Ione Dovey Has Reputation as a Coffee Maker

Plattsmouth Artist at Omaha Studio Proves Art of Making Coffee as Well as Sketches.

The Omaha Bee of Sunday had a very lifelike picture of Ione Dovey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Dovey of this city, and who has for the past three years maintained a studio at the Aquila court where her art work has won her much recognition. Accompanying the portrait was a very interesting article by Naomi Doebel, on Miss Dovey and her art work as well as coffee making skill. The sketch of Miss Dovey as given in the Bee was as follows:

Maker of Best Coffee in Omaha
"Friends and acquaintances of Ione Dovey, Omaha artist, have given her this title.

"Each person who visits her Aquila Court studio socially on business and stops long enough to drink a cup of coffee echoes the words, Ione, just five feet tall with her shoes on (and she wears high heels to add to her height), is a rare combination, an artist and a good cook and house-keeper.

Paintings Line Studio.
"Her studio, whose walls are lined with oil paintings made along the Missouri river, in France, in California, and along the Canadian border, is one of the "exhibition" places of Omaha.

"The studio is furnished in old walnut. A Paisley shawl, tie-dye of Chiffon of heavy silk and patchwork cushions of tie-dye add a bright note to the room.

"On the mantle above the fireplace is an old clock, stored in the attic by Ione's grandmother before the artist was born. Near it stands a stein over 100 years old, filled with orange and red "Japanese lantern" blossoms.

Was Canteen Worker.
"The fireplace recalls, too, the experiences of Ione while a canteen worker overseas during the world war. For her hearth she has the Cinderella-like broom from the kitchen of her Madam hostess at Rimeacourt, Lieux Marne, a brass shell used as a vase came from the crown prince's d'gout headquarters at Mountfaucn. The brass candlesticks on the mantle are from St. Malo.

"I was scared to death when I found other folks in the court paid $39 wholesale for material alone for this big window," she said, referring to the story-and-a-half window that runs across the entire front of the studio. I went hunting—and my curtains cost me just $4.17."

"When she was in the fifth grade in grammar school at Plattsmouth, Ione Dovey decided she was going to be an artist.

Board Near Window.
"Our teacher gave us talks on good pictures," he said. "I took my first lessons in painting from her sister and I've been at it ever since."

"In her studio she uses a set of Haviland dishes painted before she had graduated from high school.

"Close to the window Ione has her drawing board and art materials. It is here that she makes her black and white drawings of furniture or dresses for advertiser clients, where she plans designs for original greeting cards and wood blocks, or puts final touches on paintings made on outdoor sketching trips with pupils.

"After completing her course in the Chicago Art institute Ione Dovey took a special course in fashion art in the New York Fashion academy. She studied illustration with F. W. Stevens and took special work under Kenyon Cox of murals fame, Mucha, one of the best-known of French artists; and outdoor sketching with the late John W. Vanderpool, authority on nude life, and Dudley C. Watson.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

From Wednesday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon Harry Leosis, proprietor of the Royal cafe, returned home from Omaha where he has been for the past three weeks, recovering from an attack of appendicitis and the attendant operation. Mr. Leosis is feeling much improved but is still weak from the effects of the operation and his condition will compel him to remain quiet for some time until he regains his former strength. The patient is very much pleased with the fact that he has been able to return home and hopes in a very short time to regain his old time health and vigor.

VERY HAPPY HOME

From Tuesday's Daily—
The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Privitt near Cedar Creek is one of the happiest in this part of the state as the result of a visit that the stork made to their home Sunday and leaving in their care a fine little son and heir. The young man and the mother are both doing nicely and as this is the first child in the family he is being regarded with the greatest of admiration by the proud and happy relatives including Grandpa and Grandma P. A. McCrary of this city.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this way of showing our appreciation for the kindness shown us during the illness of our father and brother. We wish to thank the Masonic Lodge, I. O. O. F., the singers and all those helping during our sad bereavement.—Mrs. Julia ameson; Mr. B. H. Davis; Mr. William R. Davis; Frank E. Cook and family.

Dismisses the Action Against Carl H. Lang

County Attorney W. G. Kieck Dismisses Action Against Man Charged With Arson.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The charge of arson that was preferred in a complaint filed a few days ago against Carl H. Lang, young man of near Murray, was today withdrawn and the action dismissed by County Attorney W. G. Kieck.

