You must admit most of the girls aren't so bad as they're painted.

Household Hints: When baby drinks the ink write with a pencil.

Cheer up! If you swallow your collar button, at least you know where it is.

While fishing in the North Sea recently a trawler landed a big German mine.

The bachelor's idea relative to the divorce evil is that prevention is better than cure.

There isn't any wild west any more, so just where is the young man supposed to go?

Another need of the times is at least one more month between vacation and coal bills.

Most men would be glad to pay a large income tax for the sake of having that kind of income.

One of the principal troubles with the fast young man is that he isn't going in the right direction.

Rhode Island leads all the other states in density of population. It has 566 persons to the square mile.

Believe, if thou wilt, that mountains change their places, but believe not that man changes his nature.—Mohammed.

Spooning in public in Chicago "must be reasonably clandestine," is the edict of the city's attorney, Quick Watson, the dictionary!

The Constitution, the famous battleship known as Old Ironsides, is still preserved by the navy. It is in the Charleston navy yard at Boston.

"That wasn't no lady," the British bobby might have said of the young woman who told him to dash for hades the other day, "that was a courtesan."

On the other hand, some say Mr. Coolidge was little affected by the West and still retains the old faculty of ending the conversation before it begins.

Scientists invented a mechanism that will photograph man's thoughts. Probably nothing will come of it though, there being laws against infernal machines.

Congress is getting ready to convene and probably the first thing they'll do is attack Coolidge's foreign policy. We hardly can wait to find out what it is.

Here's Dora again! She's so dumb she thinks the sugar restriction bill that the Cuban senate passed the other day has something to do with the butter and egg men.

What is the matter with the authorities that they can't make the property holders of those empty buildings on Main street keep the glass in the front windows?

Says Dean Inge, "Government of, by and for the people is claptrap." Let us then shorten and revise the Gettysburg address. It now reads: "Claptrap shall not perish from the earth."

It has been said that farmers in Georgia are planning to carry and store the peanut crop over to spring and better prices. This is a current example of an attempt to exercise some sort of control over the price of a product.

Senator Hefflin, of Alabama, demands that all the speeches in the senate be broadcast during the next session of congress. Have radio fans nothing to say on that subject in this free country? May a merciful God spare us from being afflicted with Hefflin speeches, now and forevermore.

Senator Reed's candidacy is likely to start things. It will represent the formidable alternative put forward to Smith, and as such the campaign launched by the Missouri Democrats is taken in Washington as significant and important. Smith had and still has one advantage over every other aspirant—a strong nucleus of support in nearly every state from coast to coast.

"Puss" is an old Irish or Gaelic name for a cat.

An old rubber heel nailed to the floor makes a noiseless doorstep.

A man seldom goes to a friend for a loan if he really needs the money.

Don't be ashamed to wear your old clothes until you are able to pay for new ones.

Michigan has no speed limit except the trees, telephone poles and bridge abutments.

Lots of us didn't choose to come back from our vacation, but we came just the same.

Consider the tack and the automobile tire and don't go around blowing yourself up.

Oil is reported to have been found in China, in which country was known to exist before.

Every woman is likely to be in the wrong until she begins to cry—then she is in the right.

Afterthought: The crushing retort you think of when the other driver is already a block away.

If Gene Tunney goes into the movies we can suggest a title for his first picture—"Pay, Brother, Pay."

It is intimated that the American Federation of Labor is still "playing with" the idea of a five day working week.

Maybe one of the reasons you don't see women knitting these days is because wool catches fire from the tiniest spark.

The Harvard football team entertained the Vermont eleven at tea after their game. The Crimson seems to be getting just a little pink.

According to that Admiral whose literary labors on the side are being looked into, our navy organization has more organization than navy.

If the pen is mightier than the sword, those surplus typewriters to which Admiral Magruder objects are possibly the guns of a paper cruiser.

Our idea of a superfluous entertainment is a husband-calling contest. A wife-calling contest might be a terrible flop, but it would be news.

The government of Russia has fired Leon Trotsky again. We can't remember the day, but understand that Trotsky usually gets fired on Saturday night.

The American people spend ten times as much money for sugar as for books, some statisticians has announced. The pantry is mightier than the library.

The head of the prohibition forces in Washington says intelligence agents have been assigned to investigate at several big colleges. Wonder what they're hunting for—liquor or intelligence?

Recent purchase of New York Stock Exchange memberships have been at prices around $235,000. This is a big price. It has been suggested that the New York Stock Exchange will some day be an international market of great scope.

In 1664 Pope Paul II prescribed the red skull-cap as the regular headdress for cardinals who had been secular priests. Later the "red hat" became the headdress of all cardinals. The red symbolizes their willingness to shed their blood for the Savior.

At present, a well-known auto accessory manufacturer is spending good money in a courageous effort to persuade people away from the fad for ornamental radiator caps, when he ought to be adapting his device to fit in with the popular fancy.

