The survey, which was completed Monday after almost a year's research estimated that in 1926 there were 444 farm bankruptcies for every working day. Furthermore, the agricultural population shrank 2,000, 000 persons between 1920 and 1925 while 31,000,000 acres of land went out of agricultural use, the survey reported.

"As a result," concluded Dr. Henry Taylor, who directed the survey, "the cultivated fields are becoming more and more foul with thistles, quack grass and other weeds, which reduce the yield per acre and are a menace to the continued prosperity of the
