Women who tell everything they hear manage to hear a lot.

Nine men out of ten overestimate their importance in the world.

An ounce of intuition is sometimes better than a pound of tuition.

When a man is in love he gives. When a woman is in love she forgives.

There is neither jealousy nor selfishness back of friendship that is worth while.

The straight and narrow path is more than wide enough for the traffic it has to carry.

More than half the motorcycles made in this country are ridden in foreign countries.

A lot of youngsters are glad for school to start because in summer there's no place to play hockey from.

If you would retain a man's friendship don't try to show him that he isn't half as smart as he thinks he is.

The hard-boiled sergeant who chanted that he couldn't "get 'em up in the morning" should have advertised.

It is an amusing reflection while fishing that there is after all almost no sense in fishing for anything but whales.

As much timber has been wasted by forest fires in the United States as has been used since the first settlement.

These non-stop air races are spectacular, but full of tragedies; but out of them all something new is learned every time.

To meet the growing demands of a growing city and at the same time keep down the tax levy, is the perplexing question.

In an unofficial 15-minute test Lieut. Williams has flown at the rate of 250 miles an hour. That's going some and then some.

Three able-bodied men are to run against Lady Astor in the general election. Is that, we'd like to ask, the English notion of fair play?

Gov. Byrd of Virginia, a brother of Commander Byrd, the aviator, is a personage in his own right, whose name is on the list of possibilities for the democratic nomination for president.

After a careful survey of traffic conditions and laws, the American Automobile Association reaches the conclusion that in our country the trend is toward diversification in regulation, rather than toward standardized rules applying to all cities. In other words, the community now is forced to treat its own problem in its own way, without much aid or assistance from the experience of other cities.

Practically all the tractors on farms of Spain are from America.

All things considered, legislators do not have a royal time of it.

One-half of the silk exported by China comes to the United States.

The fishing season lasts only about so long, but the lying seasons go on forever.

The public mind is the aggregate of many. But wielding it properly is another matter.

Only the successful man is in a position to value the world's praise at its true worth.

Only the successful man is in a position to value the world's praise at its true worth.

London calls Jimmy Walker a "Night Mayor." No doubt the applause is a horse laugh.

One of the principal troubles with the fast young man is that he isn't going in the right direction.

There were giants in those days and any baseball fan will tell you there are Giants in these days.

In the burning of a trainload of automobiles at Detroit, quite a few pedestrians may have been saved.

A Kentucky cavern is almost as bad as the Pacific ocean when it comes to picking a place to be lost.

This is about the time of the year when the candidates believe in making hay whether the sun shines or not.

A mine operator is about the only man who can make plenty of money by running his business into the ground.

Good roads and streets are among the first necessities and the best assets of any city or other community.

It keeps a person so busy in this town looking at the new model cars that he hardly has time to dodge the old ones.

A beam system of wireless communication of high speed type will soon be placed in use between New York and London.

Unless the weather makes a radical change, the corn borer regiment isn't going to have a hard time destroying the stalks next spring.

We believe we'd rather be bequeathed $25,000 outright than one-third of the residue of the $40,000-000 estate, when settled.

Flogging in Alabama has in the last few years become so widely practiced that it has been thought necessary to make it a major crime.

What we want is a meteorologist bureau that can predict blow-outs so that we can postpone the fishing trip until the signs are more favorable.

The past legislative session will see around 20,000 new laws enacted. These are the fruits of ingenious minds to puzzle and torment people.

The government bureau of standards by experiment says it requires 54 pounds to break an egg, supposedly from the end. Thus our knowledge is improved.

Chicago murderers will average almost one every day. The record show but a small per cent of the murders receive any form of punishment for their deeds.

About a dozen cities are after the Republican national convention of 1928, which indicates that Republicans must have a reputation around the hotels as good spenders.

There is some grounds for the modern belief that precocity is genius. It is genius for work, if the accepted dictionary definition of the word "genius" is a supreme native endowment.

A food of matter has been sent over the wires to the effect that administration leaders are favoring Secretary Hoover as the choice of the national convention. However, just as well to keep an open mind.