Former night policeman, Jackson, who is a Missourian, was down in that state Sunday, and brought home a sack of pawpaws, and he favored us with a baker's dozen—thirteen, which we enjoyed very much, coming as they did from our old home state. Thanks, Mr. Jackson.

WHAT, ANOTHER HOLIDAY?

With Mother's Day, Father's Day, and all the rest, it requires a good deal of temerity to suggest another holiday.

Yet I make bold to propose Grandfather's Day, to be celebrated in the following manner:

Each citizen to provide himself with a pocketknife, a pipe, a board and a cornob pipe, and spend the day in whittling and IN THOUGHT.

It is impossible to exaggerate the good that might come from such a day, faithfully observed around the world.

Look at the front page of the morning paper; what a feverish panorama it unfolds! We rush into conferences and rush out again; we legislate; we strike; we resolve and denounce; we are all perfectly sure that we want something, but what we want we have no clear idea, because we have never stopped long enough to think.

Some years ago an eminent Hinduo visited our shores. Said he: "I do not see how it is possible for you to live as you do, without a single moment of your day deliberately given to tranquility and meditation. It is an inevitable part of our Hinduo life to retire for at least half an hour daily into silence, to relax our muscles, govern our breathing and meditate on eternal things."

The Hinduos may not have progressed mechanically so fast as we, but they have some perspective on life, some inner sense of what it is all about. In that respect our men of vision have resembled them.

Give such men full credit for talent, hard work, energy and all the rest—there still remains a deeper, more subtle source of power. Somewhere, inside themselves, they have a secret place to which they can retire, there to take stock of their resources, revise their aims, relocate their goals and correct their point of view on men and events.

Such a service of revisions and corrections Grandfather's Day might do for us; it would exercise us at least once a year in the wholesome experience of doing a little silent thinking on our own account.

St. Francis of Assisi, buried in thought, walked all day along the borders of a beautiful lake. As his companions were conversing that night, he heard one of them mention the lake.

"What lake?" inquired St. Francis. Every day was Grandfather's Day to him. Which is one of the reasons why he was St. Francis.—Bruce Barton.

Let us reassert the truth of the doctrine that if this people is to remain free, local self-government and the sovereignty of the states must be preserved.

The federal power should be brought within the limits not only of the letter, but also within the spirit of the Constitution.

The march of centralization must be arrested.

Government by boards and bureaucracies must cease.

Let us demand: The honest administration of government;

The swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe-mongers and other malefactors;

The equalization of the burden of taxation;

The repeal of all laws creating special privileges;

The dismissal of an army of spies, snoopers, sneaks and informers;

The liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by governmental agents;

The prosecution and punishment of those who by trust, combination and restraints of trade make war on honest business and despoil the people.

This platform in the main is a reassertion of the Bill of Rights and the principles embodied in the Constitution, on which the republic is founded. It is a sound platform.

Whatever may happen, it is evident that Senator Reed will not be a deadhead in the presidential campaign. He has started a fight, with all high fighting qualities working under high pressure.

IS A TREE WORTH A DOLLAR?

Up at Franconia Notch, in the White Mountains of New Hampshire, a strange new voice fills the air and the Old Man of the Mountains is worried. It is the voice of the ax ringing out its threat to the forest.

The Great Stone Face, immortalized by Nathaniel Hawthorne, fears the loss of his friends, his friends that have stood there with him for centuries. Men's desire for a few more board feet of lumber is the motif.

Not a tourist goes into New England but visits Franconia Notch to see the Old Man, in his beautiful surroundings. There is Profile Lake and the Flume that has been carved by the torrents of ages washing against the solid rock of the hills. Echo Lake sits like a jewel on a natural carpet of beautiful texture, and there are the Mirroring Basin and the Pool, Carassing Shoulder Mountain is Lonesome Lake. Over all this the Great Stone Face has looked for ages, and it all have been beautiful and good.

Now the song of the ax on the grindstone echoes up through the wooded valley. The Old Man of the Mountain looks down upon his scenic Paradise and hears the harsh song with horror. They are about to slay the Old Man's friends, the trees where the sweet birds sing, the trees that hold the water, clothe the hillsides and provide firewood for the bleak night.

Stumps! Here they would be like the blackened butts of cigars strewn upon a priceless Oriental rug!

To help the society for the protection of New Hampshire forests, the American Nature Association, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., has started a campaign to have the public buy the Notch. You can buy a tree by sending the association a dollar. No better memorial could be chosen.

Camel The cigarette that earned first place by its goodness. The greatest endorsement ever given to a cigarette is revealed by the fact that Government figures show that more Camels are being smoked today than ever before. An endorsement by the many—not the few. Includes image of a Camel cigarette pack and text: 'If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.'

What about Plattsmouth? Oh, she's all right!

We don't pretend to know anything about women's styles, but are against high heels, when worn with modern dresses. They are leftovers of the mauve decade, and would fit in nicely with gilt furniture, bustles, picture hats, Gibson girls, and horses and buggies. Knees and high heels just don't belong in the same picture.
