Less Cattle on Feed in Nebraska the Coming Year

Corn Prices Check Buying of Feeders Says State Report—Sweet Clover Crop Increased

Present information indicates that less cattle will be fed in Nebraska this winter than last. Conditions also indicate that considerably fewer cattle will be fed in both the corn belt and western states, according to a statement made today by the state and federal division of agricultural statistics.

The indicated reduction in feeding in the corn belt and western states may be accounted for by the big drop off in available supplies of feeder cattle with resulting high prices, a threatened shortage in the corn crop in important feeding areas with the consequent big advance in corn prices, and short pastures in many feeding areas during August and September.

In Nebraska, hay and feed supplies are plentiful but at present cattle feeders are not placing cattle in the feed lots on account of the high price of feeder cattle and of corn. It is probable, however, that developments later in the season may place the total number of cattle fed this year above last year's total. Some sections of the state, particularly the northwest, will feed more cattle than last year with probably some increase in the central and south central sections of the state. Less locally raised corn will be available for feeding this year on account of last year's forced shipment which reduced breeding herds.

Shipments of unfinished cattle passing through stockyards points into the corn belt during the last months July to September this year were 25 per cent smaller than for the same period last year and the smallest in ten years. Supplies of locally raised cattle in this area were considerably smaller on January 1, 1927, than for any year in the last five years. Shipments to market during the first six months of 1927 were almost as large as 1926 when they were the second largest on record. Everything points to a much smaller available supply of feeding cattle in these states than last year.

The improved outlook for corn production and weakening corn prices may be expected to stimulate the demand for feeder cattle during the next two months although price for such cattle is now nearly $2 above the price at this time last year. The latest estimate of the corn crop shows a crop supplies in the corn belt to be about equal to last year. States west of the Missouri river will have more corn while states east of the Mississippi will have much less. A considerable decrease in feeding is expected in the latter states compared to last year. Some increase in feeding is expected in the Trans-Missouri area if supplies of cattle are forthcoming.

In spite of the high prices on heavy finished cattle that have prevailed for some months, available information does not show any increased movement of heavy feeders to feed lots. In fact the proportion of heavy feeders that moved into feed lots from the principal markets has been smaller than last year. If this situation continues during the next two months the supply of heavy finished steers next winter and spring may be even smaller than it was last year.

Democrats to Hold District Caucuses

O'Malley Says That He Won't Be Delegate to Convention on Any "Slate."

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 20.—George O'Malley of Greeley county and Max Adams of Dannebrog, both of whom attended the caucus of democratic members of the legislature at Grand Island this week, were in Lincoln today and outlined the plan of district caucuses to be held by democratic leaders in each congressional district this fall.

O'Malley is democratic floor leader of the house, and has been mentioned prominently as a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor. Adams was chairman of the Grand Island caucus.

The district meetings will be held to go over democratic policies before the campaign, and will be followed by another state meeting composed of delegates named at the district meetings.

This second conference, according to Adams, will be held at Grand Island probably, and will be for the purpose of recommending democratic policies for the campaign.

Each district meeting will be in charge of two vice-chairmen, Adams declared, who will be appointed by himself and Charles Chapelle of Minden, secretary of the Grand Island caucus.

The district caucuses will strive to get good men to file for the legislature and state offices, said Adams.

Two planks which probably will be in the democratic platform, according to O'Malley, are the repeal of the state bank guaranty law and recommendation of the repeal of the state intangible tax law.

O'Malley said today he had not made up his mind whether he would file for governor and also as to whether he will be a candidate for delegate at large to the democratic national convention.

"I would only be a candidate for delegate on condition that I could vote for the candidate best fitted to carry out the ideals of the democratic party and will not be pledged to any slate," O'Malley declared.

SMALL STORES MUST ORGANIZE TO FIGHT CHAINS

Small retailers need not be frozen out by the chain store systems, provided they will organize as have the fruit growers, according to Edward A. Filene, president of Wm. Filene's Sons company, speaking before the National Association of Stationers, Office Outfitters and Manufacturers at the Hotel Statler at Boston.

"Concentrated ownership is not essential to the success of the chain store plan. If the small stores will form strong associations, pool their buying, and adopt the cost cutting methods used by the chains they will have all the advantages of the chain store system, combined with the many advantages that go with owner-management."

