JOY OVER GRANDDAUGHTER

Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Hartman are rejoicing over a telegram from their son-in-law, Rev. J. E. Hermann, of Lovell, Wyoming, announcing the birth of a daughter at their home on Saturday, August 13th, 1927.

Mrs. Hermann was formerly Miss Molly Hartman, fifth daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Hartman. Their wedding on August 15th, last year was one of the outstanding social events of the community. The bride formerly taught school and was a teacher at Lovell before her marriage.

This makes three little granddaughters for the family of Rev. Hartman and they are receiving the congratulations of their many friends over the event.

Widow is Killed as Cars Crash at Blind Crossing

Mrs. Hans Zimmerman of Springfield Was on Way to Omaha—Three Boys Orphaned.

Three boys were orphaned Friday afternoon when Mrs. Hans Zimmerman, 35, widow, of near Springfield, Neb., was killed instantly in an auto collision at the Hansen crossing intersection on the Thirty-sixth street road, three miles south of the Sarpy county line near South Omaha. Her son, George, 10, riding with her, was only slightly hurt. The other two sons who were at home, are Ralph, 12, and Glenn, 11.

Mrs. Zimmerman, on her way to South Omaha to shop, drove into the Thirty-sixth street road from the west, and collided with the car of Randall Biart, editor of the Sarpy County Agriculturist. Mr. Biart was not hurt.

Neither car was overturned, but when the front fenders came together, were spun around in the road, landing almost parallel on the opposite side of the road. Mrs. Zimmerman was not thrown from the car, nor was the boy. She was dead at the wheel, and it is presumed the crash broke her neck.

According to the boy, his mother was hugging the high-weed side of the road. This would put her on the wrong side. He said he did not see the Biart car until they were on the intersection.

Blames Obstructing Weeds. "The high weeds, nearly 10 feet tall, obscuring the road turning into South Thirty-sixth street, caused the accident," said Biart. Mrs. Zimmerman rounded the curve on the inside, toward me. I swerved out to try to pass around her on the outside track, and a moment later she pulled across to try to get onto her right hand side of the road, and crashed into my car. It was unavoidable, I guess."

Immediately after the crash, Biart telephone authorities. The body was taken to the Brewster mortuary.

Mrs. Zimmerman's husband died during the influenza epidemic that swept the country in 1919.

George Gosch, father of Mrs. Zimmerman, who left his home at Papillion recently to visit a son, George, Jr., living on a farm near Winnetoon, Neb., was notified of the tragedy by telegram.

The youngest of the three orphans was taken to the home of Mrs. J. H. Doebkin at Papillion, a sister of the dead woman. Another sister, Mrs. William Otten, living three miles south of Papillion, took the other two boys. Who will be done with the three has not yet been decided.

An inquest was held today at 10 o'clock at Papillion.

HERE FROM SWITZERLAND

From Saturday's Daily—
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henni have a very interesting visitor who arrived on Wednesday to make an extended visit. The visitor is Mrs. Henni's sister, Miss Susanna Prillman, and she comes from Weinfelden, Switzerland. This is Miss Prillman's first visit to America and the first meeting of the two sisters in seventeen years. Mrs. Henni having gone back to her home at that time for a visit. Last summer Miss Marie Kaufmann of Plattsburgh visited Miss Prillman and she brought back to Mrs. Henni a promise from her sister, that if she returned this summer to Europe Miss Prillman would accompany her back for a visit. The sister has now made good her promise.

Miss Prillman was an interested spectator at Mr. Henni's shop on the morning after her arrival, as he cut steak. She finds everything very different, even to the manner of cutting steaks off a quarter of beef.

Miss Prillman will visit here for several months and will then go to Iowa and on to the Dakotas where she will visit relatives—So. Omaha Sun.

Feel Confident of Oil in the Nehawka Dome

Promoters of the Drilling Project Feel That All Indications Are for Oil.

From Saturday's Daily—
The fact that oil exists in the Nehawka dome where drilling operations will start in a short time, is the earnest belief of the men who have gotten back of the work of securing drillers and having a new test well put down in that locality.

Robert Druessdowe of Omaha, well known political leader of Omaha and state representative from Douglas county, is one of the most enthusiastic of the boosters for the Nehawka oil project and is laboring hard to see the tests made of the well that will be sunk this coming fall in the endeavor to find out whether or not the geological reports and findings as to oil existing in this state are correct.

Instruments used to endeavor to locate the existence of oil in the soil have given a fine showing of the Nehawka field and the state investigations and reports have long maintained that if oil existed in this state it was in the Nehawka dome as that locality compares with the other localities over the country where oil wells have been produced.

