School Children Present Fine Pageant

Historic Story by Dr. H. B. Alexander Presented at the High School Last Night.

From Wednesday's daily—Last evening at the high school auditorium a dream of the Central Parent-Teachers association came true when the children of that school presented the pageant "Nebraska Sunshine."

It was based on the progress of the land from the time it was made a territory until admitted into the union in 1876, March first.

Parents and friends have wanted that the children might have one program during the year wholly their own and the teachers may well be proud of their achievement on the occasion and their labor and time was fully appreciated by the large audience attending, as even standing room was filled on the main floor.

There were 175 of the grade children from C class of 6th grade in costume, of which 137 of the grade children were Nebraska born. Truly a picture of Americanization where all the children unite to praise their state and nation. Every child plays "Indian" sometime and surely the third graders showed their joy of the game as they presented the Indians on our land in the early sixties. Then the wagon trains, camps social life and home building of the pioneers as presented by fifth and sixth grades was most interestingly given, the children showing their pleasure as well as the audience. With all the hardships and difficulties there is usually something of beauty which the second and third grades revealed as daisies, buttercups and butterflies, while the fourth and sixth grades (led by Dorothy Lahr) reminded us of waving fields of wheat and corn, bordered by wild flowers. With these there comes the pestilence of some form or another and this time it was the green grasshoppers that told in song how, when they had passed, they left only the gray stock of grain. But the birds came back and drove them away and with them the crows who rob Farmer Brown's (Robert Hall) cornfield. Clearly they arranged a scarecrow (Joe Graves) with gun cocked but the crows made friends with this and the farmer, outdone carries his scarecrow off again. But the birds join in song again and then comes the sunshine and raindrops, represented by the C class of beginners of this year, who with the older ones in making themselves understood.

Several special numbers were given, the program being opened with piano duet by the Benak sisters and a vocal duet by Madge and Greth Garnett. During the pioneer scene there was a duet by Virginia Mennesser and Darline Pickett, a clog dance by George Adams, accompanied by Hubert Piper on the Harmonica, and a mock orchestra by Harriet Simmons, Alice Hiatt, Geo. Adams and Hubert Piper.

Between parts Emma Giventer gave a reading and a quartet of boys from fourth to sixth grades sang in parts. Little Joe Horsak, a Nebraska product delivered by parcel post, gave several numbers on the accordion that were well received and (thoroly) enjoyed by himself.

Part II was announced by a Herald—Margaret Stevenson who first introduced Uncle Sam, taken by Marion Tritsch, Liberty by Frances Benak. Then came the thirty-six states admitted into the union before Nebraska. Miss Nebraska (Margaret McCarty) was announced and proceeded by golden hopes from C class and Little Miss Hadraha with date of admission. Then came the clever states after Nebraska. The song, "Nebraska" written by H. B. Alexander, was sung just at this ceremony and the chorus joined in singing "Nebraska, the land of Sunshine. Liberty gave as reading "Our Flag" and the whole school sang "America the Beautiful" as a fitting close to their part.

The audience was dismissed with the song "Star Spangled Banner" in which all joined voices.

Special mention should be made of its work on groups and costumes as done by the teachers.

The stars were in the care of Mrs. Carlson, the Pioneers, Miss Rys, Special characters, Miss Swoboda flowers and grains, Mrs. Kieck, butterflies, Miss Williams, grasshoppers, Miss Martens. Also special thanks is tendered to Mrs. Knorr, the accompanist whose work added so much to the performance of the pageant and to all the mothers who so graciously assisted with the costumes.

A goodly amount was received at the door and which is very pleasing to the teachers as it brings them a little nearer the realization of their desire for a much needed piano in their work.

INSTALL NEW SIGNAL

The Burlington has installed a safety signal at the Oreadopolis crossing north of this city which is one that will be very much appreciated by the traveling public. This is the crossing where a fatal accident occurred in August 1925 and the new safety device will aid in the elimination of danger to a large extent. The signal is of the bell and light type for both directions of travel and is located on the King of Trails highway from this city north to Omaha.

