Jack Patterson Reaches Home After 3 Years

Self Imposed Exile Ends With Joyful Meeting With Wife and Children in Old Home.

From Thursday's Daily—
Aged with the torturing years of his self imposed exile from the association of his wife and children and parents, Jack Patterson, former cashier of the Bank of Union arrived here this morning to find a friendly atmosphere among old friends and to feel again the joy and happiness of his family.

For the first time since July 1924 when Mr. Patterson disappeared and was supposed to have been drowned in the waters of Lake Michigan, he was able to smile, something that he had not been able to do for these years that he has effaced himself and served as attendant at an oil station in Cleveland, Ohio, where he was located last Friday afternoon by representatives of the insurance companies.

The former cashier came this morning on No. 1 over the Burlington but was taken to Omaha and was met at the train at that place by Sheriff Bert Reed and with companions on the homeward trip, Senator W. B. Banning of Union, the present cashier of the Bank of Union and Deputy Sheriff W. R. Young, he was brought on to this city.

Immediately on reaching this city Mr. Patterson was taken to the court house where his arrival had been preceded by the array of Omaha press photographers and reporters and under the fire of the cameras and questioning of the reporters he made his way to the county court to hear the reading of the complaint that was filed here Friday night and which charges him with embezzlement of a government bond of $1,000 which is alleged was the property of Mrs. Nettie Miller.

To the charge as filed by County Attorney W. G. Kieck for the state Mr. Patterson entered a plea of not guilty and was represented at the hearing by Frank S. Howell of Omaha. The bond was set by Judge A. H. Duxbury at the amount of $1,500 and which was supplied and the former banker allowed to proceed on his way to meet the family that had so long been awaiting his coming.

At the court house Mr. Patterson was met by his father, Thomas M. Patterson, who gave the returned son a most affectionate greeting and Joseph Fetzer, father of Mrs. Patterson was also present to greet the young man and after the hearing at the court house Mr. Fetzer accompanied his son-in-law to the Fetzer home where Mrs. Patterson and children have made their home since the disappearance of Mr. Patterson.

Mr. Patterson states that the years have been trying ones to him and the relief that the exile is over is more than words can express and he has been delighted with the friendly feeling that the old friends here have given him. His once dark and luxuriant hair is greyed as that of a man of sixty and his face thin and marked with the lines of care showed the effects of the three years that he has spent alone.

When leaving here Mr. Patterson weighed 187 pounds and bore but little traces of his 35 years but today he has fallen off to 157 pounds and his head greyed and careworn face makes him a man of seemingly fifty-five or sixty years.

While he has spent these years in grief at his supposed death his disappearance has been followed closely by investigators of the insurance companies and their chase over the continent on tips and rumors has cost them some $10,000 it is claimed. The whereabouts of the missing man was revealed in a letter sent to Plattsmouth last December and which was turned over to the insurance companies last Thursday and immediately followed by the apprehension of Patterson.

Worry over the loans that had been made in the deflation period and personal obligations was largely the cause ascribed by Mr. Patterson for his decision to disappear and to leave his family and friends consider him as dead, he stated to the officers. At times he had become so worried that he was unable to clearly see his way out of the difficulties and led to the thought of suicide and the final decision to disappear and leave the impression of his drowning. After he had left Chicago he had wandered in search of work and many times had lived on twenty-five cents a day and slept wherever was possible until he secured the position in the oil station that he kept until he was located by the searchers the last week. He had been in the employ of the oil company from August 1924 down to the present time and had led a lonely life with but few acquaintances that he had made at the oil station.

Deputy Sheriff Young states that the associates at the oil station were very strong in their friendship for Mr. Patterson and gave every demonstration of their loyalty and faith in him.

Deputy Sheriff Young who accompanied Patterson back from Cleveland states that the young man was more than pleased to see the deputy and Senator Banning and came willingly and gladly back to the old home and seemed cheered and heartened more and more as the train came westward carrying him to the old home and his loved ones.

HARVEST WHEAT CROP

From Friday's Daily—
Frank E. Vallery, well known real estate man, has just returned from a very pleasant trip in the west where he and the family have spent several weeks in both business and pleasure. The wheat harvest in Perkins county has been the largest in many years and the great wealth of the golden grain had called Mr. Vallery to the west to assist in the harvest, he having some 508 acres in the wheat and which was one of the greatest crops in the history of western Nebraska. The wheat of Mr. Vallery, or a large portion of it was in the train that was sent from Grant to Omaha, one of the largest grain shipments ever made from western Nebraska. After the wheat harvest Mr. and Mrs. Vallery and the family motored out to Estes Park and Grand Lake where they enjoyed a camping trip and a rest from the heat of the Nebraska regions.