In a great many of the oil fields of the country there have been several wells sunk before the oil in paying quantities was uncovered and this may be the case in the Nehawka field as the well sunk two years ago on the Z. W. Shradler place was sealed up and closed by the company that did the drilling and reported as being a dry well although there were a number of very favorable indications of the existence of oil bearing sands and rock found in the course of the drilling operation.

The Nehawka people are very enthusiastic over the oil drilling project and all over the country a great deal of interest is shown in the work of sinking the well which it is hoped will start soon and give another test as to the existence of the oil in our community. The finding of a paying oil well in our community would be a great thing for all this section of Nebraska and add materially to the wealth of the state, as other wells would soon follow in case that this test well proves to be a success.

CIRCUS DAY DRAWS CROWDS

From Saturday's Daily—
The visit of the Robbins Brothers Circus at Glenwood today attracted a number from this city to the Iowa city to enjoy the excellent little circus that is making a number of the towns in this vicinity. The circus is one of the neatest and best conducted on the road and has proved very pleasing at the cities where they have shown and come to Glenwood from Fremont and leave Sunday for Clarinda, Iowa, for the show on Monday.

The lack of a suitable tract of ground in this city has deprived the community here of enjoying circus entertainments in the past years as the good sized shows have been unable to secure places where they could stage their performances and the residents here have had to enjoy their circus performances at our neighboring towns.

LINE MAY QUIT SERVING EAGLE

If the town of Eagle insists on charging an occupation tax of $10 per bus, the Lincoln-Nebraska City Coach Line will seek permission from the State Railway Commission to go from Lincoln to Palmyra by the way of Bennett and Cheney instead of by way of Eagle, it was learned Thursday.

At present, six busses are serving Eagle, which would mean an occupation of a total of $30 for the company, and officials of the company said their business from Eagle did not warrant continuing service there if the tax is to be made.

Official notification of the tax has not yet been made to the company, but when the notice is received, an appeal will be filed with the Railway Commission.—Nebraska City News-Press.

Chicken Thieves Again at James

Dozen Springers Are Taken—Visitors Are Apparently Frightened Away.

Chicken thieves appear to have a grudge against William James, Otse county farmer and head of the Anti-Chicken Thief association, because his home has been visited twice within the past two weeks and chickens stolen. The last visit was on Tuesday night but the thieves were frightened away before they had succeeded in getting many of his choicest springers.

Tuesday night between 10 and 11 o'clock while Mr. James was in Union attending band practice a car was parked in the road northwest of the home while several men made a raid on the James hen house. Considerable noise was made by the thieves which aroused Mrs. James and she came down stairs and turned on the lights which frightened the thieves away after they had succeeded in getting about a dozen fowls.

Sheriff Ryder was notified and made a hurried trip to the scene and a search of the community was made but no trace of the thieves was found.

It is believed the thieves are familiar with the habits of Mr. James known that he attends band practice in Union the first and third Tuesday nights of the month and then chooses these nights as the ones on which to visit his home.

In the raid made two weeks ago between 150 and 175 spring chickens averaging about three pounds each were taken and up to the present no trace of these have been found.—Nebraska City News-Press.

SOME STORM

On Thursday afternoon a little after four o'clock this section was visited by a severe wind and rain storm that lasted for about an hour. The rain came down in torrents and the streams on the north and south sides of town were swelled to a considerable degree. Corn fields were flattened and presented a sorry sight, however it was the opinion that corn would not be hurt much and would straighten up again. Trees in town suffered and limbs were torn off of many of them everywhere. The ground was strewn with leaves showing that the wind was rather terrific. Wm. Hultish and family returned from Lincoln in their car and were in the heaviest of the rain and Bill says that it sure was a real rain. Frank Lorenz and Emil Rosenow were close to Gretna when the storm was at its fiercest and they say that they could not get through by the way of Louisville and went around by the way of Lincoln. The rain was what was needed and will do a lot of good in spite of the fact that the wind did a good deal of damage.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

A BAD ACCIDENT

Duane Garrison very fortunately escaped serious injury Monday noon when he lost control of the Ford utility truck he was driving and plunged over the curb just on the north side of the east bridge and landed against a telephone and light pole. Duane had gone uptown to do a small errand for his mother. He was returning home at a smart rate of speed, and upon hitting the railroad tracks, lost control of the car and after swerving around for quite a distance, it jumped the curb and struck the light pole, throwing the lad out onto the ground in the ditch. He was quite badly cut and bruised, and was immediately taken to Avoca where the injuries were looked after by a physician. According to popular opinion, and eye witnesses, the light pole probably saved the boy's life.—Weeping Water Republican.