Sketch of Life of Mrs. Burton, an Old Resident

Passing of Well Loved Lady in California Brings Regret to the Old Friends.

When sinks the sun adown the distant hilltops,
Tinting with gold a pathway o'er the sea,
A vision fair of Heaven's wondrous
Glams thru bright cloud-gates unto me.

The above lines are from the first verse of Dear Promised Land, a song written and composed by Letitia Estelle Burton, and it was on Tuesday the fifteenth day of March, as the low descending sun was "tinting with gold a pathway o'er the sea" that she passed on to that bright shore of her dear promised land.

Notwithstanding that Mrs. Burton, during the last ten months, had been under the belief of inflammatory rheumatism with dropsical complications; and that she had been recalled from the "Valley of the shadow" four times during that period, yet she finally fell asleep quietly but suddenly.

Letitia Estelle Burton was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar P. Johnson, and was born in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, June 25, 1858. Her father was one of the founders of the present city of Plattsmouth. She was educated in private and public schools and was a student at Brownell Hall in Omaha. She was a gifted and talented woman and was broad-minded with a very understanding and sympathetic heart. Warm and loyal in her friendships, and always looking for and seeing the good in everyone and everything. She was an inspiration and a comfort to all who knew her. She excelled in painting and pastel work, while as a writer and composer of songs she received due recognition from some of the finest musicians in the country. Among her best know compositions are "Dear Promised Land," "Summer is Over," and "He Was a Soldier Ladd." Also several of her poems have been published in publications of international circulation.

Mrs. Burton spent nearly all of her life in Plattsmouth where her childhood friendships were made and to which city and friends her heart clung with unflinching loyalty. Since the winter of 1918 she has resided in California in her home in beautiful Hollywood. In proof of her devotion to the town of her birth she composed the following:

The Old Home Town.
I stand on the hill-top at close of day,
And fondly mine eyes looked down,
Where twinkle and sparkle like stars
At play
The lights of the little town,
And I picture each hearthstone,
So cozy and bright,
As sending a message of hope thru
The night
To some soul returning, with heart
filled with yearning,
Cheered on by the beacon light.
Then I life up mine eyes
To the blue vault above
Where shine the bright stars—
God's beacons of Love.

The obsequies of the departed were performed Saturday, March 19th, in Hollywood, and the casket was borne to its last resting place in a crypt in the Mausoleum in Hollywood cemetery, by her three sons, Dean, Leon and Emmerson; her brother O. K. Johnson and his son Harold and Stuart Nares, Dean's brother-in-law. She is survived by her husband, G. F. S. Burton, her three sons, W. Dean of Evanston, Ill., Leon Stanley of Chicago, Ill., and G. Emmerson of Hollywood, Cal.; her two little granddaughters, Betty of Evanston and Vivian Letitia of Hollywood and her brother, O. K. Johnson of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

From Wednesday's Daily—Miss Caroline Baumeister, who was taken to Omaha several weeks ago suffering from a very acute case of appendicitis, has so far recovered that she was able to return home yesterday and is now here at the home of Mrs. M. L. Frederich and family on North 8th street. Miss Baumeister was in very critical condition for several days and her many friends are much pleased that she has so far recovered as to be able to come back to the home well on the highway to recovery.

CONFINED TO HOME

Quarry Case is Taken Under Advisement

Testimony Is All Offered and Matter Will Be Presented in Briefs to Court—To View Scene.

From Wednesday's Daily—The long battled quarry case from Weeping Water wherein the aid of the law is sought to have the blasting operations in the Ole Olson quarry stopped was terminated yesterday afternoon when the last of the testimony was offered and the attorneys in the case were allowed to prepare and present briefs in support of their contentions in the case. In addition to the submitting of the briefs by the attorneys in the case, Judge Begley is to visit the battleground on Friday and look over the land where the quarry is located, the residence of the plaintiff, Mrs. Nelson and others who have testified in the case relative to the situation as to damages or effects of the blasting in the quarry.

A great many of the Weeping Water people have been here during the trial of the case and the outcome of the litigation will be watched with the greatest of interest by all of the residents of that locality where quite a large number are employed in the quarry each season.
