Women's Home Economics Clubs
 Several evenings will be spent during the next month around here by many families working with a pencil and a ruler on several sheets of paper. It may happen that a passer-by may see the following men and their wives, Clarence Pool, Henry Smith, Weeping Water; Wm. Cook, Murray; Philip Hennings, Cedar Creek; Wm. August, A. J. Rose, Nehawka; Joe Vickers, W. C. Timblin, and H. M. Weichel, Alvo; Harry Schafer, Avoca, or some of their neighbors out in the yard with a measuring stick or tape line, or it may be that the man will be stepping it off instead.

It isn't the old-time income tax come to life, or the family expense accounts or a new house or a new kind of radio that they are figuring on. But it is something that is going to make a change in their homes.

F. H. Hoppert and Miss Rizpah Douglass of the Agricultural Extension Service, at Lincoln, held their monthly meeting with the project leaders of Cass county at Weeping Water and Elmwood. These leaders are now taking to their members the same lessons about planting shrubs and trees and lawns and making driveways and clothes lines and gardens, etc., around the farm home. Leaders and members are busy planning now so they will have time to order the shrubs and flowers and other things they want to plant when the season opens up.

Hoppert distributed a circular that gave directions for planning the landscaping around the farm home, the kind of flowers and shrubs to plant, and several diagrams of plantings which might be copied. He tried to bring out principles to be followed in every case. He and Miss Douglass had made a little model farmstead to work with in the meeting. They used a breakfast food carton for the ground, a little box for the house, trees and shrubs made out of tissue paper and wire, and drives made out of cardboard. The leaders are using a simple model like this for their club lessons.

We now have a total of 19 clubs. That is as many clubs as any county in the state of Nebraska has. The greatest number of clubs we could have would be 20, and when we start the next project in September of this year we hope to have 20. The women of this county have taken hold of this work and made it a success and we wish to thank them for their hearty co-operation. The last club to be added was one southwest of Elmwood with 18 members. Their project leaders are Mrs. Ray Parcell and Mrs. Eugene Hall. Mrs. Swartz is the president.

Gas Engine Schools
 Cards are now being returned from the farmers who will attend the gas engine schools. One will be held at the home of E. B. Chapman, north of Union on January 25 and 26. The other will be held in the community building at Mynard, on January 27 and 28. These schools should open at 9 o'clock and close at 4. Each man should bring his own drinking cup and we will try to serve sandwiches at a low cost, so nobody will need to go home to dinner. If you don't receive an enrollment card and wish to attend these schools, just write me a letter.

DECIDES FOR STOHLMANN

From Saturday's Daily—
 The hearing yesterday in the district court on the claim of William J. Stohlmann for compensation for an injury received in November, 1925, while he was engaged in working on a bridge at Louisville, resulted in a verdict being given for Mr. Stohlmann. The finding was that the village and the county should pay equal parts of the claim of Mr. Stohlmann which was allowed on the hearing before the compensation department of the state. The case was opposed by the insurance company that carries the compensation insurance of Cass county.

SUITS TO QUIET TITLE

From Saturday's Daily—
 Two actions were filed today in the district court today in matters to seek the quieting of title to certain real estate in this section. The first action was that of Philip Farnoff vs. Thomas Gordon while the second was that of David Rutherford vs. Londen Mullen, et al. Attorney W. A. Robertson appears in the actions for the plaintiffs.

WILL SUPPORT BILL

The local chamber of commerce has received a telegram from Senator R. Beecher Howell in response to the message sent from here urging the support of the McNary-Haugen bill, for agricultural relief that is now pending before congress. The senior senator from this state will favor this measure and do all possible for its passage the message to the local chamber of commerce states. The attitude of the senator is very pleasing to the local people who had enlisted his services in the fight for farm relief.

A. songs and a short business session of reports, the program was opened with a drill by Central boys with ten splendid positions and well held by the boys under direction of Physical Director Woodward. HOLD FINE MEETING

From Saturday's Daily—
 Miss Beulah Warren and sister Mrs. Louie Hennings, entertained the Glendale Women's club very delightfully at their beautiful country home on Saturday afternoon at a card party and luncheon. The occasion was a surprise in honor of their club leader, Mrs. Geo. Privett. The decorations were in pink and white and were very tastefully carried out in the attractive 2-course luncheon. Places were laid for 14 guests. All were members of the club. Mrs. Privett has been one of the club leaders for the last two years and was their president last year. Mrs. Privett was the proud recipient of a very beautiful remembrance which she will always cherish as a token of esteem from the club members.

Very Peasant Meeting of Legion Auxiliary Friday

Membership matters occupied considerable attention at the business session, and although the Plattsmouth unit has already attained an enviable position in membership standing among the larger units in the state, it is proposed to leave no stone unturned to get into the organization every eligible lady in the city. The constitution of the Legion Auxiliary provides that the wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of American Legion members, as well as the wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of all men and women who were in the military or naval service of the United States between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918, and died in line of service or after honorable discharge and women who of their own right are eligible to membership in the American Legion, are entitled to membership.

