From Saving Comes Having

An account in our bank is easily converted into a horn of plenty, as even small amounts deposited regularly soon count up and will in time work wonders.

Every dollar you deposit makes it easier to get another, as money begets money, and opportunity waits on him who has money. The richest man in the world began by saving his pennies. Deposit more and have more, and make your bank a stepping stone to greater prosperity.

THE BANK OF UNION
W. B. Banning, Cashier—Union, Nebr.

James M. Palmer of Nehawka was a visitor in Union on Friday of last week and was looking after some business matters for a short time.

In the ball game which was staged between the Union team and that of Weeping Water on last Sunday, the visitors won by a score of six to one.

David Murray surely knows how to grow good corn, as we observed by the sample of five good ears which he has on display at the store of R. D. Stine.

Tony Sudduth and Jack Roddy were called to Omaha on last Monday to look after some business matters and made the trip in the auto of Mr. Sudduth.

Mrs. F. L. Haynes of Missouri Valley, Iowa, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert O. Buehler, for the week, and enjoying the visit very pleasantly.

Blaine Porter has purchased a very fine Universal coupe from the Charlie Atteberry garage, and which will serve this gentleman in fine shape for his transportation needs.

Otto Eilers, living over in Otoe county has been painting the house and barn at the father's home. Mr. Jacob Eilers, firmly believes that a good coat of paint is a good insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Porter were visiting in Omaha on last Saturday where they went to visit with W. L. Taylor, who is recovering from an operation which he underwent a short time since.

Luther Meade and daughter, Miss Ruby, of Liberty, were over to Union early this week and were visiting with their many friends here as well as looking after some business matters as well.

Charles Swan was in town on last Monday afternoon from his farm and was making some purchases for the purpose of making some changes in the hen house to better accommodate the fowls in their home life.

John Carmack of Omaha, who is a traveling salesman, and a friend of Mr. P. F. Rihm, was a caller for a short time on the merchants of Union on last Monday evening and was also visiting with his friend, Mr. Rihm.

Mr. Charles McIntire and wife of University Place were spending the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Upton on last Sunday, driving down for the occasion in their car. Mesdames McIntire and Upton are sisters.

C. H. Taylor and wife, with their daughter, were visiting in Union on last Sunday, they coming from Lincoln where the family have been visiting for some time past, called there on account of the illness of the mother of Mrs. Taylor.

The Campfire Girls were enjoying a hike and also a fine supper a few nights since when they, in a body, went to the farm of John Larch and prepared a tempting supper of bacon and eggs, which they partook of and thereafter returned home.

Jesse Pell and folks were visiting in Omaha last Sunday, being called there by the illness of W. L. Taylor, who is just recovering from an operation which he underwent some time since and is feeling better at this time but desires much to be taken home.

Jesse Pell, believing in the best when it comes to cars, has selected a coupe from the excellent line of Chevrolet cars which is carried by the Charles Atteberry garage, and made a purchase. We believe Mr. Pell's selection was excellent and are sure he will be well pleased with his new wagon.

The social dances which Mr. Oscar Nailor has been providing for each week on Friday night have been changed to Saturday evening and will in the future be held on that date. The dance will not open until after the band concert, and the people will thus be provided with two entertainments for the evening.

Mont Robb, who has been kept to his bed for some time on account of his recent illness, is rejoicing in the fact that he has been able to be up and about, and enjoy the matter of getting out some. His legs are troubling him with the former rheumatic pains some but he is hoping that they will also soon be all right again.

The home of Greely Bell and wife was made happy a short time since by the arrival of a very fine young lady which calls Fred Bell and wife grandfather and grandmother, and all are happy as the young lady and mother are getting along nicely under the care of Mrs. H. M. Christweiser. The father is doing tolerably well.

Contractors who are to sink the well for the Union City Water Works arrived with their machinery on last Saturday and during the fore part of the week got to work on the well which is located on the land of Mr.

L. G. Todd. This is a step towards a water supply which is to protect the city from fire and as well supply good water service.

Paul Swan, believing in the proposition that a good painting of the home and out buildings is a good thing, has, during the spare time, not spare as to that for he has much work to look after, but anyway he crowded some hours each day in the painting until he now has the house nearly finished and will soon be thru with it and the out buildings. They are looking much better for the work and paint.

W. H. Porter has been having a friendly contest with the Ford Truck which he has had for some time and which had given him much good service, but has like the old oaken bucket, not been meeting the present demands for transportation and so has given away to a real new and up-to-date Chevrolet truck which he recently purchased from Charles Atteberry and which is just the wagon which Mr. Porter has needed.

