Half of Bumper Corn Crop Past Danger of Frost

All Expected to Mature if Freeze Holds Off Three Weeks—Ears Free From Insect Damage

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 18.—Forty-seven per cent of Nebraska's corn crop was beyond danger of frost on September 15, and 87 per cent of it will be matured by October 1, if frost holds off, according to an official check made today by F. K. Reed, assistant statistician for the state and federal division of agricultural statistics.

The estimate is based upon a personal tour of inspection which covered the entire state, and upon preliminary compilations of the regular mid-month crop reports received from bankers in all parts of the state.

The hot weather during the first half of September matured a large proportion of the Nebraska corn crop, Reed said, and a record crop is almost certain in the southeastern section with good prospects for a record or near-record crop for the rest of the state.

In the drier sections of the state there will be some chaffy corn as a result of the hot, dry weather, the report indicated, but the damage done in this way will be much more than offset by the good done in other sections, most of which had plenty of moisture with the burning sun. The ears are unusually free from insect infestation and disease. More than 40 per cent of the crop in this section is now beyond frost danger and if good weather continues 90 per cent will be matured by October 1. The rest of the crop will take to October 10 to reach 100 per cent maturity. However, October 10 is earlier than the average date of the first killing frosts in the southeastern section, according to weather bureau records.

OXFORD IS TOLERANT

Oxford University in England is more tolerant than American institutions but its educational system is in some ways inferior to that in the United States, in the opinion of Sheldon Tefft, formerly of Weeping Water, who has returned from three years at Oxford as Rhodes scholar from Nebraska. Mr. Tefft will teach in the University of Nebraska College of Law this year.

Omaha Baker Purchaser of the Quality Bakery

D. H. Wentworth, Well Known Omaha Baker Purchases Fine Plant in This City.

From Wednesday's Daily—The Quality bakery, located in the Bekin building was sold yesterday afternoon to D. H. Wentworth of Omaha, well known baker of that city and who will take over the plant in the next few days and start the active management of the baking and sales department of this modern establishment.

The bakery has been in charge of Harold G. Renner since the death of his grandfather, the late C. L. Herzer, and the bakery has been enlarged with the placing of large modern ovens and a great deal of the latest type equipment that has made the bakery one of the most up to date in the state.

Mr. Renner has desired to move to the west for the past year and having the opportunity, disposed of his interest in the Omaha baker and who will prepare to at once take over the plant and start the active operation of the bakery.

The new owner of the Quality bakery comes to this city very highly recommended as a baker and one whose years of practical experience should give the people of this locality a real up to the minute service in the line of the best of the bakery goods.

Mr. Wentworth will receive a very hearty welcome from the residents of the city and will make a very pleasing addition to the citizenship of the community.

TELEPHONE CONTRIBUTIONS TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

The telephone, through research and experience, has become the father of an illustrious family of communication instruments including the Vitaphone, which furnishes a voice to motion pictures; an audiometer to test hearing; an electrical stethoscope which amplifies the faintest heart sounds; a public address system which carries a speaker's voice to tens of thousands; and the microphone—the heart of the radio.

Many of these devices are used in some form by the telephone industry in transmitting human speech; others have found a big and useful field in other industries. A force of 3,800 people, composed of scientists, engineers, chemists and research workers, are seeking better, cheaper and faster improvements in telephony.

This service is part of the contribution to the general welfare and happiness of the public which a privately owned and operated utility makes, and is in vivid contrast to the nonprogressive attitude of government owned and operated telephone systems in Europe where the service is so wretched.

RETURNS TO NEW YORK

From Wednesday's Daily—Cyril Janda, Jr., who has been visiting here for the past two weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Janda, Sr., departed this morning for his home at Brooklyn, New York, making the trip by auto. Mr. Janda was accompanied as far as Chicago by his brother-in-law, Julius A. Pitz, who will go from Chicago to Wisconsin for a visit there with old time friends and enjoy a short outing. Mr. Janda expects to attend the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Chicago on Thursday night and will then go on east to his home. Mr. Janda is an old time Plattsmouth boy and his stay here was enjoyed to the utmost by the relatives and friends in this city.

Missouri River Unceasing Source of Menacing Power

Efforts of the Stream on Iowa Side of River to Change Course of Water Flow.

The Missouri river that forms the boundaries between Cass and Mills counties is the source of unrelenting trouble as each year the stream threatens to change its course from near Polson and lay out a new channel in an effort to subdue the river to the present course and near the curve bridge of the Burlington.

The river overflowed to a great extent this spring and summer, the farm lands west and north of Pacific Junction and took toll of a great deal of land near Polson and placed the river in a position of even greater menace to the residents of the western part of Mills county.

In the past years the U. S. government, the state of Iowa, Mills county and the C. B. & Q. railroad have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in an effort to subdue the river but with very little success.

There seems to be only two methods of solving the river problem, one that of allowing the stream to seek a new channel through the farming land of Mills county, or the creation of concrete and breakwaters at points above the menaced sections that would turn the course of the main current to the Nebraska side of the river where the formation of the land seems more resisting to the river, particularly near this city and south.

Engineers representing the government have been in the vicinity of Polson, inspecting the condition of the river at that place and to decide on some steps that might permanently remedy the condition that exists in the stream along the Iowa side of the river.

A change in the current of the river and the flowing of the stream through Mills county would leave the present Burlington bridge over the river as the fording place of the remains of the mighty river as the most marked approval by all of the members of the small but thoroughly appreciative audience.

There were six members of the company and each of these proved real artists in their selections and their numbers were all received with the most marked approval by all of the members of the small but thoroughly appreciative audience.