ONE BLOW TO CRIME

The problem of crime has been phrased more profoundly, but never in words more patly suited to certain of its now salient aspects, than in a letter to Capper's Weekly from a writer who begins, "I have studied the criminal for thirty-three years; I have been his lawyer, prosecutor, and judge." This observer, who evidently believes that common sense should be the beginning of philosophy put into four terse sentences his explanation of the increase of "The social worker lays it to a crime in the United States, wrong family relation, the educator to wrong curricula, the minister to wrong religious attitude, the wets lay it to the dregs, the dregs to the wets. Every man who has a horse to trade jockeys at his post. But what is the truth? Here it is: The criminal comes up to the bar of justice, and through some hocus pocus, loophole, technicality, bond delivery, or what-not, he gets away, and becomes a repeater." In our own way of thinking, the social worker, the educator, and the minister all are right from their several points of view; moreover, the doctor, the statesman, the business man, the poet, if a truly great poet, could add much from their own vantage grounds of seeing. But an important part of the truth, though by no means all, and a part now much in need of being stressed, has been caught by this practical-minded watcher who for a third of a century has known the criminal lawyer, his prosecutor, and his judge. Close the loopholes, cut away the technicalities, put an end to the hocus pocus by which criminals, and particularly the habitual ones, escape justice, and a telling blow will have been struck for the decrease of crime.

LET IT SIZZLE!

If this had been an ordinary summer, there might be excuse for peevishness about the abnormally hot September. Usually people in this part of the country feel they have had their share of hot weather in July and August, and they are aggrieved if it stretches into September.

But this year things are different. The wet spring delayed the planting of corn and the cold, wet summer retarded its growth. A hot, dry spell was needed to fill out the ears and bring the crop to maturity. These days when the mercury goes to 90 or 100 degrees may be uncomfortable. But the discomfort they bring is nothing compared to the prosperity they insure the farmers. A fortnight or so more of good, warm weather, with the frost holding off and the Nebraska farmers will be in better shape than they have been for years.

So keep the fans going and bring on the iced tea. Who minds a little heat? And, besides, we can't do anything about it!

Are You Really Well?

For Good Health There Must Be Proper Kidney Action.

DO you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and achy, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty and burning in passage? Know that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. More than 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

FIFTY WARS IN SIXTY YEARS

The United States Veterans' Bureau, after some microscopic scrutiny of our military, issues a circular which proclaims that beginning with 1860 and ending with the World War of 1917-1918, the United States army has participated in precisely fifty wars. It is a safe guess that no layman can offhand name the fifty, or even half of them. It is an almost equally safe assumption that a week or two of painful research would be required to complete the list.

Except for the Civil War, the war with Spain, and the Philippine and Cuban and Porto Rico disturbances connected with or resulting from this conflict, the China relief expedition, the troubles with Huerta and Villa in Mexico, and the great war in Europe, all these wars have been with American Indians. And it should not include the little affairs settled by the American marines in Latin-America without the assistance of the army.

The list of Indian wars is amazing to one who has not made a special study of this phase of American history. Almost constantly from 1860 to 1880, the army was engaged in Indian fighting. Some of the "wars" were brief affairs with very small casualty lists, others were protracted and bloody. Some of them were absolutely necessary for the protection of settlers and pioneers, others were of questionable righteousness. And many of the really important Indian wars were prior to 1860 and are not listed by the Veterans' Bureau.

For a supposedly peaceful nation, we have done a good deal of fighting to record almost a war a year for sixty years. It is more pleasing to record that since the World War, we have not had a war or even a hint of war. Perhaps we had enough in the eighteen months to last us a long time.

NO MORE FREEDOM

Many Americans talk about freedom as though it had vanished from our country. It is true that a curb has been placed upon it, but there seems to be an extra generous measure of freedom remaining.

Nineteenths of our freedom we never use. The great freedom of our minds to roam unrestricted through the history of the ages and thru the marvelous finding of this newer day—is this freedom which bears the mark of modern America. We have likewise the liberty of conscience, the privilege of searching out for ourselves the great truths of soul and mind to make ours fuller than the lives of those who have gone before. To us is given a free range of the arts not open to all citizens in years gone by. New inventions give us a freedom from shackles which for ages have restricted human pleasures and advancement.

No more freedom in our country? Certainly there is—plenty of it for those who conceive liberty as an agent lifted above the heads of mortals, rather than one catering only to destructive habits and desires.