Winfield McNamee, a son of Mrs. Nancy McNamee, and who has been making his home in the west for some time, with his wife and two children, visited in Union last week and is visiting with his mother and brother, Amos. Mr. McNamee had not been in Union for their past seventeen years and that was when called by the death of the father. He is finding many changes in the town and country and the people since then, but enjoying the visit very much.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Becker and daughter, Ethel, and Mr. Otto Eilers were over to Omaha on last Sunday where they went for a visit with Mr. W. L. Taylor, a brother of Mrs. Becker, who underwent an operation some time since in a hospital at that place. The party found Mr. Taylor somewhat improved and the physicians removed the stitches closing the incision, but were not willing that Mr. Taylor, while he was better to return to his home as yet.

After having lived in Cass county all his life, R. D. Stine, who is a good mixer, and has visited almost all the remote places in this county, was for the first time a visitor at King Hill which is a very prominent eminence near Rock Bluffs, and was accompanied by his two sons, John and George Stine, while the other members of the family were visiting with friends in Union. Reuben says that the scenery about the historic site of one of the first cities in Nebraska, is magnificent.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Furlong was suddenly taken with a sinking spell while attending to the baby, and when the baby fussed very much, the mother went to see why and found the little daughter lying on the floor apparently dead. The mother, alarmed, called neighbors and with the energetic treatment of Mr. H. M. Christweiser was able to resuscitate the little one after some time of treatment. Since then the little one has been showing improvement and is in her normal condition. Dr. Gilmour, being called said it must have been caused by something which the little one had eaten.

For Sale

Concert Postponed.
On account of the rain which came with such force and so suddenly the band concert which was to have been given on the streets of Union on last Saturday evening was postponed until the coming Saturday when it will be given. Look for this event for there will be served some excellent music and we are certain all will enjoy it.

Married in Union Sunday
A happy wedding was held on last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moore, when Mr. Moore's sister, Miss Elizabeth Moore, was united in marriage with Mr. Everett Towle of Lushton. Miss Moore, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Moore of Lushton, and a graduate of the high school of that place, and a most accomplished young lady. The groom is a young business man of that place and is engaged in the automobile business, handling the Buick. The happy couple departed for Hot Springs South Dakota, where they will spend some two weeks and will be at home to their friends after October 15th. The wedding ceremony which was a pretty home wedding was conducted by the Rev. W. A. Taylor of the First Baptist church of Union.

Wheat Farmer Solving Problems by Better Methods

Combines to Do the Work of Harvesting and Elimination of Smut—Aid the Big Crop.

"We do not hear much about the farm problem through the Middle West, where golden wheat fields are yielding unprecedented returns," states F. L. Haylor of Denver, Agricultural agent for the Burlington and Colorado & Southern Railways, who has just returned from a tour of the wheat growing sections in Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas.

"We hear nothing at all about radical legislation for farm relief thru Nebraska where farmers are harvesting one of the biggest crops the state has ever known. Reports indicate that over 75 million bushels of wheat will be harvested in Nebraska this year in comparison to 50 million in 1926. Colorado's wheat crop is estimated at over 24 million bushels compared to 18 million last year. While it has not been expected that Kansas would exceed the high peak of last year's yield of 150 million bushels, it is reported that 111 million bushels will be harvested from Kansas wheat fields this year.

"It is of particular interest," adds Mr. Taylor, "that this year, even in the districts where we have had the heaviest harvest, there has been no talk of labor shortage as in previous years when the cry came for help at the busy season and cities were scouring to secure even untrained harvest help at the shrdlutaol hrdj vest hands.

Many new combines are doing the work this year and doing it cheaper. To harvest the old way cost the farmer three times as much as to harvest with the combine. Besides this saving of labor cost in the field, the coming of the combine makes an immeasurable difference to the farmer's bank account. For harvest time has always been the biggest bugbear in farm woman's calendar. Coming in great numbers during the most torrid days of summer, they cause many extra meals to be cooked over hot farm-kitchen ranges. The new regime of the combine brings relief to the farm woman on one of her greatest problems. And in solving the farmer's labor difficulties, it also enables him to secure a greater profit from his crop.