George DeMoss, flutist, is one of the most artistic players on this instrument in the country and his work was an unending delight to everyone in the audience. Miss Florence Smith, pianist, was another of the artists that was much enjoyed by the audience.

The company is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert DeMoss, Mr. and Mrs. George DeMoss, Homer DeMoss and Miss Florence Smith.

George DeMoss was heard in a number of novelties that added much to the pleasures of the evening.

Several days ago Thomas Svoboda, constable, found a very high class bull dog on the street which had apparently been lost from some passing car and he has since cared for the dog at his home in the west part of the city. Mr. Svoboda watched for an advertisement for the dog and which not appearing he finally had the fact that he had found the dog announced over the radio. Yesterday a man named O. C. Carr of South Omaha came here and called on Mr. Svoboda and claimed the dog which was family pet and the loss of which had caused a great deal of grief to the children of the children of the family. Mr. Carr has just recently moved to Omaha from Shenandoah, Iowa, and while passing through this city the dog was lost from the auto of the family.

From Monday's Daily—Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Svoboda, the members of the John and Thomas Svoboda families were entertained very pleasantly in honor of the birthdays of Thomas Svoboda, Sr., and Jr., and which was attended by a very jolly party of the relatives. The time was spent in games and members with dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake being served that added to the gaiety of the occasion and it was a late hour when the members of the party departed for their homes.

Stolen Auto is Found in West Part of City

Ford Coupe of C. B. Briggs Recovered on Mainden Lane Yesterday Afternoon.

From Wednesday's Daily—The Ford coupe belonging to Chester B. Briggs, which was stolen on Tuesday night from the vicinity of the Kruger paint store, was recovered yesterday afternoon on Mainden Lane in the western part of the city. The car was abandoned at the end of Marble street on Mainden Lane this road being little used and very narrow and it appears the driver in attempting to turn the car around had backed over the end of a culvert into a small ditch and left it there. The glass in one of the doors was broken and the carburettor tampered with, also the key hidden under the floor mat, but otherwise it was not injured and was turned over by the police to the owner.

It is evident that the party that took this car had been the same one that later stopped at the W. H. Mason home and attempted to steal the car of Ed Wilcox and from that locality seems to have transferred his activities to the north portion of the city and stopped at the garage at the home of Andy Kroehler and there had taken the keys to the auto standing before but had been frightened away before he was able to make a getaway with the car. A few blocks away from the Kroehler home the Alexander car was also attempted to be run off and then the party or parties made a getaway with the Chevrolet coupe of Fred Smith and which car was later recovered by the police near LaPlatte.

The young man, W. M. Hudson, who was captured in possession of the Smith car had with him a bunch of keys that seem to be those taken from the Kroehler car, also the young man denies that he has any knowledge of the keys and claims that they were in the car when he got in at the invitation of two mysterious men who have since disappeared from the scene.

GIVE FINE CONCERT

From Wednesday's Daily—The concert given last evening at the First Presbyterian church by the DeMoss Concert company, was one of the most delightful musical offerings of the season and the numbers given by the whole ensemble and the solo selections kept the audience well entertained for the course of the concert.

There were six members of the company and each of these proved real artists in their selections and their numbers were all received with the most marked approval by all of the members of the small but thoroughly appreciative audience.

Gering Company Bought by Seiler

Third Firm Absorbed by Surgical Dealers of Metropolis in the Past Three Years.

From Monday's Daily—Purchase of the Henry R. Gering company, dealers in pharmaceutical preparations, of 1114-1116 Farnam street, by the Seiler Surgical company of 1818 Farnam street, was announced Saturday.

The Seiler laboratory at 1410-12 Harney street will be moved to the Farnam street location and combined with the Gering laboratory, one of the most complete in the west. The Gering company has been in existence for 20 years and has sold its products over the entire Omaha territory. The Gering interests retain the building and have leased it to the Seiler company for a long term.

The Henry R. Gering company is the third establishment absorbed by the Seiler company in the last five years. The others were the Midwest Hospital Supply company and the W. G. Cleveland company.

The officers of the company are: Nelson H. Heller, president and treasurer; E. E. Muffitt, secretary and manager of the surgical instrument department; A. W. Hallam, manager of the pharmaceutical department; F. E. Wilbur, manager of the physiotherapy department. J. O. Grossman is general city salesman.—Omaha Bee-News.

Since the serious illness of Henry R. Gering several months ago, during which time he has been bedfast at the family residence in this city, the affairs of the company have been looked after by Miss M. U. Gering, secretary of the company until the sale of the plant could be consummated and the building and business turned over to the purchasing concern.

World's Biggest Ox Makes Only a Short Stay

"Tom," Who Weighs 3,000 Pounds Makes a Short Stay Here While Entour

From Monday's Daily—Yesterday morning the citizens who were down in the main part of the city had the opportunity of viewing "Tom," the world's largest ox, and who was here for a short time while the truck in which he is being transported, made a short stop at the Plattsmouth Motor company garage.

The great animal who weighs 3,000 pounds and stands six feet, six inches in height is a sight that is not often seen of such a massive animal. "Tom" travels in a fifteen thousand dollar truck that is especially constructed for the purpose of handling the great animal and in which he travels in comfort from place to place over the country where he has attracted universal attention.

The great ox eats a bale of hay every night and is fed twice a day by his keeper, Bill Paris, who is a small man himself as he is six and one-half feet in height.

The ox was brought to the United States five years ago from Italy where he was purchased by Augustus A. Busch, president of the Anheuser-Busch Co., of St. Louis. Since the arrival of the ox from Italy he has been constantly on the go and being shown in all parts of the United States where he has attracted a great deal of attention.