Courtesy in the Public Service Corporations

Telephone Company One That Makes for More Pleasant and Efficient Service.

We notice the Lincoln Telephone News, January issue states: "The Plattsmouth Journal on December 9th, says: 'The latest wrinkle in vogue by the telephone company is now the sweet thank you that shows your number is understood when you call.' Our good daily Journal evidently has friends in Lincoln, and this was extracted from the writer's daily 'Kolum.'"

In your dealing with public service corporations, can you name one that demands such exacting courtesy as is demanded by the telephone company from its employees in their contact with the public?

To be true, the water faucets never talk back to us when we turn them on, or the electric lights say "thank you," so they can't be considered in the same category (whatever that word means?).

Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver in his recommendation of "companionable marriages" is doing nothing worse than the agitators who are trying to close the public schools to freedom in teaching scientific evolution. Sometimes we think the Lord-amity must have a good laugh on us frenzied mortals. Gave us a brain to think with, and now we are trying to pass laws to keep us from thinking.

Did surgical science ever locate a "thought" in the brain of a man? No scientist ever saw, felt or heard a "thought." Did a surgeon ever locate such a thing as "individuality," "personality," or "genius"? Did surgery ever locate a radio, an engine, a foundry, an automobile, or a sky-scraper in the brain of man? Yet that is where they all originated? Conceived in the brain and demonstrated in matter! And yet what do we know of the "brain"? Absolutely nothing. How far or how closely is our brain in touch with the great divine mind that rules the universe, makes us think, love, see, feel, hate passionately, play, work? Yet there are those who would dare to legally curtail the rights of men and women to use this God given brain in scientific study, for which it was given us by the Creator of the Universe.

If we could only believe what is visible to the eye, the earth is flat; the stars mere specks in the sky; the sun moves around the earth; and man of recent creation. The development of government, the ability of people to govern themselves sanely and intelligently; surgery, anasthetics; obstetrics—all are based on the freedom to study, and think. Who is simple enough to lose this great privilege by making an effort to save himself from the ignorant superstition of those who would attempt to put a snuffer on God's greatest gift to man—his brain and mind.

The study of agriculture by the farmers, and for the farmers, and facts demonstrated in alfalfa and sweet clover raising in Nebraska and Kansas, have placed Nebraska farms where they never could have been had scientific education in agricultural matters been forbidden.

A few years ago, a crazy fanatic in Kansas came out in the Kansas City Star, in "Speaking the public mind," with the statement it was wrong to kill flies—to "swat the flies" because they were "God's little scavengers!"

The ability of the farmer today, to see thru the fog thrown out by partisan papers, and political bunkum, the necessity and economy of good roads, is building the future of Nebraska, and throwing all thruout the state arteries of splendid highways. We know now that prosperity, business, progress, and comforts follow good roads. The farmers know it too—it is useless longer to side-step the issue by merely whispering "taxes." This has come about thru greater reading, better education—nothing like education to keep away the boogey-man.

Co-operation and the Golden Rule are ages old, yet this century has seen more accomplished thru co-operation than in the thousands of years that have gone before. Why? Because the standard of thinking, of thought, thru education has convinced men, women, that in union of purpose, there is strength, and that a civic consciousness, and love of our city, our schools, builds for the future, in no other way as thru unselfish disinterested civic co-operation.

Had the savages in Africa been banded together in great centralized civic co-operative bodies, slavery could have been prevented. Had the Indians ceased the senseless warfare among themselves and united with a solid front, their extinction would have been impossible.

So these lessons written in red by history, do apply today to our city and our own community, whether we wish to accept them or not. All the "belief" in the world never made one little act, and all the opposition in the world can neither add to nor take from one atom of truth.

From Friday's Daily—
 The Louisville I. O. O. F. lodge No. 184, numbering 143 members, is one of the largest of the lodges of this order in the county and when the members decide that they are going to do anything they do it right and last evening they gave an actual demonstration of the fact in the great meeting staged at the Louisville city hall.

The I. O. O. F. have each year set aside one time when they are hosts to their wives and the members of their family and last evening was fixed upon as the date of the 1927 meeting.

The city hall was filled to capacity and one of the finest times in the history of the three link order was held by the members and their families. The event was presided over by Lee Mayfield, editor of the Courier, who is a clever presiding officer as well as newspaper man, and gave a few remarks on the order as well as welcoming the guests of the evening to participate in the fine program that was arranged.

The program was quite long and consisted of songs, recitations of various kinds, vocal and instrumental duets and solos and also a fine program by the Nichols orchestra that added to the pleasure and fun of the occasion.

There was a fine banquet served as a part of the evening program that proved that the I. O. O. F. members are masters of entertaining in whatever way they may bend their energies.

HANS RATHMANN ABOUT SAME

From Saturday's Daily—
 The reports from the bedside of Hans Rathmann today states that Mr. Rathmann is about the same as he was yesterday with perhaps a slight improvement and suffering less pain than he did on the first day of his illness. Mr. Rathmann seems to be suffering from an affection of the stomach that has caused him a great deal of annoyance.