Mr. Filene believes that there is a tendency in many lines of trade to do away with the wholesaler. There is an opportunity, he says, for the wholesaler to save himself, by taking the initiative in organizing their retail customers into chains of individually owned stores.

"Compared with the past," says Mr. Filene, "this is the Golden Age of American Business. But it is nowhere nearly as golden as the time that are ahead for those business men who organize themselves to handle mass distribution."

UNAWARE OF WOODEN LEG

Chicago, Oct. 19.—It was not until after several months of married life that Mrs. Clarence Johnson discovered her husband had a wooden leg, when he took it off to heat her with it, she testified in obtaining a divorce today.

"Why, I never dreamed he had a wooden leg, but when he went as far as to take it off and beat me with it, I couldn't help but notice it," she told the judge. "You see I first met him at a ball, and his divine dancing it was that led to our hasty marriage shortly afterward," she said.

Mrs. Clayton Re-Elected Head of W. C. T. U.

Other Officers Also Retained—Joint Committee to Investigate Candidates for Office.

Mrs. Clara C. Clayton of Lincoln, was re-elected president of the Nebraska Women's Christian Temperance union at the morning session of the fifty-third annual convention at Omaha, Thursday. She has served two terms.

Rev. Iva M. Innis of Hildreth was re-elected vice-president, and Mrs. Mary Lee Seibert of Chapman was re-elected corresponding secretary. It will be the ninth year Mrs. Seibert will fill this office.

Ex-Ex. C. Maxey of Lincoln was re-elected to the office of recording secretary which she has filled several years. Mrs. Agnes D. Roberts of Omaha, treasurer, was re-elected as was Mrs. Leila G. Dyer of Boone, auditor. Both women have filled the offices for a number of years.

The next annual convention will be held at Grand Island.

The union will ask ministers in Nebraska to set aside on Sunday during the coming year as Temperance Sunday. Both women have yet tried for special services to be given to the W. C. T. U.

A plea for young women workers was made in the morning devotional service by Mrs. Hattie Sylvester, state organizer.

The organization must be active in both political parties and guard against the nomination of wet candidates, Mrs. Clayton said. She said nomination of Governor Al Smith would be a "positive menace."

A motion was passed which gave the president power to appoint two members from each political party to act as a committee to investigate the records of the election candidates of their respective parties.

The accepted resolutions favor an educational campaign for the promotion of law observance, state that prohibition power should be used for dealing with the liquor traffic, declare the use of cigars demoralizing, and deplore the increase of cigarette smoking by women as well as men. An appeal is made also to the merchants to refrain from the sale of cigars and confections that contain alcohol.

Dunbar Company Into Bankruptcy

Transactions of Burton Gorton, the Former Manager, Figure Largely in Schedules.

The Dunbar Grain company of Dunbar filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition Wednesday in federal court, setting forth debts of $28,158 and assets of $24,286. Two-thirds of the latter figure represents the amount alleged due from Burton Gorton, former manager of the company. He is said to owe the company $18,080 for checks he drew against it in the three years ending last Aug. 1, and also $940 on a note. There is charged against Gorton the loss of speculation with E. R. Stripp & Company of Kansas City, noted in the company's books under "wheat." The company holds a $5,000 bond of the National Surety company of New York, to indemnify it against loss by larceny or embezzlement on the part of Gorton.

The only secured claim listed is that of the Oteo County National bank for $2,651 due on a $5,000 note given last May. This note was guaranteed by ten men, who in turn were given a chattel mortgage on the contents of Nebraska City, $2,611; John H. Turle of Dunbar, $2,559; George R. Roose of Dunbar, $5,129.

The company lists three elevators, each with its equipment valued at $6,000. They are in Dunbar, one on the Missouri Pacific right-of-way recently sold, and the others on the Burlington. Other assets, besides the sums alleged to be due from Mr. Gorton, are $1,243 due on open accounts, $43.04 cash, four fire insurance policies for a total face value of $41,000 and three windstorm insurance policies for $22,000. Leases on the elevator sites are also listed.

The petition is signed by W. M. Gess, president of the company, and J. P. Baker, secretary.—State Journal.