While in the west Mr. Vallery sold a small part of his land holdings in that locality for $8,000 cash, the great crops of this year having served as a great land boost.

En route home Mr. Vallery stopped at the former Parmele ranch in Cass county in which he is interested, and enjoyed a visit there and looking over the ranch which is one of the best in the state.

CASE IS DISMISSED

From Friday's Daily—
This morning in the county court the case of the State of Nebraska vs. James Topp, was dismissed just after the case had started in on the grand before Judge A. H. Duxbury.

The case was one in which J. V. Pitman, D. A. Topfiff, Ivan Deles, Derner, Nick Frederick, Herman Wohlfarth and Roy Gerking, had made complaint that the defendant had been guilty of threatening language and placed the parties in great fear of injury from the defendant.

The defendant had entered a plea of not guilty and was represented at the hearing by Attorney D. O. Dwyer and the defense had summoned a large array of witnesses for their side of the case, John Steffens, Omar Schlichtemeier, Frank, Paul, Ronald and Gladys Schlichtemeier, Joe Green and Mike Linnach being summoned to testify in the case.

The case was dismissed before the defendant had placed any witnesses on the stand.

HAVE A ROUGH TIME

From Friday's Daily—
Deputy Sheriff Rex Young and Constable Tom Svoboda had a very exciting experience yesterday when they were called upon to take Stanley Hall, a resident of Rock Bluffs to the state hospital for treatment. The unfortunate man had suffered an outbreak on Wednesday night and the vicinity of the Hall home was guarded by neighbors who took this precaution to prevent the man injuring himself or anyone else until the officers could arrive. It required great deal of force to overcome the man and strap him so that he could be placed in the car and the ride of the deputy and constable to Lincoln was far from a joyous trip and they felt relieved when their patient was safely lodged at the hospital.

Reopening of Parmele Proves Gala Occasion

Theatre Is Packed to the Doors Last Evening at Both Performances—A Fine Playhouse.

From Friday's Daily—
The residents of this community last evening gave striking proof of their appreciation of the splendid program of improvement that the management of the Parmele theatre has carried out in the past ten days and which places their playhouse among the best in the state.

Long before the hour set for the formal opening of the theatre the spectators commenced to gather at the theatre and when the doors were thrown open there was a very rapid influx of the public that soon filled the theatre and enjoyed the opportunity of viewing the beautiful interior of the building as well as the great organ which has been placed in the showhouse in the past ten days.

The entire interior of the theatre has been redecorated and made most attractive to the eye, the interior being finished in soft tones of buff and dull blue, the large ceiling being in a gray that blends nicely with the shades used on the lower floor. The boxes and balcony facings are finished in white with the ornamental designs being touched in rich colors that fit into the decorative plan very nicely.

The interior of the theatre is beautiful also by new electrical settings that have been installed, the entire series of lights for the house having been replaced and to light the dress circle the "sunked lights" with the brilliant finish effect have been placed and also which adds to the pleasure and comfort of the audience.

The outstanding feature of the theatre and that which held the closest attention of the audience last evening was the large and magnificent Wurritzer organ which has made the completing glory of the most popular show house and which under the masterly touch of Carl Weigel, master organist, gave forth the most beautiful of melodies. This organ has been installed at a cost of some $10,000 to the theatre management and is a feature that will be most fully appreciated by the amusement loving public of the community. The console is placed in the lower right hand box and the pipes lead to the upper boxes where the sound waves find their way through the theatre.

Last evening Mr. Weigel gave a short organ prelude opening at 6:30 and which gave the opportunity of hearing the different features of the organ as the wizard of the keys gave a very delightful rendition of the high standard numbers and employing a large number of the special features of which the organ is possible. Mr. Weigel was given a fitting reception by the public as well as L. L. Roberts, erecting superintendent of the organ company, they being introduced by A. O. Moore, of the management of the theatre.

As the first flickering lights of the wonderful heart gripping feature "The Magic Garden" was shown the organ caught the sweet and haunting melody of "Amaryllis" and which was woven throughout the score of the picture and in the story of love and beauty. The screen production of the last novel of Gene Stratton-Porter, is one of the rarest charm and in its beauty carries a wonderful message of true love and the faithfulness of youth and maiden the story being one of the finest that has been offered in this city on the screen. The public fully appreciated the picture with its musical settings that placed all of the large audience in the mood to enter into the story of the youthful lovers.