The complaint against young Lang was filed on the basis of the information which had been gathered by the special agents that had investigated the case and who had recommended to the county attorney that the case be filed.

Since the filing of the case there has developed circumstances that lead to the belief that some of the points figured by the investigators had proven that it was impossible for the young man charged with the crime to have committed the act and which had led to the dismissal of the action.

The car which was thought to have been used by the party making the get away from the scene of the fire has now been reported to have been in the vicinity where the tracks were found at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of February 13th when the fire occurred and therefore could not have been in the possession of Mr. Lang who was in Omaha on that date and did not return home until later in the evening.

The sentiment in the vicinity of Murray has been very much in favor of Mr. Lang and as the evidence was wholly circumstantial the county attorney did not feel justified in the late developments in holding the young man for trial and the case was accordingly dismissed this morning.

From Wednesday's Daily—
W. R. Young, the auctioneer, returned home yesterday from a week's stay in the western portion of the state and in which he has been very busy conducting sales, both farm and stock sales that gave the best of results and brought very high prices. The sales were held at Lamar and Venango and in the purebred hog sales there were averages of $65 and $67 and top prices of $127 secured by Mr. Young and who was very much pleased with the result of the sales. Some of the farm sales brought a total of $6,300 and all were very largely attended and the greatest of interest shown.

Mr. Young has been kept very busy the present season and has been occupied almost every day with the sales and as the result has won the reputation of being one of the most successful auctioneers in the state.

Mrs. McElwain Suffers Severe Fall Yesterday

Aged Lady Falls at Home and Results in Fractured Right Hip—Aged 85 Years.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Mrs. S. E. McElwain, one of the pioneer residents of this city was most seriously injured yesterday afternoon at her home on North 7th street when she fell and suffered the fracture of the right hip and which at her advanced age of eighty-five years makes it impossible to give her any permanent relief from the injury.

Mr. McElwain celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday on December 12th and has been doing very nicely since that time altho her health has been gradually failing and for some time she has been under the care of the members of the family but in the past week has been so well that she was able to be around the greater part of the time.

Yesterday noon Mrs. McElwain was unusually well and after her dinner had spent some time reading until about 3 o'clock when she decided to take a short rest by sleeping and leaving her chair had started for the bed room when her right limb weakened and allowed her to fall to the floor, the fracture of the right hip resulting from the fall.

Mrs. McElwain was unable to summon help and lay on the floor until 6:30 when her son, B. A. McElwain came home from the store and was startled and shocked to find the mother in her injured condition. Mr. McElwain secured the assistance of A. L. Tidd, who resides next door and they carried the injured lady to the bed room and summoned Dr. P. P. Livingston who made the examination of the injured lady and discovered the condition of the patient. At her age it was found impossible to set the injured leg and the patient is kept under constant care altho there is little that can be done for her relief and the hopes of her recovery are slight.

Mrs. McElwain is one of the most beloved ladies in the city and the news of her accident comes as a severe shock to the host of friends and all that is possible for her relief is being done by the members of the family and her friends.

DOLLING UP COURT HOUSE

From Tuesday's Daily—
John C. Brittain and son Earl, who have been doing some painting at the court house and placing the interior of the building in the very best of shape, have just completed the work in the office of County Superintendent Miss Alpha Peterson. The former dark walls and ceiling of the main office room of the superintendent had been done over in a light shade of tan that makes a wonderful improvement and much more light and pleasant for the use of the county school department and will be much appreciated by the teachers and others who are here to take examinations at the office. Miss Peterson is also threatening to have new and attractive curtains placed at the windows and making the office nice and homelike.

Mr. Brittain will probably have the job of decorating other of the offices in the building that are in need of redecorating, as they have not been given an overhauling and cleanup for several years.

HENRY HITS THE TRUTH

The astute Mr. Field admits that the local newspaper is the country merchant's Best Bet. In one of his homespun lectures on merchandising the other night, Henry made the assertion, truthfully, that it is the small town merchant's own fault if he doesn't do business. "You fellows cannot all own radio stations," he said in substance, "but you have your printed pages to use—why don't you do it, instead of hollering, because the business is bad. I can't do ALL you're losing business in the world and I don't want it all. You can do business, too, if you'll tell the folks in your territory what you have to sell; if you give service and good merchandise, use salesmanship and treat the folks right. Advertise your merchandise! Don't sit still like a bump on a log and growl because the other fellow uses his head. Use yours too; there's no law against it!"—Nebraska City News-Press.
