just as silly to eternally wear monkey glasses at black ones—there's a happy medium—a broad road of sanity, clear thinking and constructive optimism.

The only thing I hate about having to take a boat ride on the river Styx, is that I can't live to see what human minds, human hands, human eyes and human efforts will bring out as the centuries roll past. To see the old earth swing again to the glacial period, and then back and ever rolling thru eternity in its unchanging course, and governed by unchanging laws that lie beyond human sight and comprehension.

Burbank was a keen scientist, a keen thinker, but the greatest thing he ever said was "Nature is unconcerned." We are destroyed as ruthlessly in floods, fires, blizzards, storms earthquakes, pestilences, as the worms were no more, than the worms and ants we tread unseeing under foot!

All our boast of power, of intelligence, of privilege, of faith, of prayer, of Divine Love and protection avail us naught in the path of the angry whirling roaring snapping tornado.

It must be that this whirling earth, these rolling tides, this waxing and waning moon, the lightning's flash, birth, love, death, sorrow, all move subjects to great divine laws under which we have our feeble existence, but in us has been planted a mind, a mind with which to learn these things, and how to protect ourselves against the great chanceless laws of the Universe. That is God's gift to man—a mind. Physically it is the only thing that differentiates him from other mammals.

Thru this mind, we can live our city up and find its place in the sun. But it means thinking not just thoughtlessly doing this and that as the days roll past. It means loving our city, boosting for it, and never thru thoughtlessness permitting an act, or a word of our to pass that would in any measure harm our development and progress. The manner of our thoughts is reflected in the prosperity and progress of our city; our schools; our citizenship. Let's think more!

Professor Monahan of Fordham University says there is no such thing as a 100 per cent Englishman, or a 100 per cent American or 100 per cent Frenchman, the only 100 per cent thing he knows is a 100 per cent ass! How's that for a slam on our so-called 100 per cent snobbery?

Last Friday a week ago was royally entertained in the Masonic Home, enjoyed a spanking good dinner, met the delightful folk out there, and was quite overcome by the elegance with which that place is furnished. One old Walnut bedroom set is matchless! The radio music perfect, the equipment and care of the helpless sick ones marvelous. What a wonderful work for man, and in the name of Divine Love! It took thinking of high order to evolve this scheme—and the care of the aged and helpless, must be always carried on! One is also instantly impressed with the great loving kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Evers toward those good old people. W. G. DAVIS, Secretary.

ENTERTAINS AT KENSINGTON

From Saturday's Daily—The J. P. Johnson home was the scene of a very pleasant gathering on Thursday evening when the K. Y. S. B. Kensington club was entertained by Miss Emma Johnson.

The home had been very prettily arranged with the Christmas colors of red and green and amid this pleasant setting the members of the club spent the evening most delightfully. A fine Christmas tree was placed in the center of the room and on it the members found remembrances for all of the party.

The members of the party spent the evening in the plying of the busy needle that made the hours pass all too swiftly.

At the close of the evening dainty and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. P. Johnson.

Those attending the occasion were Misses Nettie Moore, Grettle Hackenberg, Pearl Hild, Nettie Jirousek, Mesdames J. H. Palacek, L. W. Neil, Mrs. J. P. Johnson and the hostess, Miss Emma Johnson.