"Another step toward solution of the wheat farmer's problems is the growing knowledge of successful means to combat the heavy losses sustained from wheat smut. Not only does smut reduce the yield in the field, but it also reduces the price which the farmer receives for his wheat. The presence of only five percent of smut in wheat, which is a 10-acre field will cause a loss of $286.00 at present prices. Last year it was estimated that wheat smut robbed Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas farmers of eighteen million dollars. Farmers are beginning to realize that they must do something to prevent smut. Many more farmers in these states will treat seed this year with copper carbonate dust as result of the operation of the Burlington wheat smut special. Mr. Taylor, who had charge of this train on its recent tour, advises that 25,000 people visited the wheat special at 41 stops. "By far the majority were actual farmers who took a very definite interest in the train and its exhibits," states Mr. Taylor. "It was not an unusual sight for farmers to make a second trip through the special to study the exhibits and ask questions concerning methods of treating seed for control of smut. The exhibits brought to their attention the great losses caused by smut. Due emphasis was placed on the value of using standard varieties of certified seed wheat to increase yields and to eliminate mixtures now found in much of the wheat delivered to the Omaha market."

Four exhibit cars were used in the wheat special to portray the two major joints stressed in the campaign. The first car, dealing with the amount of wheat destroyed yearly by smut, was prepared by the Colorado Agricultural College; graphic illustrations were shown of the life cycle of the smut spore; effective control measures were portrayed. The second car was an especially equipped flat car on which seed treating demonstrations were made with commercial and home-made treating machines. The third car, prepared by the Nebraska Agricultural College, was devoted to methods used in developing new varieties, the certification of grains and value of using certified seed. The fourth car, dealing with the grading and inspection of grain at the terminal markets, was prepared by the Omaha Grain Exchange.

Val Kuska of Omaha, Colonization Agent for the Burlington, who also accompanied the special, advises that last fall M. T. Frederick, manager of the Farmers' Union Elevator at Vantage, installed a smut treating machine and treated seed free for all his customers. A two cent per bushel charge was made to non-customers. Between eight and ten thousand bushels of seed were treated in this machine.

"As a result of the wheat smut special," states Mr. Kuska, "Mr. Frederick in this year adding a combined grader and cleaner for his customers. The Farmers' Co-operative Elevator of Farmington renders a free service to all farmers of the community. At Palsade, Mr. Krotter, who was chairman of the local committee for the wheat train, stated that the train was responsible for Smith Brothers purchasing 1,000 bushels of certified Nebraska No. 60 seed which they will use for planting 1,000 acres, the crop from which will all be sold locally for seed next year.

What is a Home is Discussed by Club Leader

Mrs. F. R. Galbraith of Ainsworth, Nebraska, Chairman of Home Department Gives Views.

From Wednesday's Daily— It is being jestingly remarked through the country press, that man has two main ambitions—one to own a home, the other to own an automobile to get away from home. It appears that love of society and pleasure is wrecking American home life.

Gifford Pinchot once remarked that the nation which will lead the world will be a nation of homes. At present the American home is receiving much criticism for having apparently lost grip on the moral, spiritual and general well-being of the young people. When speaking of homes and their influence on the community, we naturally think of their influence on the youth in those homes. We should not lose sight of the fact that the example set by the childless home also exerts a silent, powerful influence over the youth of that community.

Many remedies are being suggested for the revival of home life and parental responsibility. If stress is placed on only one or two factors of the ideal home, the results will be satisfactory and a well-rounded home life will not be established in America.

The women of America who are banded together in the Federation of Women's Clubs, recognizing the necessity of a revival of home interest, decided that the first step toward the rejuvenation of the American home would be to focus parental attention on home surroundings. Accordingly, the general Federation made the first appeal to home-makers, through the home equipment survey whose revealed facts made the basis for the Federation's better equipped homes' campaign, now in progress.

Parental responsibility in providing for the physical well-being of the home is one of the first steps in the revival of family life. Too many families own automobiles and not enough own homes. The true home spirit which should make the house the most loved spot on earth calls for owned homes, not rented ones. Children will find their pleasure at home when comfort and beauty and refining influences are there.

With the revival of family interest in the home, attention must then be given to the finer things which constitute happy family life. Courtesy, loving companionship and understanding must be fostered as vital factors in the true family circle. Providing clean literature, good music and constructive amusement for the youth, teaching love for home, and parents, and a respect for law and religion, is a two-fold parental responsibility which should be shared equally in building a well-rounded American home. Institutions for dependent children are striving to create the home atmosphere in the care of their children and they recognize that the selection of adequately trained employees is a most important single factor in providing for the mental health of the children. How much more should care be exercised in developing ideal home life.

It is the aim of the American Home Department of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs to encourage the development of that well-rounded home life, defined thus by a school boy, "Home is a place that father loves to work for, mother loves to work in, the children love to play in and their friends love to visit."