In honor of the re-opening the management had the gift of a large number of baskets of flowers from the various civic organizations and citizens and which were grouped around the boxes and the sides of the stage.

This addition to the city is one that everyone in the community can feel proud and should show their appreciation of the enterprise of Messrs. Clويد & Moore in taking this step to give the people of Cass county the very best in the way of an amusement place as well as the highest class of pictures. This firm has offered some very splendid screen productions in the past but which the fitting surroundings and the wonderful musical settings that they now have the amusement loving public can find more wonderful hours of pleasure at the Parmele.

C. M. T. C. at Ft. Crook Finishes Its 3d Week

August 21st Parent Day and on Monday, Aug. 22nd Governor's Day at the Fort.

The third week of the camp is half gone. The camp, which is the first of its kind ever held in Nebraska, is half over, and success has already been assured.

The camp is located on the parade ground of the 17th U. S. Infantry at Fort Crook, ten miles south of Omaha, on U. S. Highway No. 75.

The setting is a most beautiful one, the parade ground is kept closely clipped all the time and presents an appearance of green velvet, surrounded by a high hedge of beautiful and stately shade trees, among which are the fine brick officer's quarters of the 17th Infantry, and opposite them, on the opposite side of the parade ground and beneath similar beautiful shade trees are the 17th Infantry Barracks.

A car line runs from the city of Omaha to the post for the use of those desiring it. In addition to this a bus and taxi service is maintained to Omaha.

The six hundred and twenty-seven boys from over the states of Nebraska and Iowa form one battalion of four companies, named officially as A, B, C, and D. Each company has a double row of pyramid tents, such as are used by the regulars and six boys make each tent their home. These tents are new and rainproof, they have a new floor, which is raised six inches from the ground. The boys each have a gold medal cot, mattresses, sheets, and blankets and are as comfortable as pens in a pod, and things are equally neat in each tent as said pens. It is marvelous indeed, and the things they are learning about neatness, orderliness, obedience and sanitation, to say nothing of their development caused by supervised exercise and regular habits, will ever be with them to their great credit.

On Monday and Tuesday of this week the boys were on the range at Plattsmouth, ten miles from Fort Crook. They marched out Monday morning at the rate of two and one-half miles an hour, which is the customary rate in the army. A ten minute halt being made every hour in which the men adjust their clothing and equipment, and rest.

Upon arriving at the rifle range the small shelter tents were pitched, blankets and equipment deposited therein and range practice immediately begun at two hundred yards. Many of the boys proved themselves real experts with the rifle and three of them, Frederick R. Young Company "B" from Omaha, Nebraska, Richard B. McMahill, Company "E", Omaha Nebraska, and R. C. Ellis, Company "A" from Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa, have been selected to go to Des Moines, Iowa, to compete in a preliminary contest, from which a team of fifteen men will go to the National Rifle Matches now being held at Camp Perry, Ohio, where they will compete against similar C. M. T. C. and other teams from all over the country.

Meals were served while at the range from the big army rolling kitchens just as was done during the war, and gave every boy a real thrill.

The return march was begun at 1:00 p. m., Tuesday, and completed in fine style. Not a man fell out either going or coming, which is a fine record.

Tuesday evening was given over to boxing and wrestling matches. A large open air pavilion has been provided on the parade ground with bleacher seats to accommodate all who come. Several hundred people attend these events.

Dr. Olga Stastney, with a large group of "Overseas Girls" were in personal charge of the dance, which was held in the Service Club and was a huge success. The dance this week, will be held Thursday evening and on the open air tennis court, weather permitting.

A few red letter days are fast approaching which you must not forget. August 21 is Parent's Day. Every parent is especially urged to visit the camp and look it over. Nothing will so convince you of its merits as a personal survey of it and being on Sunday, your son will not have a thing to do but show you around and tell you about it. You will be asked to have dinner as his guest in the big Mess Hall where all are seated at one setting. A note to the Moral Officers saying you will be present for dinner will assist him greatly in preparing enough food for the crowd.

The following day, August 22, is National Guard and Governor's day. The governors of Iowa and Nebraska are expected and word has already been received from Colonel Amos Thomas of the guard that he and his staff will be present during the afternoon. A parade will be held, followed by an inspection of the camp band concert, and boxing.

Call No. 6 with your order for job printing.
